SKYLAB SENDOFF — Six seconds after ignition, according to the countdown clock in foreground, the largest spaceship ever launched begins climbing from the launch pad at Cape Kennedy. The 6.2-million-pound space machine went into near-perfect orbit minutes after its 10:30 a.m. PDT launch, and its automatic mechanisms began preparing it for use by its astronaut crew which is expected to rocket into orbit tomorrow. Skylab Into Orbit Right On Schedule

Astronauts Set To Join Big Spaceship Tomorrow

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — While the Skylab 1 astronauts watched from the ground, their space station rocketed into space today to push back the frontier of manned orbital endurance and cash in on the promise of spaceflight.

Moonwalk veteran Charles "Pete" Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, America's first space physician, and aeronautical engineer Paul J. Weitz will take off 23 ½ hours later and spend a record 28 days in orbit aboard the Skylab. The Russians hold the current space record of 24 days in orbit.

Skylab 1, an eight-room assembly as spacious as a three-bedroom house, began its eight-month voyage around earth on a 33-story Saturn 5 rocket left over from the moon program.

It was the start of the nation's fourth manned spaceflight project in 12 years.

Among the thousands of spectators were the astronauts' families, several dozen former prisoners of war and thousands of other space agency guests. Civil Defense officials planned for a crowd of a half million around the spaceport.

All Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz could do today was watch, wait and hope.

"I'm most worried about it just getting into orbit," Weitz said in a pre-launch interview. A failure would mean a delay of a year or more until a substitute lab could be readied.

Skylab must operate untended in orbit for more than a day. But its most critical oribtal operations are during the first hour when it swings its solar observatory into place and unfolds the six huge winglike panels that will convert sunlight into electricity for eight months of service.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz plan to dock their modified moonship to Skylab seven hours, 40 minutes after their launch tomorrow. They are to enter the 118-foot station Wednesday morning and spend the next two days turning it into America's first base in space.

"By this Saturday, all things going the way we hope, we should have a fully operational space station in orbit to bring back the data in science and technology to help all of us on earth," Project Director William C. Schneider said at a briefing yesterday.

The three Skylab 1 astronauts are to return to Earth June 12 in the Apollo, leaving Skylab in orbit. A second crew goes up Aug. 8 to spend 56 days aboard the space platform, and a third crew is to close out the $2.6 billion project with another 56 day mission Nov. 9 to Jan. 4.

Skylab's orbit was designed to take it farther north and south than Americans have ever flown aaround Earth. It will range from southern Canada to the southern tip of South America, and Skylab will pass over much of Russia and all of China.

The sun glistening off the space station at sunrise and sunset will make it look like a bright star streaking southeast or northeast. It will fly over 89 per cent of the world's population during the eight months and NASA plans to compute viewing times for many areas.

Surrender Ends Death Threat

A Mill Valley man, threatening to kill himself, held policemen at bay for two hours early today before being talked into coming down from the roof of his hillside house.

The man, Thomas Roger Lescohier, 20, who earlier had shot out the window of his mother's car, finally was persuaded by Police Chief William A. Walsh to surrender and was held for psychiatric observation.

Mill Valley police gave this account of the bizarre chain of events:

Shortly before 11 p.m. yesterday Ruth Lescohier, of 407 Magee Avenue, got a telephone call from her son, Thomas, who told her he needed a ride home because his car had broken down on Miller Avenue.

When Mrs. Lescohier arrived her son told her he was so upset he was going to shoot out some windows with a pistol, police said. He then took a shot at a coin laundry at 336 Miller Avenue but apparently missed.

Lescohier then asked his mother to take him home, but as they drove along she told him she was going to take him to the police station instead, so officers said he aimed the gun across the car and shot out the front left window.

Mrs. Lescohier then jumped out of the car at Sunnyside and Miller avenues and asked a passerby to take her to the police station. Lescohier, meanwhile, drove his mother's car home.

Police said officers went to the house about 11 p.m. and asked Lescohier to come out of the house but he told them he wouldn't be taken alive and would shoot any officer who tried to come for him.

Several volleys of tear gas were fired into the house, police said, but somehow Lescohier managed to slip onto the roof and held police at bay for two hours by threatening to kill himself.

During this time, police said, Lescohier was armed but no shot was fired. About 1:14 a.m., Police Chief Walsh sent all other officers away and Lescohier agreed to come down. He was taken to the community mental health center for observation.

The Lescohier home is almost directly across the street from the house of Melvin J. Schallock, who was murdered along with his wife and son on March 16 but there appears to be no connection between the two incidents, police said.

Record Gold Cost Cause Is Debated

LONDON (UPI) — Gold leaped to the highest price in history on European free markets today, easily passing the $100-an-ounce "barrier." A major British dealer linked the gold stampede to a lack of confidence brought on by the Watergate affair but others disagreed.

The gold rush which saw a price of $106.70 on the French commercial market sent the dollar skidding on European money markets as speculators and multi-national companies unloaded U.S. currency for the precious yellow metal. U.S. tourists joined the stampede to buy gold.

"People with surplus dollars are getting out of the currency into gold," said Dennis Selby, chief bullion dealer for the London gold brokerage firm of Johnson Matthey, Ltd. "Water-

War Funds Hit Block In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted, 13 to 3, today in favor of prohibiting U.S. military operations in Indochina.

As antiwar legislation continued to sweep through Congress, the committee adopted a proposal by Sens. Frank Church, D-Ida., and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., while a Senate subcommittee voted to allow the Pentagon to shift $170 million from one account to another to meet higher costs of operation abroad. The subcommittee included a stipulation that none of the money could be used for U.S. military activities in Laos or Cambodia.

The subcommittee went on record to partially reverse a House vote last week to kill $430 million in so-called transfer authority sought by the Pentagon as a result of unexpected costs associated with the war in Indochina and other factors.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the subcommittee, said the group adopted an amendment to bar use of any of the money to pay for operations in, over or from the

Earthquake Drill: Fiasco, Smooth

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Reaction today to last Friday's live action emergency-disaster drill ranged from a "smoothly run operation" in Novato to "an utter fiasco" in San Rafael.

All those participating in today's analysis of Marin's response to a simulated earthquake called the two-hour exercise a valuable demonstration of shortcomings to be corrected.

The critique drew about 30 persons from participating cities, schools, police and fire departments, private organizations and the county.

The disaster drill, staged Friday at 2 p.m. in three locations, was designed to test the medical profession's response in time of disaster and its coordination with police, fire and rescue operations.

The exercise and the simulated injuries were so realistic, participants reported today, that in West Marin some motorists passing the scene of a mock bus crash stopped in white-faced horror to offer assistance to 25 "victims."

County mental health officials in West Marin had to calm one woman overcome by another's

Judge Hands Dean's File To Watergate Probers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge John J. Sirica ruled today that both government prosecutors and the Senate's special Watergate committee were entitled to see secret papers that ousted White House aide John W. Dean locked in a bank safety deposit box.

Sirica, chief judge of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, instructed the court clerk to take possession of the papers and to provide certified copies to the federal prosecutors and to the Senate committee which also is investigating the scandal.

"Everybody wins," Sirica said in announcing his decision following a 25-minute hearing on the so-called Dean Papers, possibly bearing on the Watergate case.

Dean, himself was at the hearing, appearing under heavy strain and looking haggard. He told Sirica the papers were classified "top secret."

Asked by the judge where they came from, Dean said, "A combination of several agencies including the FBI and other national security agencies."

The judge subsequently directed Dean to go to his bank to get the documents and bring them back to the court.

Not far away, in the federal courthouse, another of the aides that President Nixon dropped two weeks ago, chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, appeared for another meeting with a grand jury investigating Watergate.

Haldeman told reporters: "I am cooperating fully with the grand jury and I will with the Senate committee (that begins public hearings Thursday). I have no intention of taking the

Novato School Surplus Fund Off, Deficit Due

By FRANK FARRARA

Novato Unified School District, which last month was contemplating a $920,000 surplus next year, now faces a $755,000 deficit as it scrambles to avoid a $1,675,000 loss in state and federal funding.

The financial outlook was shattered by the cutback at Hamilton Air Force Base, expected to bring a sharp decline in enrollment, the barometer of funding.

An urgent drive is under way to regain funding, slated to drop as enrollment drops, and bail the district out of financial chaos during the 1973-74 school year.

Rep. William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, is preparing a measure that would enable the district to recoup some of the expected loss, and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-San Francisco has started queries in Washington on restoring federal funding.

The financial crunch is expected because the district faces carrying a surplus of 45 to 50 teachers, staff members it cannot lay off under state law, because they weren't notified by March 15 that their contracts might not be renewed.

At that time, the cutback at Hamilton was not foreseen by the district administration and, indeed, could not have been in the light of repeated denials by the Air Force and Defense Department that any such plan was in the works.

Carrying the surplus teachers on the payroll is estimated by the district administration to cost from $540,000 to $600,000 next school year, or about $12,000 a teacher. In addition, the district is faced with a demand by teachers, including those who are surplus, that their pay be raised sufficiently to raise Novato Schools from 65th place out of 77 Bay Area district payrolls to the median level.

Iris Cloudt, president of the Novato Federation of Teachers, a union group, has repeatedly declared that teachers can no longer "subsidize the educational program in Novato schools directly out of their own salaries."

The outlook is clouded by the fact that no one knows exactly what the enrollment will be in the coming school year and teachers contend the enrollment drop won't be as severe as the administration has estimated.

With persistent reports that other military families will move into the housing vacated by Air Force families, teachers believe the dip will be modified.

Supt. James G. Bunker has estimated the district will lose 1,370 in average daily attendance and will be hit harder by military base cutbacks than any other district in California.

He estimated the district will lose $1,135,000 in Senate Bill 90 funds, based on attendance, and $540,000 in Public Law 874 funds (federal) paid to districts serving pupils connected with federal bases.

Bunker said he is seeking legislation that would permit the district to receive the state apportionment it would have received on attendance forecast before the Hamilton Cutback. The district even is willing to share half the costs, he said.

Bunker said it hasn't yet been decided what the "surplus" teachers will be doing in the coming year, since the enrollment isn't known.

Among the suggestions have been to use the teachers in special programs, as full-time

One Dead, Six Hurt In Freak Highway Crash

A Sonoma woman was killed and six other persons injured yesterday in a freak collision on Highway 37 in Novato.

Killed was Joyce Lynn Hammond, 40, the driver of a car which careened into the center divider at 84 miles per hour, flipped into the air and came down on top of another auto.

Injured were Mrs. Hammond's daughter, Jennifer, and five members of a family in the other car.

The California Highway Patrol said Mrs. Hammond was eastbound on Highway 37 west of Atherton Avenue about 7:20 p.m. yesterday. Her car passed one auto, then swerved into the center divider of the freeway, striking it twice.

The car then flipped several times and flew through the air, coming down in the opposite lane on top of a car driven by Alfredo Lovi Jr., 38, of 50 Convent Court, San Rafael.

Mrs. Hammond was killed and her daughter, Jennifer, 13, was taken to Marin General Hospital where she was reported in good condition today with scrapes and an injured right arm.

Lovi and his wife, Mary, 35, were treated at Novato General Hospital for minor injuries. Their daughter, Linda, 12, was reported in satisfactory condition today with a broken right arm. Lovi's parents, Alfredo, 74, and Civiliana, 62, both of South San Francisco, also were admitted with assorted bruises and scrapes and reported in satisfactory condition today.

The Marin County Coroner's Office said Mrs. Hammond, a native of California, is survived by her mother, Louise Connor, of San Bruno. Funeral arrangements were pending today at Redwood Chapel, Novato.

Her death was the ninth in Marin traffic this year, compared to 11 at this time last year.

Clouds Of Venus

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Astronomers at Cal Tech said yesterday that Venus has a weather cycle lasting four days in which cloud layers rise and fall nearly a mile in an "accordion-like movement."

Dr. Louise Young said the team found that carbon-dioxide levels on the mysterious plant fluctuate by as much as 20 per cent, creating a rhythmic cloud movement.

"We seem to be observing a fundamental feature of Venus' weather dynamics that are not explained by current theories of atmospheric circulation," the scientists said.

Left, Unions Meet

CHICAGO (UPI) — More than 200 leftist and labor union groups agreed yesterday to set aside their differences and unite in a new organization to combat racism and political repression.

The 210 groups forming the coalition agreed that the issue of repression dwarfed all differences between the individual groups.

Arms Cut Talks

VIENNA (UPI) — Talks on the reduction of armed forces and weapons in Central Europe resumed today between East and West after a 14-week break. Because of quarrels, the conference was still without even a name.

Negotiators from 19 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and Warsaw Pact nations met formally for the first time since Jan. 31 when the talks adjourned after only 35 minutes because of disagreement over who should take part.

The meeting today took place in a windowless, wood panelled board room of the U.N. Atomic Energy Agency headquarters.

Death In Ireland

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen exchanged fire with an army checkpoint near Coagh, 25 miles west of Belfast early today. Shortly afterward, a man's body was found in an overturned van.

An army spokesman said the man had been shot through the head.

The checkpoint was manned by militiamen of the Ulster Defense Regiments, the army said.

Rogers In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — If Secretary of State William P. Rogers obtained approval yesterday for a plan to ease one of the main points of ill feeling between Mexico and the United States, he did not indicate it.

The issue is the amount of salt in the Colorado river waters.

Rogers said that he outlined a series of proposals that could permanently and "justly" resolve the problem when he conferred with President Luis Echeverria. But he did not indicate Echeverria responded during a farewell round of talks that lasted one and three-quarter hours.

Bruce In China

HONG KONG (UPI) — David K. E. Bruce, the first American diplomat in Peking in 24 years, walked into China today across the covered Low Wu bridge forming the border with Hong Kong.

The 75-year-old envoy, his wife and three other members of the American party were traveling to Canton by train and then on by Chinese airliner to Peking to open a U.S. Liaison mission there.

"I have no idea when we will have a full embassy in Peking," he said.

Gain Over Reds

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian authorities announced today a "major victory" by government forces battling Communists for nearly eight weeks in and near Takeo, a besieged provincial capital 55 miles south of Phnom Penh.

Heavy fighting and intensive U.S. bombing were reported in other parts of the country with no formal cease-fire agreement.

Spokesmen for the Cambodian high military command said Cambodian troops killed 62 Communist troops Sunday.

Blind Students Climb Mountain

TIMBERLINE LODGE, Ore. (UPI) — Six blind teen-agers, including two girls, climbed to the peak of 11,245-foot high Mt. Hood yesterday a feat "a lot of adults can't do."

"They surprised all of us. They just putted along—just like veterans," said Elmer Willmore of Portland, one of the leaders of the climb.

Willmore said the six, aged 13 to 18 including two 13-year-old girls, were very proud of their accomplishment. All are students at the Washington School for the Blind at Vancouver.

Libya Threatens Oilfield Seizure

TRIPOLI, Libya (UPI) — Col. Moammar Khadafy assailed the United States as a "criminal state" yesterday and said his government is considering ways of taking over the billion dollar oil industry controlled by Western nations.

The Libyan leader also told newsmen that he was arming his people in response to attempts by the United States to intimidate his country with warplanes and aircraft carriers.

"If this world is a jungle, we are capable of becoming one of its beasts," he said. "We do not have atomic bombs or aircraft carriers but we can die for our rights."

During a 5-½ hour news conference, the 30-year-old chairman of the Revolution Command Council told 300 foreign reporters that negotiations were under way for the takeover of foreign-owned oil installations.

Libya is the world's sixth largest oil producer, exporting 2.7 million barrels of high grade crude a day.

It was, Khadafy said, one of the sovereign rights of the state that owns oil wells to decide whether to buy or nationalize them.

"Buying or nationalization," he said, "are subject to numerous circumstances. Such things may happen and may not depending on circumstances...(Oil producing) countries are sometimes forced to do something of this sort, but they have to choose the suitable circumstance."

COL. MOAMMAR KHADAFY
Lashes U.S. warship

Khadafy accused Western oil companies of an "aggressive conspiracy" against his country and said about seven Israelis were arrested in the employ of the American Oasis Co. in Libya.

Khadafy summoned newsmen to discuss the ideas behind the "Popular and Cultural Revolution" he announced for Libya in a speech April 13.

Dressed in a green and brown tweed suit, Khadafy sat on the stage of a theater in front of a bank of microphones. Behind him was the flag of the Federation of Arab Republics, which includes Libya, Egypt and Syria.

Martha Denies Hospital Stay To Calm Her Nerves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time magazine said yesterday that Martha Mitchell, wife of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell has undergone treatment for a nervous breakdown. But Mrs. Mitchell returned to her midtown apartment yesterday and denied it.

At the Mitchells' midtown Manhattan apartment, doorman Edward Garner said Mrs. Mitchell and a female friend entered the building about 4:30 p.m. and "seemed okay—she was in good spirits." Garner, who said he personally had not seen Mrs. Mitchell in a week, said she and the friend who drove the car in which they arrived made two trips between the car and the apartment carrying "flowers, a plant, and some bags." He said he thought they "came from the country."

Time magazine said Mrs. Mitchell voluntarily entered a medical institution after her deposition appearance May 3 in the Watergate bugging situation because she was "unable to sleep, distraught, and unhappy."

The New York Times last night reported a telephone conversation with Mrs. Mitchell, in which she denied the report, saying "Anybody who says that, why, they're just as crazy as can be." But the Times said it had learned from a source at the hospital where she was supposed to have stayed that she "did arrive at the institution shortly after midnight last Monday," apppearing "docile" and "possibly drugged." It quoted Mrs. Mitchell as calling that report "nonsense."

Ellsberg To Shut Nixon From Mind

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Daniel Ellsberg hopes "never to think" about President Nixon again. His codefendant in the Pentagon Papers trial, Anthony J. Russo, intends to organize a movement to impeach the President.

Russo said he is flying to Chicago this week to set up the movement and establish "impeachment information centers" throughout the nation.

Ellsberg said he has no plans to take part in the impeachment drive and will retire to a private life, for the time being, with his wife.

"I've been thinking about Richard Nixon for several years," Ellsberg said. "I've thought enough about him. I hope never to think about him again."

Charges of espionage, conspiracy and theft were dropped against the two Friday by U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne, who cited government misconduct in his decision.

At a weekend news conference, Leonard Boudin, an attorney for Ellsberg, said a damage suit would be filed in Washington against Nixon administration officials to recover part of the estimated $900,000 spent by the defense in the case.

In other developments:

Hank Greenspun, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun, said an unsuccessful attempt was made last year to jimmy open his safe, which held material pertaining to Sen. Edmund Muskie. "Whether it was related to the Watergate thing, we have no way of knowing," Greenspun said.

Journalists Leave

Treasury Official Is Tied To Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Treasury Department official voluntarily went on "administrative leave" yesterday following a published report he offered a Watergate conspirator executive clemency in return for silence.

A Treasury spokesman said John J. Caulfield, 44, asked for the leave on his own initiative and it was granted "through normal channels."

He is at least the 14th government official to step aside after being publicly linked to the Watergate scandal.

The Los Angeles Times reported earlier yesterday that Caulfield, a former White House aide, held two secret meetings last January with James W. McCord Jr., who was then on trial for conspiracy, burglary and bugging in the Watergate case.

The Times, citing "a source involved in the matter," said Caulfield "repeatedly told McCord at these meetings ... that McCord could expect executive clemency in 10 or 11 months if he remained silent at the trial and accepted imprisonment."

The newspaper said the meetings took place by prearrangement in the woods along the George Washington Memorial Parkway across the Potomac River from Washington.

McCord later was convicted in connection with the June 17, 1972, bugging of Democratic national headquarters

Caulfield is a 15-year veteran of the New York City Police Department. He spent three years on the White House staff, as an aide to presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman and later to White House counsel John W. Dean III, working on law enforcement policy.

Caulfield moved to the Treasury Department a year ago—after the alleged meetings with McCord. Since July 1, he has held the title of assistant director for criminal enforcement in the department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau.

McCord has testified that he repeatedly turned down similar offers of clemency relayed to him by co-conspirator E. Howard Hunt. In his sworn testimony that has been made public, McCord never mentioned such an offer from Caulfield.

McCord did say that Caulfield recruited him to become security chief for President Nixon's re-election campaign.

The Los Angeles Times' report was the second recent reference to executive clemency in the Watergate case. Newsweek magazine earlier quoted Dean as quoting John Ehrlichman as saying President Nixon would consider clemency for Hunt.

Bishop Claims Prisoners Held

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Roman Catholic bishop says political prisoners are still being held in South Vietnam despite denials by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Detroit, said in the current issue of the National Catholic Reporter, "I can state unequivocally that there are political prisoners in Saigon's jails and in the jails throughout the provinces."

U.S. Bomber Violation Probe Eyed

SAIGON (UPI) — The International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) agreed today to investigate Viet Cong charges that the United States has been bombing in South Vietnam but only if the Communists widen ICCS air corridors to a safe degree.

Informed sources said the United States welcomed the ICCS probe of the Viet Cong charge that American war planes have bombed, strafed and and made rocket attacks on targets inside South Vietnam in violation of the Jan. 27 Paris cease-fire agreement. It was the first Communist charge of direct U.S. military involvement since the Jan. 28 cease-fire.

Indonesian Ambassador H.R. Dharsono told UPI correspondent Tracy Wood, "Our teams are going to investigate it, provided they get a security guarantee."

Dharsono said the ICCS will insist on air safety corridors five miles wide to reach the site of the alleged bombing about 80 miles north of Saigon along Highway 13. He said the 3 ½-mile safety corridor proposed by the Viet Cong "is just too narrow. If they can't fulfill the requirements, we can't fulfill the investigation."

Nixon-Hoover Letter A Bugging Prelude?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in 1971, a year before the Watergate break-in, that he was forming a special squad to try to plug national security leaks, the Washington Star-News said today.

The newspaper said reliable sources confirmed the existence of the letter, in which Nixon was said to have told Hoover he was placing Egil (Bud) Krogh in charge of the operation and asked for Hoover's cooperation.

Krogh quit the administration last week, acknowledging in a letter to Nixon that he had charge of an operation that resulted in a burglary at the offices of a psychiatrist for former Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

"The Nixon letter to Hoover, which was addressed 'Dear Edgar,' appears to document that Nixon displayed an active personal interest in probing the Pentagon Papers leak," the Star-News said. It said the letter was dated June, 1971.

"The letter also leaves the impression that Nixon himself assigned high priority to the task force, which eventually became involved in both the Watergate affair as well as the burglary of the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist," the dispatch added.

Two of the members of the group known as the "plumbers" were E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy, both facing prison sentences as conspirators in the June 17, 1972, burglary of the Democrats' headquarters at the Watergate office building here.

Former Inmates May Be Guides

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former inmates of the old federal prison on Alcatraz may be among the guides when the "rock" in San Francisco Bay is opened to the public for tours.

William Whelan, superintendent of the new Golden Gate National Recreation Area which includes Alcatraz, said Saturday that several former prisoners have already applied for jobs as guides and their applications will be "seriously considered."

A final decision on what to do with the former prison island is at least five years in the future, Whelan said, but in the meantime the public will be admitted for tours beginning in the late fall or early winter.

FBI's Missing Wiretap Records Are Uncovered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some missing FBI records have been found on wiretaps placed on telephones of some White House aides and some Washington reporters in 1969-70, Attorney General-designate Elliot L. Richardson said today.

Richardson did not specify whose telephones were monitored, but said the records of the taps had been turned up following a search that he ordered, Richardson made the statement at his senate confirmation hearings. Acting FBI Director William D. Ruckelshaus scheduled a news conference at 11 a.m. PDT to discuss the matter.

The Washington Star-News said 17 or 18 government officials and newspapermen's telephones were tapped. One of those was said to be a member of the National Security Council staff, Morton Halperin.

This tap came to light in the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg when it was disclosed last week that an Ellsberg conversation while talking on a telephone at Halperin's home was intercepted by FBI monitors.

The Ellsberg court was told that records of the Halperin tap were missing.

The New York Times and the Washington Post reported last week that the administration ordered the taps on reporters for both newspapers and for the Sunday Times of London, as well as persons in government suspected of "leaking" news.

Shortly after Ruckelshaus was appointed temporary acting FBI director by President Nixon, he ordered an investigation of such wiretapping.

The Post and Times quoted sources as saying the wiretaps were conducted over a two-year period beginning shortly after President Nixon took office for his first term.

The Washington Star-News said the FBI's investigation of the missing files concentrated on Assistant Attorney General Robert Mardian and William C. Sullivan, former assistant FBI director.

The newspaper quoted Justice Department sources as saying Sullivan turned the documents over to Mardian on orders of then Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Kindergarten Crowding On Agenda

The Kentfield School District Board will be recommended a solution to kindergarten enrollment problems at Kent Elementary School at its meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at Bacich School.

Last week mothers camped out overnight to ensure their children could register for placement at Kent in the fall. The overflow of some 15 children was expected to be bused to Bacich School.

Tonight the district's new superintendent, Eugene C. Peters, will recommend that all kindergarten age children in the Kent attendance area be included in the Early Childhood Education program. This new state-funded program, which adopts an ungraded approach to teaching five to eight year olds, is scheduled to go into operation at Kent School in the fall if the funds are granted.

In other business, the board will be recommended to give notice to one teacher of reduction in force for the 1973-74 school year.

dramatization of hysteria, the group was told.

Called exercise MOHAMED — meaning Marin Operation Area Health and Medical Emergency Services Division — the drill was sponsored by the county office of emergency services under the direction of Frank Kirby.

Besides the bus crash, the exercise simulated collapse of building at San Rafael High School where 75 students were "hurt" and at Hill Junior High School in Novato where 50 students played injured.

Medical teams, ambulances, hospitals, police and fire departments responded to the emergency.

It involved hundreds of Marin residents and officials from the county health department, several cities and private organizations.

The drill ran smoothest in Novato, primarily due to the efforts of Fire Chief James Kidder who took charge of seeing police, fire and medical personnel coordinated the rescue and treatment of victims.

"It ran very smoothly in Novato," Kidder said. "The make up of the victims was fantastic."

San Rafael was another story, however, where rescue and treatment operations became snarled by large crowds of onlookers.

San Rafael Fire Capt. George Walser, who termed the San Rafael exercise "an utter fiasco," said the problem was in part due to the lack of police officers at the scene.

Margaret M. Snieyana, San Rafael High School nurse, disagreed, however, saying the exercise —despite some snafus — had proven invaluable in testing reactions and pointing out shortcomings.

No explanation was offered why the San Rafael police department had not taken a more active part in the exercise. At one point, only one officer was there to control the large crowd.

Most of the discussion today centered on details of making the next exercise run smoother —from moving victims to hospitals outside the stricken area to better transportation and communication systems.

An Air Force doctor from Hamilton Air Force Base, which supplied some personnel and a large helicopter for the exercise, urged more training of doctors and other medical personnel in sorting out casualties so those beyond hope of living are not evacuated to hospitals before other critical cases.

Kirby, making notes on the comments, said an effort would be made with the county health department to set up "workshop sessions" with doctors and others to discuss the Air Force doctor's observations.

Crowding Blamed On Nonresidents

Overcrowding of San Rafael softball facilities results from participation by nonresidents and not "more city residents than allowed," as reported in Saturday's Independent-Journal, the city administration said today.

Park and Recreation commissioners last week asked for a study of participation and use of city softball facilities by non residents due to the overcrowding situation, according to Andrew J. Snyder, parks and recreation director.

Board president Ronald D. Schenck said the board decided against seeking legislation which would permit the district to cut the teaching staff for several reasons.

One was that he had been told "it was practically impossible to get such legislation" because of "union pressure." Furthermore he said, the district has had a substantial problem with teachers "who have very justified complaints," and a push for such legislation might push teachers "to the point of striking."

Trustees want to avoid a "disastrous confrontation with teachers," Schenck said.

The board also has reservations about seeking cutting the teaching staff "when we really don't know how many kids we will have."

Trustee Carolyn M. Crabtree said she has been seeking aid from federal legislators since "it's the federal government's fault and they must come to the rescue."

There is a provision in Public Law 874 that provides for payments to districts when enrollment drops because of phasing out federal bases, Mrs. Crabtree said.

An uncertain view of chances for federal help came from Arnie Thorson, program officer for the U.S. Office of Education in San Francisco, who said that even if Public Law 874 "stays alive" another year, no funds have yet been appropriated for 1973-74.

(The law expires June 30, but would automatically continue for one year if no action were taken.)

The district had been planning a drop of about 290 pupils in the next school year and dropping 10 to 12 teachers by attrition, Bunker reported.

Ironically Senate Bill 90, designed to bring relief to property tax payers, was to be a financial boon to the district, but is now a hinderance to raising revenue.

Under the law, the district is limited to levying a tax rate that would bring in revenue equivalent to spending per pupil this year plus $65 per pupil.

Bunker said the per-pupil costs for 1972-73 haven't yet been calculated but next year's costs are expected to rise because of a drop in enrollment without a corresponding drop in teachers.

According to the Marin County Superintendent of Schools Office, the district's per pupil costs in 1971-72 was $812.

The only way the district can obtain more property tax revenue is through consent of the voters and a tax rate increase election has been set for July 31.

The tax measure is to increase the general purpose tax rate to $5.09 per $100 assessed valuation, up 43 cents from the current rate.

Before the Hamilton cutback the district estimated that with the SB 90 funds the tax rate would drop about 92 cents.

Gunman Fails In Holdup At Novato Motel

A man described as a "clean-cut, older type," fled the Sportsman Lodge north of Novato on Highway 101 Friday night after attempting to hold up the desk clerk, sheriff's deputies said today.

The clerk, Victor T. Saxman, told officers a man came into the motel about 9:30 p.m. and first asked for the manager. He then pulled a small gun, Saxman said, and demanded money.

Saxman, who said he had the key to the cash register in his pocket, punched the keys to show the robber he couldn't open it. The angered man then swung at him with the gun, Saxman said.

The would-be robber ran outside and drove off in a car, heading north. Sawman described him as a Caucasian with brown hair and wearing blue denim pants and a buckskin jacket.

3 Youths Rob Sausalito Man

A Sausalito man who was walking under the underpass to Marin City Wednesday night to take a bus was robbed by three youths who grabbed him and took his wallet, sheriff's officers said today.

Robert M. Larsen of Gate 6 said he was accosted about 11 p.m. by the youths, who grabbed him by the neck. "Don't move," he said he was told.

The robbers took his wallet, removed $4 and threw it on the ground. They then ran off into Marin City, Larsen said.

Sausalitan Held On Knife Threat Over Trespass

A Sausalito man arrested Saturday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

John Larry Lestar, 24, also known as Aquarius, who lives in the Gate 3 area, was booked Saturday and held in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Police said a security guard for Donlon J. Arques, who is cleaning up his Gate 3 property, told Lestar Friday not to trespass on the land. Another man, Robert W. Kalloch, 45, of Waldo Point, was accompanying the security guard, police said, and Lestar pulled a dagger and threatened Kalloch.

Lestar was not arrested at the time, police said, but on Saturday Kalloch and an officer found him in the parking lot at the Big G market and arrested him then.

Fifth Amendment or seeking immunity."

Dean took the papers from White House files shortly before President Nixon fired him April 30. Expressing fear the documents might be destroyed or stolen, he asked the court in a letter to take possession of them.

The administration asked that they be returned to the White House since Dean described them as a classified documents.

After the hearing, Dean was followed by reporters into an elevator, but Dean refused to answer any questions. He would not comment on a Newsweek magazine article quoting him as saying he never prepared a report on investigation of the Watergate for President Nixon and had been pressured to take the entire blame for an alleged White House cover-up of the affair.

Neither Dean's lawyer, Charles N. Shaffer nor the head of the U.S. attorney's office team that has investigated Watergate, Earl J. Silbert, said he had any idea what was in the Dean papers.

The Washington Post said today the late J. Edgar Hoover's temporary successor at the FBI, L. Patrick Gray, was told several weeks after the Watergate burglary that there appeared to be an administration cover-up of the extent of the affair.

The Post quoted reliable sources as saying Gray declined to follow a suggestion by sudordinates that he advise Nixon of the alleged cover-up on grounds he felt it would be improper and appear that he was seeking presidential guidance in the FBI investigation of the plot.

shores of Cambodia — and added a provision making the same prohibition apply to Laos.

How the Senate handles the war funding issue could have an important background effect on talks Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser, will reopen with North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho in Paris Thursday, seeking an end to the remaining Indochina fighting.

In the past, the negotiations have taken place against the background of a Congress at home which contained growing dissent but which always ultimately allowed the President's policies to go forward.

The House, which had supported the President on the war even when the Senate did not, broke its pattern last Thursday and voted 219 to 188 to bar any funds contained in a supplemental appropriations bill from being used for military activity in or over Cambodia. Some observers felt the Watergate scandal was a factor in that vote.

In another vote the House Thursday denied Pentagon authority to transfer funds from one account to another to make up for Indochina costs.

While they expressed House sentiment, neither of those votes would actually prevent the bombing of Cambodia from continuing. One applied only to supplemental funds and another only to transfer funds.

Youth Arrested After Robbery With A Knife

The man, George Acree of Bel Marin Keys, told officers he was returning from his job in Mill Valley about 3 a.m. when he stopped and gave a youth a ride in San Rafael.

He said the boy pulled a knife and demanded money. Acree first said he didn't have any but after the youth threatened to kill him, he said he gave him 75 cents he found in his pocket.

He said the youth then forced him to drive around San Rafael, stop to buy cigarettes and then drive out North San Pedro Road. Acree said the youth then struck him in the face, whereupon he told the youth he would get him some more money at his house but he needed to call home first.

By the time the two arrived in Bel Marin Keys, officers were nearby and arrested the youth following a brief struggle with Acree.

The youth claimed Acree was the attacker officers said, but he acknowledged it was his knife found nearby.

The youth's name was withheld on a standing order by Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

gate has left the political situation shaky in the States and this has put pressure on the dollar."

"I think the reason for the rise in the price of gold is because of reports in the press that there is an impending financial crisis", Emanuel Brunoff, a French gold broker said.

Asked if he believed the rise in the price of gold could be related to the Watergate scandal in the United States, Brunoff said: "In my opinion, I don't think it could be connected."

The metal's price was fixed at $102.25 an ounce on the big London free market in the second of the twice-daily price fixings. This was $2.50 higher than the morning price, $5.60 higher than Friday's closing price and more than double the official U.S. gold price.

Another gold source said : "Many foreign buyers are afraid of a new monetary crisis. For this reason they are going in great numbers to buy as much gold as they can afford"

Selby said his firm was getting buyers for gold from "just about everywhere" in what "seems to be turning into a stampede" for the metal.

A STERILE WORLD FOR DAVID

A sterile, plastic cocoon in the Baylor University Medical Center in Houston, Tex., is the only world this 18-month-old boy has ever known. Doctors popped him into the special, germ-free environment five seconds after he was born, because David (hospital authorities won't reveal his parents' name) was born without any natural immunity to disease. His parents lost a previous child with the same problem. (UPI Telephoto)

Ceiling Plan Is Attacked By Liberals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional liberals have expressed concern that social programs may get shortchanged by a proposed new system for determining the maximum amount of money Congress could spend each year.

The plan, now before a Senate Government Operations subcommittee headed by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., calls for establishing new committees of both the House and Senate to decide on an overall spending ceiling before the start of each fiscal year. The panels would have the power to determine how much of the total budget package would go to each governmental activity.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., worte a letter to Metcalf yesterday expressing liberal apprehension that the proposal may have a hidden sleeper—a built-in conservative bias.

Case complained to Metcalf about the composition of the Senate budget committee. Under the plan, the panel would have 15 members—the most senior five from the Senate Finance Committee, the senior five from the appropriations committee and five chosen at large by the Senate's President Pro Tem, Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

His concern centered on the prospect that conservatives who dominate the top membership of the finance and appropriations panels would dominate the budget committee, and tilt budget priorities away from social causes liberals support. Eastland also might show a conservative tendency in selecting five at-large members.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., like Case a strong proponent of social spending, has expressed the same concern.

The letter was sent to Metcalf in his role as chairman of the Senate subcommittee which is drawing up legislation to put the proposal into effect.

AEC Given Permission For Blast

DENVER (UPI) — A Colorado district judge today gave the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) permission to set off an underground nuclear blast in western Colorado on Thursday to free natural gas deposits.

Environmentalists had argued that the detonations could poison the drinking water of 27 million Americans.

Judge Henry E. Santo based his decision on a claim by CER Geonuclear Corp. of Las Vegas, Nev., that preblast studies proved Project Rio Blanco would not cause dangerous levels of radioactivity to escape above ground.

Opponents in three days of hearings last week had argued that the radioactivity might seep into the Colorado river that provides drinking water for much of the Southwest.

Don Peters, an attorney for the environmentalists, said the decision "wasn't really a surprise. We hope to decide by Tuesday sometime whether we are going to appeal."

Santo refused to order a temporary halt to the blast set for Thursday pending possible appeal. He also said he could not overrule the Water Pollution Control Commission's findings.

Women In Service Get Equal Benefit Right

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that women in the armed forces are entitled to the same dependents' benefits as men. But it deadlocked on the issue of whether sex has the same broad protection against discrimination as race and alien status.

In an 8-1 decision, the Court handed a victory to Air Force Lt. Sharron Frontiero, who sued to obtain benefits for her husband, Joseph, a student at Huntington College in Montgomery, Ala.

But the Court ended up in a 4-4 tie vote on the question of whether sex is in the same "suspect" classification as race and alienage —a status that makes it harder for governmental units to justify laws denying benefits.

In the Frontiero case, only Justice William H. Rehnquist dissented from the view that she was entitled to full benefits for her husband.

The concurring justices relied on a 1971 decision in an Idaho case that when two individuals are otherwise entitled to appointment as administrator of an estate, the male applicant may not be preferred over the female.

A married man in the armed services gets housing and medical allowances automatically, whether or not he actually supports his wife. But the 6,000 women in service have had to prove they contributed more than half of their husbands' support.

In other major actions, the Court:

—Agreed to review a decision in a Chicago gambling case which limits the extent of wiretapping authority granted by a court for criminal investigations.

—Agreed to decide whether conscientious objectors who carry out civilian duties in time of war are entitled to veterans' educational benefits.

—Ruled 5 to 4 that cities cannot impose curfews on jet plane takeoffs from their airports.

The administration had argued that the difference in teratment between the sexes was justified by the need for efficiency in administration.

Mom's Day Celebrated At Prison

San Quentin prison relaxed its visiting restrictions yesterday to allow 106 mothers to celebrate Mother's Day with their inmate sons.

Information Officer Lee De Bord said the mothers and sons shared a special breakfast in the prison dining hall, then went to Catholic and Protestant services in the church. Both events inside the walls were closed to other inmates, he said.

Following the events inside the walls, the prisoners were allowed to visit with their mothers outside the room to which visits are usually restricted.

Mother's Day has been observed at the prison for several years, De Bord said.

School Vandalism

Three windows in the home economics room at San Marin High School were broken yesterday with the damage estimated at $175, Novato police reported today.

West End School Faces Closure

The San Rafael Board of Education will take final action on a proposal to close West End School when it meets in special session at 8 p.m. tomorrow at West End School.

The district administration has viewed closure of the school as necessary because of sagging enrollment. Parents have opposed the move.

The board will also appoint an acting principal for San Rafael High School. Finalists for the post are three vice principals at San Rafael High — Jeff Thorner, Robert Royale and John Donovan — and a vice principal at Terra Linda High School, Florence Abraham.

Work Is Scheduled On Marin Highway

The state Division of Highways today announced a project that will affect traffic on Highway 101 in Southern Marin tomorrow.

Work crews will be doing final cleanup of all approaches to Richardson Bay Bridge between 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. The cleanup, the final stage of bridge widening, will proceed intermittently through the week.

Park Land Exchange Given Little Chance

State and county agencies seeking compensation for lands contributed by them to the Golden Gate National Recreation Area received little encouragement this weekend from the federal government.

The federal government in the person of the area's superintendent, William J. Whelan, said that "the doors aren't closed" on some kind of settlement, but that surrender of other federal land in exchange is not likely.

The exchange of views took place Saturday in San Francisco during a conference called by the University of California Extension to discuss the proposed 34,000-acre recreation area.

In addition to pushing for compensatory land swapping, state and county spokesmen said they want a greater effort by the federal government to keep them informed of progress in creating the recreation area and more sharing of management of it.

Russell J. Porter, chief of grants and statewide studies for the state department of parks and recreation repeated his departments opposition to surrendering its parkalnds without repayment.

He also called for permanent joint supervision of the recreation area. "We have always felt that Marin and San Francisco and the state have sophisticated parks and recreation agencies capable of planning and promoting recreation in ways that equal if not better the National Park Service," he said.

He said that the state could probably raise funds more quickly for buying and developing lands in the recreation area than the federal government.

Pierre W. Joske, Marin County director of parks and recreation, also called for a "regional authority to run this park in partnership with the national park system but with a certain amount of autonomy from federal red tape."

He said that Marin could cooperate with the National Park Service but wants the service to try more "two-way communication" than has been the case with the Point Reyes National Seashore, also in Marin. "Communications with potential park users leave something to be desired," said Joske.

Joseph Caverly, the general manager of the San Francisco Department of Recreation and Parks, seemed more receptive to the National Park Service takeover of San Francisco owned land in the recreation area. "We thought several years ago," he said, "that we could form a partnership with the National Parks Service to do things together and do things well."

But even he said that his city hopes for some repayment from the federal government for turning over lands like Fort Miley, which San Francisco bought out of its own pocket.

Park Use Is Urged Of Minorities

How can ghetto residents be encouraged and prepared to make use of nearby national parklands like the Golden Gate National Recreation area?

That was the question faced by several speakers in one session of a conference on the newly created San Francisco and Marin park area held Saturday in San Francisco by the University of California Extension.

Edward Washington, who runs Slide Ranch Camp near Stinson Beach for inner city children, urged that there be more early childhood nature education to show ghetto people "where they should build fires, what to do with cigarette butts and how to enjoy the outdoors."

According to James Smith, a senior associate with the Conservation Foundation, the recreation area could become a park for "a discreet, elite population" of upperclass white Sierra club members and ecology nuts.

"People in Hunters Point have damn little familiarity with Marin and vast open space," he said. "It's terribly important to begin to encourage people who wouldn't ordinarily use this park."

He urged that the park advisory board include people from all income and ethnic levels in the Bay Area.

David Karraker, who is chief of programs that interpret nature to visitors at Yosemite National Park, said that inner city children must learn more about nature in schools before being sent out to the recreation area.

Americanism Honors Given

Two seventh graders at the Mill Valley Middle School have won honors in an essay contest on Americanism.

Martha Plessas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Plessas, won the first place medal and Susan Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Jones, won second place.

Both wrote on "Our Freedom is not Free" in the contest sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary of Mill Valley. Contest chairman Ethel Greenwood said the winning essay will be entered in district competition.

Delay Denied In Terrorist Trial

KHARTOUM (UPI) — The Sudanese Government today denied that it had postponed the trial of seven Palestinian Black September guerrillas on charges of killing three diplomats, including two Americans, in Khartoum last March.

Sudanese Culture and Information Minister Sayed Omar Haj Mousa said in an interview that, "The government has not made any announcement that indicates the trial has been postponed indefinitely.

"The matter is still in the hands of the judiciary," he said, "and the Government is not in a position to comment on the case before the judiciary has said its word."

Baboon Colony Causes Concern

SEAGOVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Four baboons, apparently escapees from the now defunct World of Animals in nearby Mesquite, Tex., have taken up residence in a wooded area near a trailer park. Area residents are concerned it might become a permanent colony.

"The apes occasionally come out of the woods but run off when anyone approaches," Seagoville city manager Frank Kirk said. "We've set baited traps with fruit in them to no avail and tried to shoot the animals with tranquilizer guns, but we couldn't get close enough."

Turn Your Fat Into Money

If you're the average "fatty," you've lost 600 lbs. . . . the same 10 lbs. 60 times. You've tried everything and either failed or lost a little, and gained it all back in one glorious weekend. Then guilt sets in . . . you feel you have failed because you are weak-willed . . . and you've given up on yourself. Well, you're wrong. You're not weak, just misinformed.

There is a way to lose ½ lb. to one lb. a day without hunger, depression, drugs, tiring exercise, nutritional deficiencies or exotic machines, and, if you wish, MAKE MONEY WHILE YOU ARE DOING IT WITHOUT INTERFERING WITH YOUR PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. You'll be so thrilled with the results that you'll want to share the experience with others anyway, so why not be fairly compensated?

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

This program is guaranteed. You have nothing to lose but your fat. If you don't get the promised results, with no hunger, and appetite easily under control, you will promptly receive a refund. Our promise: You will lose weight rapidly while feeling fine. You will build a whole new self-image through our training program and, if you wish . . . and this is entirely up to you . . . you may help others as an L.F.F. counselor. This should at least defray the entire cost of your program.

Isolated Students Test Sense Of Time

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — University of California scientists have isolated six students in small rooms for three months to see if they will lose their sense of time.

The researchers are regulating the lighting and other elements in the two soundproofed rooms so the volunteer students will have little idea of what is happening in the outside world.

At first, the rooms were lighted with continuous low levels of light. Then they were on light-dark cycles which were eight hours different than the normal cycle. Now one room has continuous low-level light and the other has 16 hours of light with eight hours of darkness.

Scientists hope the experiment will help predict how astronauts will perform on space stations and explain the time lag disruption felt by jet travelers.

The volunteers are wired with gear to record their heartbeats and body temperature. They also take blood samples from themselves.

Although it is too early for many results, the scientists say one surprise has cropped up.

"We usually think of a leader influencing a group," said Joan Vernikos-Danellis, a scientist for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "But it's turning out a disrupter may have a more important influence."

She explained that one volunteer reacted with extreme sensitivity when his food was too cold or the last two minutes of a television tape cut off. "In isolation, very simple things assume great importance," she said. The "disrupter" now has been moved to another room.

'Guy Out Of Nowhere,' Partner Get Cash, Gems

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The guy just came up behind me, put a gun in my back, and said 'get into the car.'" With those four words Edward Nager, his wife and another couple began a slow drive through Central Park Sunday. It left them poorer by an estimated $267,000 in cash and jewelry.

"The chauffeur had just opened the door for me, and I had gotten out and turned to help my wife when this guy came from nowhere, put a gun in my back and told me to get into the car," Nager said. "Another man with a gun also forced the chauffeur into the car."

With one of the gunmen sitting in the rear seat of the car, the two men told the chauffeur to drive slowly through the park and then "asked us to give them all of our cash and jewelry," Nager said.

The police said an estimated $200,000 in jewelry and $1,500 in cash were reported taken from the Rosens. Makon said there was no breakdown of exactly what kind of jewelry was taken from the four.

Nager said that some $65,000 in jewelry was taken from him alone.

Police said the two men apparently got into a waiting car.

"They never threatened to kill us," Nager, an electrical engineer, said. "We gave them what they wanted. We were only shaken."

Police said the entire caper lasted about 10 minutes and described it as looking "like a well planned job. We are checking into the backgrounds of people who have been involved in similiar types of crimes."

The two robbers were described only as male whites in their mid 30s.

Watergate Gives Reminder We Need

We needed Watergate.

We say this sadly, as scandal piles upon scandal in a story of political chicanery to subvert the law — the Vesco case, the government's handling of the Pentagon Papers affair, etc. "Watergate" stands as symbol for all of this.

It is a fitting symbol. For the bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate was, after all, a minor crime — "just politics," a lot of people said.

Yet this minor crime has proved to be the visible tip of an iceberg that could perhaps irreparably damage our democratic electoral system if it had been allowed to go indefinitely undetected.

BECAUSE Watergate was the visible tip that brought detection, we needed Watergate.

We needed it to remind us that little things we may dismiss as "just politics" may be the visible evidences of other, more dangerous things.

We may dismiss it as "just politics" when the speaker of the California Assembly consigns a Senate-passed bill to implement the voters' expressed will to a committee he feels sure will never report it out — as has been done with Sen. George Deukmejian's SB450. But it is more than "just politics"; it is subversion of the democratic process, for Californians voted 2-to-2 to restore the death penalty, which cannot be done without such a bill.

We may dismiss it as "just politics" when the state superintendent of public instruction ignores his duty to enforce the Education Code by making no move to cut off funds from districts that force school busing. But it is more than "just politics," for the people by overwhelming vote demanded this be done.

We may dismiss it as "just politics" when our Legislature appropriates more than a million dollars of our tax money to finance political campaigns of the legislators themselves. But it is more than "just politics"; it is the same kind of subversion represented by Watergate, placing the interests of party above those of the people.

EACH OF THESE and many other things that we may call "just politics" erodes a little from the structure of our democratic system — and thereby, takes away a little of our freedom.

Freedom is never lightly won, nor can it be lightly held. The only way mankind has found to win and keep it is through participatory democracy — what Abraham Lincoln so eloquently called "government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

We have grown careless with our precious freedom. We have grown callous about skullduggery in public office. The fashion is to call this carelessness and callousness "Sophistication." A better term would be stupidity.

As Irish patriot John Philpott Curran put it, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

We needed to be reminded of that. And since Watergate cannot fail to remind us, we needed Watergate.

Butterfly Or Moth?

This summer Marinites will probably see lots of butterflies and moths. How does one differentiate between the two?

As a matter of technical classification, butterflies have antenna that look like straight wires with a tiny knob on the end, while moths may have several other kinds. At rest, a moth spreads its wings out flat like the wings of an airplane; a butterfly holds its wings together in a vertical plane like an airplane tail. Butterflies like bright daylight and won't venture out if the day is overcast; most moths prefer night or the semi-darkness of tropical rain forests for traveling about.

Speakership Race Gives Assembly Reform Chance

By EARL G. WATERS

Two San Francisco assemblymen, Willie Brown and Leo McCarthy, are quietly engaged in a battle for the speakership. They are anticipating the vacancy which will occur by reason of Speaker Bob Moretti's plans to seek the office of governor.

The situation presents members of the Assembly a golden opportunity to bring about a major reform in their house. It involves a simple change in their rules of organization.

For, unlike the Senate wherein the constitution provies the lieutenant governor as the presiding office, the constitution makes no mention of a speaker. It merely states that each house shall choose its officers and adopt rules for its proceedings.

UNDER THE ASSEMBLY rules the membership elects a speaker by a majority, which is 41 votes. Once elected, the speaker becomes a virtual dictator. He names all committeemen and committee chairmen. He assigns all bills to committee.

The ability to control committees and steer legislative proposals to them gives the speaker awesome power. He can guide the measures he favors to committees that will approve them. By the same method he can assure the defeat of bills. And he can lean heavily on the members when legislation he wants comes before the full Assembly.

This great power thwarts the whole idea of representative government. For the speaker, whoever he may be at the moment, oment, represents just one of the 80 Assembly districts. Yet the power he possesses enables him to dictate legislative policy to the other 79 members or a sufficient number of them to assure his will is carried out.

Of late the speaker has assumed even greater powers. He has acted as the "bagman" for campaign funds. His strength enables him to guide legislation and creates the opportunity for him to gather political contributions. He can then parcel out these funds to aid in the election or defeat of other assemblymen. So the pressures he can apply to his fellow legislators not only affect their ability to properly represent their districts, it also threatens their continuance in office.

TO AVOID SUCH one-man rule the Senate, long ago, diffused its leadership. It stripped the lieutenant governor of authority to name committees and assign bills and placed these duties in the hands of a five-man rules committee elected by the membership.

Now the assembly has the chance to do the same. For, although Moretti's term of office does not end until December, 1974, Brown and McCarthy are out to lock up the succession votes now.

Both are young, able men. Both are attorneys. Being Democrats, their views are not too far apart. Perhaps neither one would attempt to use the muscle as speaker that Moretti, and Jesse Unruh before him, have used. But a little transitory power often makes strange changes in men.

As it stands the choice between them will be difficult for the members. But they can seize upon the opportunity to insist that whoever gets their vote agrees to divest the speaker of the power to appoint committees and assign bills. Such a change would be a true reform.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Memories Of Moscow

WASHINGTON — Ten years ago, I was living and working in Moscow. As a correspondent there, I lived with all the assumptions that foreigners take to the Soviet capital. I assumed my telephones were tapped. I know my mail was opened en route. I know that at times I and my colleagues were followed. While I encountered relatively little information that the government there did not already know, nevertheless I and my press and diplomatic friends often interrupted each other by putting a finger to the lips and then pointing to the ceiling, where a bug might have been listening.

It was standard paranoia, fortunately in my case temporary, relieved by occasional trips outside and eventually ending when I departed after nearly three years. But in the case of people who are born there and live there all their lives, the atmosphere is much the same — except that it never ends.

THE WAY IT USED to be in Moscow has been recurring to me insistently with each new disclosure in the Nixon campaign scandals. I know it is a cheap shot, a technique often used by people for whom I have contempt, to blacken anything you do not like in America by likening it to Russia or Communism. That is why, although this has been in my mind for almost 11 months now, I have not made this comparison in a column. It comes out now, provoked by an astonishingly narrow view of current events disclosed in letters to the editor of widely scattered newspapers.

In part, that view still does not perceive all this scandal as anything more than a long-ago wiretapping attempt at Democratic headquarters — even though on any given day the same paper that prints such letters is loaded with new revelations of sabotage, malfeasance, faking, perjuring, concealing, burgling and more.

Another aspect of it still insists that it is all something the press dreamed up. Witness this from a writer to the New Orleans Times-Picayune: "The entire media were so shocked by the overwhelming defeat of their boy, Sen. George McGovern, that they have gone ape over trying to smear President Nixon over this spitting-on-the-sidewalk incident. "Where on earth can that person have spent the last year?

NOT IN MOSCOW. Anyone who has spent time there cannot possibly ignore the sober potential of what has happened here.

In the Soviet Union, there is the KGB (Committee for State Security), which is vaguely comparable to our CIA in that it is supposed to collect intelligence and protect the state from external enemies. There also is the MVD (Ministry for Internal Security), roughly lining up with the FBI in that its job is to guard against domestic enemies. There is a Foreign Ministry, like a State Department, and a Justice Ministry, like a Justice Department, and so on. There also is the Communist Party, theoretically apart from these government functions but superior to them all.

What differentiated the Soviet system from ours all these years was that here the government and especially its police and intelligence divisions were separated from the party in power by both theory and practice.

Of course, Presidents traditionally have used their official airplanes and staff and appointees to advance their political cause. But out in the departments, in the FBI and the CIA, at State and Justice, people were presumed to be working first in the interest of the country, not a political party. This is the line that has been crossed in these past months, and that is what makes the whole pattern of behavior in Mr. Nixon's behalf so much more serious than the sum of its many parts.

AS THE KGB, the MVD and the other Soviet agencies are most aggressive against any imagined threat to the Communist Party's supremacy, so the men around Mr. Nixon busied themselves to compromise the executive branch — including its police and intelligence divisions — to protect the President against any threat to his re-election.

They tried and at minor points succeeded in using those agencies for illegal, solely political ends. True, they were so impatient that they organized their own super-party and super-police and intelligence agencies, unbound by the law. Had they not been caught, they would have been encouraged to go on in that direction at least till 1976, and what might that election year have brought?

We are not sure yet that it will all be cleaned up and turned around by then. If it is, it will be because of stubborn men in the judicial and legislative branches, and in the press. So far at least, those institutions here survive free of White House control, and — so far — we can get along here without speaking in whsipers and pointing in warning to the ceiling.

Supervisors Guilty Of 'Selective Hearing'

Today I had first-hand experience of the arrogance of government. After some two hours of presentations by citizen group representatives and individuals to the Marin County Board of Supervisors re the county administrator's proposed supra-agency consolidation of the departments of health, social services and probation into a new "Department of Health and Human Services," the chairman of the board, Mr. Baptiste, summed up the opposition as a lot of "rhetoric" and the reorganization was approved by a 3-2 vote.

Central points voiced by the opposition were:(1) look before you leap (the ad hoc committee was a "60-day wonder" and itself advocated a longer study prior to action, while the county administrator came in "independently" with a full-blown plan for implementation about a week later); (2) what will be the increase in service benefits to the client? (not documented in even the most rudimentary fashion); (3) what will it cost? (per the administrator about $70,000 in increased cost to the local taxpayer since no state or federal matching funds exist.). . .

Opposition to the Administrator's proposal included the following groups: Probation Department, Juvenile Justice Commission, League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, Marin County Child and Youth Mental Health Committee, Judge Broderick, presiding judge of Superior Court, Comprehensive Health Planning Council, Community Mental Health Workers Union, Community Action Marin, Irate Taxpayers, Social Workers Union, Probation Workers, Marin Alternative, Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

Speakers in support included Mrs. Marion Kelly from the Volunteer Bureau, a gentleman from the Alcoholic Community and a lady from the grand jury, all of whom spoke as a "voice of one.". . .

I frequently accuse our children of "selective hearing" (only what you want to hear, dear) when it comes to nitty-gritty chores. Now it appears the members of the board of supervisors play the same game.

The Issue Is Settled; Let's Fluoridate Water

The recent action by the State Board of Health allowing the Marin Municipal Water District to fluoridate our water supply is the final step necessary to fulfill the will of the Marin voters. The issues pro and con for fluoridation have been well debated prior to the election, and this was recognized by the State Board of Health in issuing their permit.

Fluoridation now should proceed and it is my hope, as well as the hope of the many thousands who voted for it, that the minority will not engage in delaying action which will prevent the expression of the will of the majority.

Plight Of American Indian Is Real And Depressing One

What is the plight of the American Indian? Putting aside the violent and illegal occupation of Wounded Knee by the leaders of the American Indian Movement, whose tactics most Indians condemn, it is a grim plight. It has been for a long time. Here are the facts:

Average family income — $1,500 a year.

Average educational level — five years of school.

Unemployment on reservations — 40 per cent.

Life expectancy — 44 years.

Infant mortality — three times national average.

Housing — 70 per cent substandard.

Indian leaders want tribal sovereignty. One expert puts it this way: "American Indians have survived all attempts . . . to destroy their unique culture, their tribal patterns of living and their special view of the world around them.

"If the Indian is the poorest of American minorities, he is also among the hardiest. Indians are moving slowly but steadily toward the assumption of full responsibility for their own affairs after more than a century of paternalistic domination by the federal government."

1 — The administration has very probably thrown away the Pentagon Papers case by its alleged involvement in the burglarizing of the offices of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and the alleged offering of the FBI post to Judge W. Matt Byrne Jr. while the trial was in progress.

2 — The Republican Party has lost the "law-and-order" issue despite a nationwide downturn in major crime. It can hardly charge the Democrats with a permissiveness equal to that practiced by White House aides.

3 — Six Republican senators have passed the word to the President that the way things now stand they won't run for re-election.

SLIVER OF SILVER LINING. Foreign diplomats in Washington do not think that Watergate will seriously impair U.S. foreign policy and its dealings with other countries.

Interviews with Asian and western ambassadors suggest that the U.S. image abroad has not been badly hurt. Reason: Scandals worse than Watergate occur in their countries. Said one European diplomat:

"Every country has had political affairs like that. I personally do not think it will have an impact on Europe or especially on the President's talks with European leaders."

In 1965 social welfare accounted for 33 per cent of the federal budget; last year it was 46 per cent.

Much of the increase comes from the fact that since 1966 the federal treasury has been the main source of funds for social welfare purposes. In 1972 the federal government supplied 55 per cent of all public funds spent for social welfare; state and local governments supplied 45 per cent.

Federal, state and local governments together spend more than half of their income for social welfare purposes.

WOMEN AND THE STOCK MARKET. They are investing their own money — and liking it better. They have a lot to invest.

Women receive $116 billion a year in salaries, own $172 billion in registered stock, have an estimated $10 billion in mutual funds, and last year received $5 billion in death benefits.

They are becoming inveterate investors.

Forbes magazine quotes one Wall Streeter as predicting that "the 1970s will become the decade of the woman investor."

National Press Council: Does It Really Represent Public Interest?

Reprinted from Wall Street Journal

We see the Twentieth Century Fund has launched its National Press Council, intended to police some of the largest media and restore the public's confidence in the press.

The council is rooted in an eminently sound idea. We agree that the press in this nation generally does not receive the kind of scrutiny and criticism that the press applies to other institutions. This leaves a gap in public knowledge and understanding, filled only by the self-interested complaints of politicians and interest groups. While the press is getting better at covering itself, peer group pressures do impose subtle restraints, and there is no doubt a place for supplementary and more independent criticism.

It is quite a leap from these insights, though, to the notion that it is either possible or desirable to have some quasi-judicial body handing down supposedly impartial versions of some final truth. In particular, we are put off by the Press Council's claim to represent "the public." We scan its members in vain looking for someone whom Archie Bunker would identify as his representative, and it is our clear impression that it is among his peers that confidence in the media most needs restoring. It would be interesting, in fact, to know how the panel's voting in the 1968 election compares with that of the public it presumes to represent.

So, while we sympathize with the purposes of the council, we have doubts about its means. We have always wondered why the Twentieth Century Fund couldn't do just as much good by taking its money and sponsoring a really good and reasonably independent magazine covering the press, letting contending views meet and trusting to find the truth not in trial-like decisions but in the free marketplace of ideas.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Astronauts Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz star on a new job this week, provided they can find their way to the Skylab office building, which is being moved to outer space.

It seems that these days everybody is subjected to longer and longer commutes to get to the office, but 270 miles is ridiculous — especially when it's all straight up.

Today's office building is like today's cost of living. It's getting so high it's out of sight.

The astronauts plan to work so late at the office they won't be home to dinner for 28 days.

Game Of Baseball Keeps Getting The 'Out' Call — But Lives On

Baseball has joined the Broadway theater and the American novel as a fashionable topic for the premature post-mortem crowd. "Is Broadway (or the novel, or baseball) dying?" asks the speaker with an audience to titillate or the journalist with a column to fill, carefully preparing his face in the mourner's position. Ah, the games pundits play!

"What was formerly a pastime has now become a business." Who delivered this obituary on baseball? The ubiquitous Howard Cosell? Wrong. John Montgomery Ward, a major leaguer himself, writing in 1886. Ward, it seems, was the first of the literary pitchers, 70 years ahead of former Cincinnati Red Jim Brosnan, 80 years ahead of former New York Yankee Jim Bouton, the latest master of the fast ball-point.

NOTHING IS NEW under that bleacher sun. The difference now is that worrying about the future of baseball has become almost as Big Business as baseball. And so there are books with titles like "No Joy in Mudville: The Dilemma of Major League Baseball," while the sages in the right-field stands nod in agreement that one more player strike will do it —the out sign will go up for the game itself.

After they have tsk-tsked, in the Ward tradition, over avarice, the anxious Annies of baseball specialize in two arguments. First, the sinister antenna rears its ugly head, "If the game is tampered with by TV to exclude the charismatic value," Ralph Andreano, baseball fan and economics professor, warns darkly, "if television perverts the social values implicit in the Folk Hero Factor, then major-league baseball will most surely decline to a spectator sport of minor national significance."

Next on the Cassandras' list of omens is something called tempo. By comparison with basketball, hockey, and even football, baseball admittedly is the andante cantabile of sports. The worry-warts like red-faced policemen coping with a traffic jam —are forever thinking of ways to "speed up" the game, even though statisticians have concluded that turning a slow-working pitcher into a fast-working pitcher would save only about 4½ minutes over nine innings.

The simplest answer to the tempo argument may be that if something is a pleasure, one doesn't want to speed it up. But simple answers are not to the taste of baseball's apologists. "Down on the playing field, another version of time exists, Einsteinian in its complexity," one theoretician has elaborately suggested. Which brings up another point — that baseball may have a little trouble surviving its friends.

EVEN THE MOST hysterical nail-biters about baseball's future are sober realists compared with the game's defenders. Writing in praise of baseball tends to turn even the better prose stylists toward slushy mysticism. "Not until I got to college and was introduced to literature did I find anything with a comparable emotional atmosphere as strong an esthetic appeal," Philip Roth has rhapsodized in "The Great American Novel." "Baseball with its longeurs and thrills, its spaciousness. . .its peculiarly hypnotic tedium, its heroics, its nuances, its 'characters,' its language, and its mythic sense of itself. . ." etc., etc. Upward the incense rises.

Stubbornly, almost angrily, we hang on to baseball, like an historic landmark some motel-builder wants to tear down. We insist on getting personally involved in Hank Aaron's assault on Babe Ruth's home-run record. There are few neutrals on any subject in baseball. Is Johnny Bench the greatest catcher in the history of the game? Does Gaylord Perry throw a spitball? No sport has more debate topics set up in its file, and one must not only have an opinion, one must care.

Other games — rich in pace and contact —may be enjoyed more at the actual moment. But no game is held in such affection before and after the event. Breathing the powdered-sugar air of boyhood bubble-gum cards, Americans are in love with their love of the game. In effect, the baseball-lover is the 10th man on the team*, and as long as he's still playing —as long as baseball is also a state of mind — the other nine players should be sliding home safe.

Inmate Hurt In Fork Attack

An inmate working in the San Quentin Prison hospital was attacked Friday by a patient wielding a fork, a prison spokesman said.

John Eddie Brown, 27, of Santa Clara, serving a six months-to-life term for assault with a deadly weapon, suffered only superficial scratches, the spokesman said.

The attack occurred at 10 p.m. when Brown and a prison hospital employee were attempting to administer a shot to a patient. The patient brushed aside the employee and reportedly slashed at Brown with the fork, apparently stolen from the prison cafeteria, the spokesman said.

The patient, another convict, was taken into custody.

Michigan Cities Eye Moving Belts As Mass Transit Link

YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — An ultramodern $80 million mass transit concept that would use conveyers to move people in air conditioned comfort is under consideration by Washtenaw County officials.

The system, called Pass-Portation (Mass-Po) and developed by United Technology, Inc., of Southfield, Mich., would connect this city with Ann Arbor 10 miles away. It would be the first of its kind in the world.

According to its inventor, Walton Cushman, the continuous loop would be composed of a main conveyer carrying paired seats at a steady fixed speed, and a smaller conveyer which would stop to pick up passengers and then speed up to allow boarding of the main conveyer.

He said the endless motion of the main conveyer would save energy which other systems burn up in starting and stopping. He estimated construction and operating costs at about $1,000 per seat, compared with $4,000 for most bus systems.

At a sustained speed of 30 miles per hour, the system could transport 90,000 persons per hour, he said.

The propsoal was unveiled during the weekend at a meeting of the Washtenaw County Overall Economic Development Program Committee, a citizen group formed so the communities could obtain federal transportation funds. Committee Chairman James Cregar said the group was impressed by the system, but is also exploring several other possibilities.

He estimated it would take five years to raise money and build such a system, which would use existing right of way.

"The eyes of the world will be upon us," said Gerald McComb of the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce. "We have the opportunity here to be first with a possible solution to a serious and growing problem of mass movement of people."

The proposed system would also include Willow Run Airport and the University of Michigan football stadium in Ann Arbor.

Senior Citizens Sent Tax Forms

Tax refund claim forms have been mailed this week to senior citizens in Marin and Sonoma counties, according to State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

Forms have been mailed to persons who claimed refunds last year and to those who have requested them. Senior citizens must be over the age of 62, own and occupy their home, have paid property taxes on the home and have an income of less than $10,000 per year.

In 1971, 388 Marin residents received refunds of $75,899 while the total for Sonoma County was 1,054 claims for $132,183 in refunds.

Contract Signed For Pier Fair

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — State parks director William Penn Mott Jr. has signed a "rental" contract clearing the way for the operator of Marin's Renaissance Faire to stage a 33-day "nautical fair" this summer at the State Maritime Historical Park at Hyde Street Pier in San Francisco.

The signing Friday ended months of negotiation and controversy over whether it was proper to "rent" state park property to a private concessionaire, Theme Events Ltd. of Marin County.

Theme Events, run by Ronald and Phyllis Patterson, will pay a basic rental of $12,067 plus 8 per cent of all receipts over $225,000, which is the estimated cost of staging the fair.

Blacks have been protesting against Rich's because of alleged racial discrimination and unfair business practices.

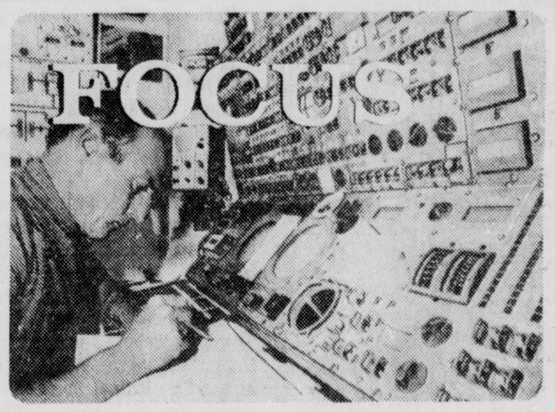
MARACAIBO, Venezuela (UPI) — Three children were killed and three others critically injured today in the accidental explosion of a hand grenade at a shooting range, police reported.



Out Of This World

Although it has the name "Skylab," the U.S. space station little resembles a cold, clinical laboratory on earth. It is also a far cry from the cramped modules that up to now have housed human activity in space. After a hard day's work, the three astronauts will be able to stretch out in separate bedrooms. A stereo tape player will provide relaxing music. Menus for the 28 day excursion include such down-to-earth favorites as roast beef, filet mignon, and lobster Newburg. Other luxuries will include a wash stand and a shower.

DO YOU KNOW — Has the Soviet Union launched any space stations?

Harry M. Williams Mortuary Changes Hands After 27 Years

HARRY M. WILLIAMS
Sells Mortuary

Harry M. Williams, 72, who has been in the mortuary business for 57 years, the last 48 years in San Rafael, sold his mortuary last week to Michael Heffernan of Stockton.

The new owner, who comes from a pioneer family of morticians dating back four generations, said he will keep the name Harry M. Williams Mortuary for the time being. He said Williams will continue to advise and serve as consultant during the transition. Theron J. Lyman Jr., manager at Harry M. Williams since 1950, will continue as manager for the new owner.

Hefferman has 10 years of experience, working at De Young Funeral Home in Stockton for his uncle, C. K. De Young. He and his wife and their four children will move to Marin as soon as he can find a suitable home.

Williams started his career in 1916, working for mortuaries in Oakland and Berkeley, then joined Keaton's in San Rafael in 1925. In 1946, he built Harry M. Williams Mortuary at 1415 Third Street and operated it for the past 27 years. Williams was also a San Rafael fire commissioner for 28 years until he resigned from the commission this year.

William and his wife, Gertrude, who have been married for 52 years, will continue to live in San Rafael. Williams said he plans to relax and pursue his hobbies including handgun shooting and leathercraft.

DEVAN'S JEWELERS in downtown San Rafael will close it doors in about two weeks after two years of operation at 1115 Fourth Street.

said he and his father Paul Ciampi plan to build a 15,000-suqare-foot tilt-up concrete building on Ford Way at Hill Road in Novato as a beer and wine distributing center and for company offices. Ciampi said the tentative timetable is to start construction in July and have the building ready in August.

The new warehouse will give Paul Ciampi Distributing about double the present space. The company also plans to expand its services in Sonoma and Napa Counties.

CREDIT MOTORS of 1000 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael (corner of Bellam Boulevard) announced the appointment of Wayne Omo of Novato as sales manager. Omo is a retired lieutenant colonel, who served in the Air Force for 22 years.

Herb Lucas of Corte Madera, owner of Credit Motors, said his company specializes in good economy cars, vans and trucks. "We take in cars, trade, sell and also consign," said Lucas. Credit Motors was established in 1967 on Grand Avenue and has been located at Francisco and Bellam Boulevards for the past two years.

ENVOY AIRCRAFT Inc., a new corporation which plans to build a small private plane for experimental purposes, has been formed in Mill Valley.

Principals are David and Kay Rose and Charles R. Skinner, all of Mill Valley. Rose said the corporation exists only on paper thus far, and plans are still indefinite.

"At this point, our plan is to build one experimental plane as a research project," said Rose. He said the aircraft may be built outside of Marin County.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL of Realtors, Marin Chapter, will meet at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax on May 23 for a noon luncheon. Speakers will be naturalist Elizabeth Terwilliger and Marin County Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske, who will discuss "Bike Paths and Hiking Trails."

STATE BOARD of Equalization Chairman William M. Bennett of Kentfield announced the publication of a new pamphlet, "Tax Tips for Drug Stores," designed to serve as a guide to owners, managers and operators of drug stores. The pamphlet supplies basic information in non-technical language on the application of the state sales and use tax laws.

Copies of the pamphlet may be obtained from the Tax Information Office, Room 128, 1020 N. Street, Sacramento.

Moderate Trading As Prices Fall

Some analysts said pressure on the dollar in foreign markets, soaring gold prices, and questions concerning White House involvement in the Watergate scandal have diminished investor confidence.

Leading the actives, General Motors fell 1 ⅝ to 68 ⅝ on 79,500 shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, the list also took broad losses in moderate activity. TWA warrants led the actives, off ½ at 14 ½ on 33,900 traded.

On the Big Board, virtually alone among the gainers were gold mining stocks that benefitted from more than a week of record gold prices on the foreign markets. Among those in the limelight were American South African up 3 ⅝, Campbell Red Lake 3 ¼, Dome Mines 3 ¾, and Homestake Mining 2 ½.

Louisiana Land & Exploration fell 1 ¼ during the session. A Wall Street columnist suggested the stock may be overpriced in relation to its earnings.

Glamors beat a downward path, led by Xerox off 2 ¼, Corning Glass 2 ¼, and Avon Products 2.

Electronics and computer issues fell sharply. Burroughs retreated 5 3-6, IBM 4 ⅝ and Motorola 2.

Getty, off 4 ½, led the losing oils. Also in the minus column were Superior Oil 4 ½, Exxon 1 ¼, and Kerr McGee 1 ¼.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Warrants: Better Trade Than Value

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I find myself in a position where I can afford to "take a flyer" with a few speculations. Warrants interest me for this purpose but I am not clear on the fine points of this kind of investment. Would you discuss how these work? Would you favor warrants for speculation?—R.C.

A. Warrants are options to purchase common shares, usually on a one-for-one basis, at a stated price, within a prescribed time period, although certain issues are perpetual. However, no ownership of the issuing company is represented by the warrant, nor are dividends paid to holders of these options. The warrant is generally priced well below the common share to which it is tied. Thus $1,000 will purchase possibly five times as many warrants as common shares. As a rule warrants move up and down faster than their common share counterparts.

There are 12 NYSE-listed warrants, 73 ASE and 97 NASDAQ warrants allowing investors a broad list from which to choose. In making your selection expiration dates should be noted carefully, since warrants are worthless after that time. Furthermore, terms, i.e. exercise prices, should be noted since these may change prior to expiration date. Warrants are primarily attractive as trading vehicles rather than for their exercise value.

Q. Three years ago I purchased 300 shares of Marine Midland (NYSE) at $38. Since then it has gone down considerably. Should I hold or sell?—S.M.

A. Unless your primary investment goal is income I would recommend switching to a faster growth issue. Although the recent increase to 7 per cent in the prime rate banks charge their most creditworthy customers will improve the spread between loan yields and money costs, earnings this year may be restricted by expansion expenses. Two major regional headquarters will be opened this year. Also exerting a dampening influence on profits are loan loss provisions and lower-margined foreign operations.

Local Lease Company In New Group

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Major equipment leasing companies in Europe, North America and the Far East reported yesterday the formation of a worldwide organization to facilitate international lease transactions.

Among participants are the San Francisco-based United States Leasing International Inc. and the Canadian-Dominion Leasing Corp. Ltd., Toronto.

Six other companies are involved initially, representing France, the United Kingdom, Spain, Sweden, West Germany and Japan. It's anticipated that the organization, called Multilease, will expand to include firms in Africa, South America and Southeast Asia later this year.

Ultimatum Given Over U.S. Bombing

PARIS (UPI) — Hanoi negotiator Le Duc Tho said today he will refuse to meet with Dr. Henry A. Kissinger if the United States continues bombing in Vietnam.

Tho delivered the ultimatum when he arrived in Paris for talks that are scheduled to begin Thursday with President Nixon's National Security Adviser.

The meeting was arranged to discuss claims by both sides of violations of the Vietnam cease-fire.

The Viet Cong charged this weekend that U.S. planes had bombed in South Vietnam on Saturday in violation of the cease-fire agreement. The United States denied the charges and said it would welcome an investigation.

The heaviest loss reported by the Communists was at Loc Tan, six miles from the Cambodian border in Loc Ninh Province and about 75 miles northwest of Saigon. They said two F4 Phantoms fired rockets which killed and injured 34 civilians.

The International Control Commission in Saigon said today it would investigate the Communist claim if the Communists would widen their permitted air corridors for ICCS helicopters in the interest of safety.

Tho told reporters at Orly Airport: "The United States wants to resort to force and to other maneuvers in flagrant violation of the peace agreement and to put pressure on us once again. This is a vain effort.

"I wish to state seriously and categorically that from now to the date of the meeting between Dr. Kissinger and myself, or during that meeting, if U.S. aircraft again bomb the zone of control of the Provisional Revolutionary Government (Viet Cong) and if such cases as happened in Loc Ninh province occur again, then the proposed meeting will definitely not take place.

"If the meeting is taking place, it will be interrupted at once."

Talks between the two, scheduled to start Thursday, are to range over claims by each side that the other has been violating the Jan. 27 peace accord which Kissinger and Tho negotiated.

Kissinger is expected in Paris later in the week. As well as accusations of cease-fire violations, the two trouble-shooters are expected to discuss the Cambodian situation.

President Urged To Explain Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Freedom of Information Committee of Sigma Delta Chi urged President Nixon Monday to hold an hour-long, televised news conference to explain the Watergate scandal and answer questions about any administration part in it.

Courtney R. Scheldon, national chairman of the committee, said in a statement that a news conference would give Nixon a chance to clarify his position on Watergate.

"President Nixon has not held a press conference since March 15," Scheldon said. "Since that time, despite the overall denials issued by the White House, many questions have arisen in the public mind on exactly what President Nixon knew or did not know of the Watergate and related political espionage and corruption.

"It is our opinion that if regular press conferences were held during the past few years, President Nixon would have had to review the handling of the Watergate matters much earlier than subsequently happened.

"In the future, we recommend press conferences be held on the average of two or three a month in the same manner as President Nixon's predecessors."

Prosperity Seen For Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador to Saigon Ellsworth Bunker said yesterday South Vietnam eventually "will be one of the richest" nations in Southeast Asia.

"If the war continues, that day will be delayed," he said in an interview with U. S. News and World Report. "If peace comes, it will come quickly. I mean, in eight or 10 years, South Vietnam will be booming. It will be like South Korea, Malaysia and Thailand."

Bunker also said despite alleged North Vietnamese violations of the cease-fire, the United States has "reason to hope" Hanoi will live up to the agreements.

College Of Marin Is Seeking Sculptor

Hoping to donate a sculpture to the College of Marin library, the college's class of 1973 today called for local artists interested in the project to submit proposals.

Gregory Fearon, class president, said about $400 will be spent on the class gift. Interested artists should submit their names to Susan Koph in the student activities office in the next two weeks, he said.

President Challenged By Cranston

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said today Congress would call President Nixon's "bluff" in his Watergate scandal speech to provide full employment and control inflation.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the statewide AFL-CIO Legislative Conference, Cranston said, "The president has called for action to halt spiraling food and commodity prices. He has said he wants more jobs for everyone who wants to work.

"Well, we are going to give him that legislation. We are going to create jobs and if Phase III doesn't stop inflation we will give him tough, new legislation that will stop it."

Referring to Nixon's Watergate television speech two weeks ago, Cranston said he took "the President at his word, and I will do everything I can to make him live up to those pledges.

"Congress will call President Nixon's bluff in his Watergate speech to control inflation and provide full employment," he added.

Cranston also said the country "must get a grip on government spending. It is completely out of hand and it is a major contributor to the ruinous inflation we have been suffering from since 1965."

He said if Phase III voluntary controls fail, "We must crack down hard on profiteers and price gougers who are taking advantage of an inflationary psychology with unwarranted price increases.

Cranston also announced his co-sponsorship of legislation to create a Federal Full Employment Board and another bill he has introduced to create 1.15 million jobs.

"Essentially, my bill is a form of revenue sharing," he said. "State and local governments would administer the employment programs through local employment councils which would determine public needs, priorities and problems of economic development."

Corte Madera Given Tiburon Ridge Plans

Plans for a giant townhouse and apartment development on top of the Corte Madera-Tiburon ridge will be surveyed by the Corte Madera Planning Commission at its meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

A master plan proposal for La Cresta has been sent to the Corte Madera commission by the Marin County Planning Department because the development lies within the town's sphere of influence.

Theodore P. Hudec of San Francisco proposes to build 280 townhouses and 178 apartments on 103 acres located north of Tiburon Boulevard between the ends of Eagle Rock Drive and Via Los Altos in the Reed area.

The ridgelands are just south of Corte Madera's borders, and very close to the site of the embattled Madera del Presidio development, which at the moment is halted by a successful private citizens' suit.

The Marin County Planning Commission is scheduled to hold a public hearing on the master plan proposal for La Cresta on May 21, and Corte Madera's comments and recommendations have been sought.

Also before tonight's commission will be proposed ordinance amendments on planned unit development regulations, and on requiring dedication of land for school purposes in certain subdivisions.

Railroad Trestle Damaged In Fire

A nearby resident called police after he saw two juveniles by the wooden trestle and a bright flash. The youths ran away as the trestle started to burn, said police, and the Larkspur fire department extinguished the blaze.

Mill Valley Man Held In Robbery

A Mill Valley man was arrested early today on suspicion of taking two stereo receivers from a Mill Valley television shop.

Arrested while allegedly fleeing the Accurate Television Shop at 1 Throckmorton Avenue at 1:13 a.m. today was Richard Bernard Lucas, 26, of 190 Miller Avenue. He was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary and held without bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they were tipped off by a silent alarm and reached the store in time to see Lucas running away. A window had been smashed and two stereo receivers valued at $550 removed, they said.

Dental Group Is Reunified

SAN MATEO (AP) — The California Dental Association has been reunified after 76 years with Dr. Burton H. Press of Pittsburg as its president.

The 103-year-old professional organization had been split into two groups, one serving the southern part of the state and another the north.

Press, who was elected Saturday to represent the 12,000 association members, said:

"In a way dentistry is one profession that is trying to put itself out of business. I refer to its genuine efforts in the area of preventative dentistry-a total program of information and service which ultimately can eliminate the ills and defects of oral health which now we work to relieve and remedy."

He said the reunified dental association will support better care for Medi-Cal patients, fluoridation, improvement of training in all dental disciplines and the elevation of professional standards.

Suit Challenges Design Of Cars

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — A $2 million suit challenging the frontal design of many American cars goes to Superior Court today.

The case involves Scott Baker, 63, a Brisbane, Calif., carpenter who was struck by a Dodge Coronet and disabled nearly six years ago. Baker says he was struck by protruding chrome called the "eyebrow," which is located on the leading edge of the hood just above the headlight.

Baker was stepping onto a curb when the automobile came around a winding road, braked and hit him at 5-10 miles per hour, the suit said. Baker is asking $1 million general and $1 million punitive damages.

Marin Scouts Fete Half-Century

By PAUL LIBERATORE

The gold sign lashed to the bough of a pine tree said "50th Year," and scouts from every corner of the county celebrated the Marin Council's first half century Saturday during their annual Scout-O-Rama.

In eucalyptus-lined Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael, Cubs, Boy Scouts, Explorers and their leaders — about 2,000 of them — manned booths and exhibits built around the theme "Scouting on Display."

"This year we tried to emphasize boy-made and boy-operated exhibits, rather than a beautifully made piece of work obviously done by an adult," said Robert Links, Scout-O-Rama chairman.

As one passed through the front gate, and about 12,000 persons did, the new look in scouting was evident as members of Explorer Post 74 from Marinwood sold tickets and handed out maps of booths and displays.

Dressed in dark green Explorer shirts and neckerchiefs were several girls from the post, part of the wave of young women who joined the Explorer ranks since the program went co-ed five years ago, explained Mary Lou Jacobson, Marin Council publicist.

Action events dominated. Youngsters shinnied up rope climbs, traversed suspension bridges, played king of the mountain trying to knock each off a balance beam with pillows and crawled through elaborate obstacle courses.

On the grass in front of an authentic tepee members of Talako Lodge 533 of the Order of the Arrow performed Indian dances to the beat of the tom-tom and the jingle of bells.

Cubs from Pack 65 in San Anselmo led visitors through an elaborate plywood castle, King Arthur's Royal Court, filled with skill games and displays. Young knights on papier mache horses stood guard outside.

Cub Scout Pack 40 from Tamalpais Valley combined skill and ecology in a "bottle buster" game in which participants tried to smash bottles by rolling a wooden ball down a ramp. "Recycling the fun way," the sign said.

Fairfax Boy Scout Troop 49 put on a lively display of snakes and reptiles. King snakes, gopher snakes and even a thick-bodied boa constrictor were taken from glass cages for the adventurous to touch and examine close up.

A backwoods merry-go-round was built by Boy Scout Troop 61 out of rough logs lashed with rope. Scouts from Troop 50 in Sleepy Hollow demonstrated how to build a kayak with fiberglass and plastic resin.

Cubs from Pack 75 in Novato led planetary tours pushing visitors over the grass on homemade space ships and shuttles to plastic and cardboard planets, each planet built by a different den in the pack.

Council officials ran all food booths, doing a lively business in snow cones, hot dogs, popcorn and cotton candy.

POW's Party Set In Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — Planners of a three-day national homecoming celebration for all Vietnam veterans say more than 200 former prisoners of war have accepted invitations to the June affair.

"There could be more POWs here than at any one place at any one time except the White House dinner later this month," said W. W. Clements, president of Dr. Pepper Co., and chairman of the Dallas Salute Committee.

The celebration will be highlighted with a June 2 entertainment extravaganza in the Cotton Bowl sponsored by local businessmen. Bob Hope will be master of ceremonies for the two-hour, $350,000 show and committee officials hope that President Nixon might drop in.

SUNRISE OFF SPACEPORT

Soviet Vessels Prowl Off China

TAIPEI (UPI) — A Soviet fleet of three to five warships sailed through the Formosa Strait last Saturday in an apparent effort to spy on the Chinese Communist coastal defenses, authoritative sources said today.

The sources told UPI the Russian flotilla sailed along a route between 25 to 45 miles from the China Mainland when it passed through the 95-mile-wide strait in daylight.

The sources, who have access to military information, said the Russian naval patrol was composed of at least one destroyer, one escort destroyer and one submarine which was sailing on the surface.

They said two other Russian warships of unidentified types were also sighted with the fleet before it entered the strait from its northern end between Foochow on the mainland and Keelung in Taiwan at midmorning last Saturday. However, the two ships disappeared during the fleet's daylight passage through the 270-mile long strait, they added.

The sources said the two ships which disappeared could have been submarines passing submerged through the Strait, probably hugging the mainland coast, or they could have been diverted.

This is the first time that any Russian warships have appeared in the strait since 1949 when the Communists drove the Nationalist government to Taiwan.

The sources said the Russian ships apparently were equipped with sophisticated electronic gear capable of detecting and evaluating Chinese Communist radars and other military defense facilities along the coast.

Nationalist Chinese warships and Air Force planes which for more than two decades have maintained unchallenged supremacy in the strait shadowed the Russian ships all the way through the strait before the fleet disappeared into the South China Sea Saturday evening.

Antique Planes Draw Low Bids

BUENA PARK, Calif. (UPI) — People may bid the limit for antique cars, but when it comes to rare old fighter airplanes, bids fail to get off the ground, according to operators of the California Coastal Auction.

The auction yesterday featured the Movie World Museum's collection of four unusual aircraft, ranging from a plane used by Japanese Kamikaze pilots in World War II to a vintage 1936 plane, the first to have a closed cockpit.

Jack Brucker, one of the owners of the auction, said bidders had offered up to $87,500 for antique cars the day before. He said it was hoped the planes would go for $50,000 apiece but only a few bids in the mid-$20,000 range were received.

Two Killed In Florida Prisons

NEW RIVER, Fla. (UPI) — Violence among inmates at two Florida prisons during the weekend left one convict dead.

Convicted murderer Jimmy Freeman, 23, of Miami, was stabbed to death and three other prisoners wounded in a knife fight at the Bradford County state prison branch here last night.

Inter-racial fighting had erupted less than 24 hours earlier among 150 prisoners of the Sumter Correctional Institution in Bushnell 100 miles to the south.

Bradford County Prison Superintendent Sidney Fortner said the knifing involved only white prisoners.

School Lunch Program Opposed For Fabricated Food Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some citizens groups and food professionals said today Agriculture Department plans to allow use of fabricated foods as substitutes in school breakfast and lunch programs could have an adverse effect on children's health.

Fifteen nutritionists, representing a coalition of objectors, said in a statement addressed to Herbert Rorex, director of the department's child nutrition division:

"We believe that the proposed foods could have serious adverse effects on the health of school children and would discourage children from developing proper eating habits."

New regulations proposed by the department in revising school breakfast programs are "a model for cost cutting at the expense of our children's health," the statement said. Fabricated foods are highly processed foods later enriched with vitamins and minerals lost through the process.

The statement said the nutritionists were "most concerned about the grain-fruit product that is proposed as a substitute for a real breakfast." This is a tart or cake, heavily fortified with vitamins and minerals and artifically flavored.

The nutritionists said the large amounts of sugar in the products can contribute to tooth decay. The only nutrients present, they said, are those added by the manufacturer while nutrients present in natural foods "are deficient in the grain-fruit product."

They said that while they "strongly endorse" federally-financed school food programs, "we demand that such programs promote good eating habits and not jeopardize the health of the children."

Among organizations endorsing the statement were the Food Research and Action Center, the Agribusiness Accountability Project, the Arkansas Community Organization for Reform Now, the Community Nutrition Institute, the Federation of Homemakers, the National Consumers League, and the National Sharecroppers Fund. A group of 29 food professionals also signed the statement as individuals.

WE'RE SURE PROUD OF OUR LITTLE CAR.

In Vega's first year, 1971, it was the Motor Trend Car of the Year. A singular honor, and the first of many.

Later that year, in the Car & Driver Readers' Choice poll, Vega was named "best economy sedan." It was the first time in the eight years of the poll that an American car had won in that category.

And in a nationwide survey of auto servicemen conducted by Motor Service and Service Station Management magazines Vega was considered to be the easiest subcompact to service.

Now, in 1973, two more big ones for our little one: Motor Trend named our Vega GT the Economy Car of the Year.

We appreciate all the honors, but we're really much more interested in your stamp of approval.

Please, stop by your local Chevy dealer's for a test drive.

See why we're so proud.

Church Women Restoring Windows Of Stained Glass

By JOAN LISETOR

Sometime next month the world famous Capt. Robert Dollar stained glass windows will be installed in the new building of the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael. Their true clarity and brilliance will be returned because of the efforts of a group of women who are members of the church.

The women are cleaning and refurbishing the windows, removing paint and putty and cleaning dirt that has collected since the windows were installed in the 1930s.

The windows are the work of the Harold W. Cummings. The women are working on the windows in Cummings' son's studio in San Rafael under the supervision of his wife, Judy, and Paul Dane.

According to Dane, who refers to the women as "Santa's Little Helpers," the volunteer effort is saving the church at least $1,000 and an astronomic number of hours. He and Mrs. Cummings have conducted on the job training sessions for the women.

"We were a little nervous at first," explained Mrs. C.W. Richardson, "but once Paul explained that the pieces bend in all directions and were delicate but strong, we relaxed."

The women have uncovered pieces, long buried under plaster, with beautiful pictures. They have completed one set or lancet of the windows. Three lancets comprise a window.

With at least one of the eight women working every day the windows should meet the contractor's deadline, Dane said.

RAINBOWS UNLIMITED

New Help For Retarded Children

PATRICK A. MALONE

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Michelle is a rosy-cheeked, pigtailed six-year-old who, six months ago, could not eat, dress herself or even play without help. Now she is learning to do all those things, thanks to a new program for the retarded.

Jeff, like Michelle, is considered "profoundly retarded," which means he has an IQ under 25 and theoretically is completely untrainable: incapable of learning the most basic skills to care for himself— feeding, dressing, toilet training. But Jeff, like Michelle, is learning.

Many if not most of the 250,000 Americans like Jeff and Michelle are institutionalized at an early age, abandoned by society as hopeless, to exist in often squalid, depressing surroundings.

A PROGRAM called "Rainbows Unlimited" is one answer to such neglect. It has brought together a group of nonprofessional volunteers who are attempting with a dozen children what many professionals refuse to try: Teaching the unteachable.

Rainbows founder Linda Weir was giving Jeff a speech lesson when a reporter looked in. Jeff is eight years old and cannot walk; he is an attractive, thin boy with shiny black hair. But his blue eyes looked clouded and confused, and his gangly frame was perched awkwardly on a straight-backed chair.

"Jeff, this is a ball. Say bbbaaalll."

"Bbuh."

"Yes, that's good," she said, handing him a bit of potato chip.

She explained to the visitor that even if Jeff makes only part of a sound, he is rewarded.

"Jeff, do this. Pot-tee."

"Grah."

"No," she said sharply, and turned her head away for a few seconds.

After a few more tries, Jeff began to lose interest in the lesson. Miss Weir let him crawl away.

"THE MAIN thing with these kids is controlling them, their attention span is so short," she noted. "Five months ago, you couldn't even get Jeff to look at you."

Michelle, like Jeff, cannot concentrate her gaze for more than a few seconds. Her vacant green eyes took in the visitor uncomprehendingly, then soon began wandering randomly about the small but cheerful room where she was about to take a lesson in dressing.

A woman volunteer—one is assigned to each child—held a bit of cookie in one hand, a metal embroidery hoop in the other. Michelle had to reach through the hoop to get the reward. It was the first step in the long, trying process of teaching Michelle to dress and undress herself.

The hoop was maneuvered so Michelle could only get to the cookie by going through the hoop. Then she had to take the hoop off, for which she was also rewarded.

WHILE JEFF and Michelle took their lessons, Rainbow's other students played in the school's main activities area, a spacious, well-lighted room adjoining the smaller lesson rooms.

It is not ordinary play. You do not hear the babble of normal children laughing and fighting. These sadly retarded children do not play together; they are wrapped up in their own cocoons of bewilderment. Their eyes roam as if endlessly searching for something they can recognize; their lips rarely move except to cry; their bodies wander aimlessly in a half stumbling gait or crawl.

It is a hearthbreaking sight. But Miss Weir and her volunteers are unraveling, bit by bit, these cocoons of retardation.

When these children came to Rainbows at its founding late last year they could do nothing for themselves. Now, Miss Weir said, all are toilet-trained to varying degrees, they all can feed themselves, and each is learning at his own rate other skills so commonplace to ordinary humans.

THE METHOD is called operant conditioning, which, simply explained, is a way of changing behavior, or directing behavior in a certain direction, by positive and negative reinforcement of actions. It is based on the premise that you do not need to know why someone is abnormal before you can treat the abnormality.

"Let's face it," Miss Weir said. "Nobody's ever going to spend a lot of money on these kids. We can have programs with nonprofessionals if we have three things:

"One, the program has to be written so success is inherent with each child. In other words, you have to start with something he can do and then work up.

"Two, you have to put it into terms the child can understand and show him that it's worthwhile to learn it. He has to have an incentive.

"Three, you have to believe they can do it. Otherwise you could not work with these kids."

Critics have said that operant conditioning has been used to train apes to work puzzles. This, they have said, is no way to work with humans. Miss Weir replies with a simple pragmatism: Everyone else has given up, and, "It works, doesn't it?"

THE GOAL of Rainbows is to train retarded children to the point where others will become interested in them, to the point where they have enough skills to enter special education classes.

"There's this big Catch 22," Miss Weir said. "If a child does not have basic skills like toilet training and self-feeding, he can't get into training classes."

Miss Weir founded Rainbows Unlimited, Inc., a non-profit corporation, on the conviction that "institutions are not a 20th Century concept." Drawing on her own knowledge—she has a master's degree in education—and that of specialists in operant conditioning, she wrote the programs. With her own savings and the help of friends and her church the school was established in the basement of a church, five days a week, 3 ½ hours each day. Volunteers received 40 hours of training from professionals. About half were parents of retarded children, almost all were housewives.

The children were all referred to the program by others which had failed to teach them anything. Michelle, for example, was in a special program for three years and by the end of that time was judged to be at the level of a six-weeks-old baby. With the help of Rainbows, her horizons are brightening.

"For many years," Miss Weir said, "parents were told things like, 'Your child can walk but will never talk.' And parents will come to me and say, 'He can't even sit up.' Well, I tell them that's where we start teaching him.

"If he's alive and breathing, you've got a start."

This Pisces Is Still A Skeptic Over Time For Cutting Of Hair

DEAR HELEN:

You should know more about a subject before you knock it!

"Hopeful" asked which days of the month are best to cut hair for maximum growth, according to the zodiac, and said she was a Libra. You answered, "And I'm a skeptic."

For your information: When the moon is in a water sign: Cancer, Scorpio or Pisces, hair should be cut to make it healthy; and for thicker hair, cut it when the moon is in opposition to the sun. — GEMINI

DEAR GEMINI:

Give me one good, scientific reason for your statement and this Pisces will stop signing herself — SKEPTIC

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a gay, a young woman who has many straight male friends, and it seems a few either don't know or won't accept where I stand. Sure, I enjoy going with them socially — I can be a much better friend to them than can most women. But how do I let them know I don't stand in the same shoes as the heterosexual female?

Men I meet are constantly asking for my number, for dates, etc. and I'm tired of always saying "I'm busy." I suppose I could start dressing in drag but I don't dig too much on role playing — it creates hassles in your head.

I work voluntarily on a gay switchboard hot line and have discovered this type of situation seldom if ever happens to any of my callers. Why me?

Don't suggest a psychiatrist. I've been out of the closet too long for that. — GAY AND PROUD

DEAR G AND P.:

Since you're out of the closet, seems to me the logical response to hopeful men would be, "I'm gay." No? Well then —

A woman who doesn't enjoy male attention can turn off the sex appeal in a minute. A man doesn't usually ask a girl for a date unless he's had some encouragement. Thus, here's my slightly psychological guess: maybe you've come out of the wrong closet. Are you sure this life style you've chosen is for the rest of your life? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 26, divorced, and like my freedom. But I'd also like freedom of choice. Sleeping with every man I date isn't "freedom," but it's expected. If I go out with a fellow more than twice, he thinks I'm strange if I won't spend the night with him. What's more, all our friends assume we already have.

I don't feel that I know a man until I've been seeing him at least a month. But these days, you're pushed into sex before you're ready, then you stay together longer than you want because you dread being pushed into the next affair.

Does anyone have a solution for a woman who isn't anti-sex, but merely selection? — CARING COMES FIRST

DEAR CCF:

Have you ever tried telling men exactly that: you aren't anti-sex but merely selective . . . and "caring comes first?"

Too many young people (both men and women) think the New Morality says "You must!" when it really means, "You have freedom of choice."

I think most fellows worth waiting for won't mind waiting for your decision. Am I right, you modern singles? — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Independent-Journal.

Check Those Silent Leaks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Is a silent leak running up your water bill? A silent toilet leak can send thousands of gallons of water down the drain without anyone knowing it.

The people at the American Water Works Association say there is an easy way to find out if you have one.

They recommend putting a few drops of food coloring in the tank. If there is a leak, the color will appear in the toilet bowl. The trouble may be a worn out washer in the toilet's inlet valve, a discharge stopper that is defective or off-center, or an overflow pipe that has rotted at the base.

News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Do you just drop a letter in the nearest mailbox and hope for the best?

You can do better than that. You can help to speed your letter on its way by choosing the right mailbox.

All mailboxes may look alike, but today they are not. Some have a white star painted on them; some two white stars.

The difference? The latest collection from the one-star box is 5 p.m. The latest collection from the two-star box is 8 p.m.

If you're a late mailer, that's your box. But perhaps the one-star box is nearer. You don't know where to find the other one?

That's no excuse. The location of the nearest two-star box is in a printed notice on the one-star box.

IF YOU are mailing an airmail letter, you will, of course, look for the nearest white-topped "Airmail Only" box. The last collection from these boxes is listed as 4 p.m.

There is something new in this aspect of mail service. To supplement the regular airlines, which used to carry much of the mail, but which have cut out many of their night flights due to the decrease in passenger demand, the U.S. Postal Service has added its own air-taxi network.

These mail taxis are mostly propeller-driven craft, though there are some jets under contract to the post office. There are 167 of these planes in all. They fly among the major U.S. cities in hops of 600 miles or so.

With the addition of this service, it is possible for the Postal Service to promise delivery of airmail materials the next day within a 600-mile radius, provided the letter is properly zip-coded.

Although 4 p.m. is the stated time for the last pickup of airmail, there are some later collections occasionally to connect with flight schedules.

ANOTHER THING to remember in connection with airmail: Don't take it for granted that an airmail stamp is all you need on an airmail letter. With some 90 billion pieces of mail of various kinds flowing through the nation's post offices during the year, an airmail stamp may not be sufficiently conspicuous.

Use airmail stickers on both the front and the back of your letter. Or write the words in conspicuous lettering.

Also, in an emergency, you might want to take advantage of the "mailgram." This is a letter-telegram. All you have to do is call Western Union and give them the message.

It will be sent by teleprinter to the post office in the city of destination and delivered in a special envelope by the mailman the following day.

You have still another choice: You could try the new Express Mail service. Overnight delivery of letters or parcels is guaranteed. This service is used primarily by businesses, but anyone can take advantage of it.

That is, anyone who happens to be in any one of the 56 cities in which it is operating at the present time. Consult the post office for information.

If you want special handling of your mail, you have a choice of special delivery, certified mail, or registered mail.

SPECIAL DELIVERY does not mean fast delivery, as many assume. If your special delivery letter arrives in the post office at the time of a regular delivery, the postman will take it along with other mail.

If it arrives after the regular delivery, it will be taken to its destination by a special-delivery carrier.

Registered mail costs 95 cents, plus postage. This includes insurance up to $10,000. This mail moves slowly because it must be signed in and signed out at every point of handling. It is practically impossible to lose a registered item.

Certified mail costs 35 cents, plus postage. It does not afford the security of registered mail, but it gives you a return receipt from the receiver.

You can read all about this — and more — in the new booklet prepared by the consumer advocate for the U.S. Postal Service, Thomas Chadwick.

It is coming off the press soon and is free. It is called "Consumers' Guide to Postal Service." You may get a copy at your local post office or address your request to Consumer Advocate, U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260.

FLO KENNEDY
To speak Friday

Feminist Attorney To Speak On 'Women And The Media'

Florynce Kennedy, attorney and feminist, will speak on "Women and the Media," in a Women on the Move sponsored program at Redwood High School Friday.

The 8:30 p.m. talk will be held at the Redwood gymnasium.

The outspoken Flo Kennedy has been active in the black and feminist movements and was one of the founding members of the National Organization for Women. Last year she founded the National Feminist Party. Currently living in San Francisco, she is outspokenly critical of the media and medical care in terms of women and minority peoples. She is nationally noted for such comments as, "Being a mother is a noble status, right? So why does it change when you put 'unwed' or 'welfare' in front of it?"

Tickets for the talk are available from the Redwood High School box office and at the door.

The Defense Is Doomed From Start —Take The Task Gracefully

In a certain kind of hand the big job of the defenders is to stay out of trouble. Naturally, the main task of declarer is to see that the defenders never get out of hot water.

A LOW HEART

West Opened the deuce of hearts, and East won with the king. East saw that he couldn't safely continue hearts and that he couldn't safely continue hearts and that he couldn't safely shift to either clubs or diamonds. The only safe play was his singleton trump, and East promptly led this.

South noticed the momentary hesitation and read it for what it was. He therefore planned his play on the assumption that East had all of the missing high cards.

Declarer won the second trick with a high trump and led a club toward dummy. West properly played low, and South finessed with dummy's ten.

EAST'S ONLY HOPE

East won with the jack of clubs and looked for a way out. It was obviously fatal to lead clubs or diamonds, so East led the ace of hearts as his only hope.

Declarer ruffed in dummy, returned to his hand with a trump and discarded dummy's low club on the queen of hearts. Now South led his last club and played dummy's last club, the king.

NO ESCAPE

East had to take the ace of clubs, and this time there was no escape. If East returned a diamond, dummy would get a free finesse. If East returned a club or a heart, dummy would ruff while South discarded his losing diamond. South was sure to make his game contract no matter what East did.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♠- J 10 6 5 2.
♦- A Q 6 2
♣- K 10 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You cannot overcall without a good suit, and you are not strong enough for a takeout double. If there is any future in this hand, your partner will be able to act despite your pass.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Musical chairs! Can you match the great people born today with their accomplishments?

1. - PATRICE MUNSEL, opera star, is 48 today. Born in Spokane, Wash., she was the youngest singer ever offered a contract by the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York. Critics acclaimed her role in the musical production of (A) Symphony No. 1, (B) Stormy Weather, (C) Mac, the Knife, (D) Die Fledermaus.

2 - BOBBY DARIN, singer and songwriter, 37 today, now stars on his own TV show, slipping into the network lineup as a summer replacement one year ago. Audiences also responded with cheers when he sang (A) Symphony No. 1, (B) Stormy Weather, (C) Mac, the Knife, (D) Die Fledermaus.

3 - OTTO KLEMPERER, conductor, was born 88 years ago in Breslau, Germany. WARMING UP FOR CONCERT

All eyes, except those of the drummer, are on the music as members of the Sinaloa Junior High School band in Novato rehearse for their annual music festival at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the school gymnasium. With arm outstretched, music instructor Joanne Pagano directs the selection, seemingly unnoticed by the musicians.

Ballet In Strong, Lively Conclusion

By MARIE RAMEAU

The eighth annual Pacific Regional Ballet Festival, hosted this year by Marin Civic Ballet, came to a strong and lively conclusion in a gala performance Saturday evening at the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, San Rafael.

After several days of workshop performances, master classes and concerts, the gala event gave the nine participating companies a chance to display the best of their repertoires.

Strongest among these were Marin Civic Ballet and Laguna Beach Civic Ballet in "Brahms Waltzes, Opus 39" and "Variations on a Theme by Haydn" respectively.

The "Brahms Waltzs," with choreography by Charles Weidman and dedicated to the famous modern dancer Doris Humphery, is a difficult and challenging work for the best of companies, not only musically but stylistically, and Marin Civic Ballet rendered it with strength, joy and confidence. Yet, sometimes I got the feeling I was "watching ballet dancers do modern," for it is expecting a lot of a ballet-trained dancer to make an immediate and total transition to a thoroughly modern work and a radically different way of moving.

"Variations on a Theme by Haydn" was an abstract ballet with choreography by Lila Zali to music of Brahms and enhanced by succulent lime-green chiffon tunics. It consisted of some very tricky ballet movements sometimes requiring an incredible speed on the part of the dancer. This ballet gave the Laguna Beach company a chance to demonstrate its technical strength, particularly in the pas de deux sections, and the effect was at times brilliant.

"Russian Masque," presented by the Sacramento Ballet to music of Khatchaturian, was not particularly Russian in either style or content. (In fact, it was not "Russian" at all.) From point of view of both music and lustrous red and gold costumes, it could have been one of the strongest works of the evening, but choreographically it was about the weakest. It abounded in choreographic cliches which reminded me of some rather boring classroom exercises, and the dancers lacked lightness and ease in its performance. But if a choreographer takes a heavy-handed approach to his ballet, can we expect his dancers to be airborne?

Other companies participating in the program were the Dorothy Fisher Concert Dancers in "Songs Along the River"; Ballet Tacoma in "Offering"; The Cornish Ballet in "A Remembrance"; San Joaquin Concert Ballet in "Blue is the Color of My True Love's Bag"; Peninsula Theatre Ballet in "Roundabout"; and Tacoma Performing Dance Company in "Paganinianna."

A Thrilling Concert By Rejto, Baller

By MARTIN FRICK

When two consummately musical artists who have performed together for 26 years put on a concert, one can expect completely satisfying results. When they are performing works that they have undoubtedly played together several times during their long association, always bringing new experiences and fresh insights, the result is thrilling, as it was last night when cellist Gabor Rejto and pianist Adolph Baller teamed up in Dominican College's Angelico Hall.

The first half of the program consisted of two Beethoven sonatas composed 20 years apart. The first, Sonata in F Major, Opus 5, already established Beethoven's preference for motives over themes, and last night's duo made the most of that motivic interplay.

In the adagio introduction it is the cellist's eloquent statements that are spotlighted, but they are woven into the texture of the piano. The allegro which follows gives the piano center stage, but the piano is ornamented with the cello's scattered statements, which were phrased perfectly by Rejto.

Beethoven's greater assurance in composing for the cello is apparent in the Sonata in D Major, Opus 102, thus giving more complexity and freedom to both instruments. The finale begins as a Bachian fugue which soon goes unmistakably Beethovian by its greater concern with developing the motivic material, and the duo sent it soaring through the smooth scale patterns to the climax.

The ethereal second movement which had preceded it (Adagio con molto sentimento d'affetto — the classical period now definitely in the past) was introduced by the cello singing the melody for the only time. Hereafter, both cello and piano blended again as a sensitive duet. There was not a cut-off or delicate attack that was not special last night.

Zoltan Kodaly's Sonata, Opus 4 was a pleasant change after intermission. The composer's roots in Hungarian folk music were instantly recognizable in the cello's melody built on a series of fourths together with the sympathetic rubato executed by the artists in the rather improvisational.

Following two Beethoven sonatas and a Kodaly with one by Brahms seemed an unwise choice. But the Sonata in F Major, Opus 99 was played with such lyricism and true style (the three allegro movements — vivace, passionato, moltoso thoroughly distinguished one from the other) that one got a second wind and became enraptured with the master composer of chamber music.

The too-small audience brought Rejto and Baller back to play yet another Beethoven, his Seven Variations on a Theme from Mozart's Magic Flute, which was just the right light touch to end the evening.

Mother's Day Tribute Fine One With Inspired 'Dido And Aeneas'

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

In a tribute to Mother's Day, the Dominican College Chorus, under the direction of Winifred Baker, presented an afternoon concert at Angelico Hall Sunday. Featured as soloist was soprano Gwen Curatilo; selections included the music of Palestrina, Purcell, Bach, Mozart, Haydn and Ludwig Altman.

The piece de resistance for the afternoon was an inspired interpretation of Purcell's only opera, "Dido and Aeneas." Miss Curatilo was eloquent as Dido; her pure tone and flawless intonation equalling her ability to project the emotional qualities inherent in the role. Extremely moving was her "Thy Hand Belinda," — one of the most beautiful farewell laments ever written.

Sharing in the perfection of the performance of this work were all the exceptionally fine student soloists. Toni Mehocich as Belinda, Kate Rowland as the Sorceress and Martin Frick as the Sailor, were particularly outstanding. Narrator John Savant supplied the continuity of the story line. Bouquets to chorus and all!

Uneven tempos and wrong notes from the organ marred the opening piece, selections from Bach's Cantata "Sleepers Wake!" The highly melodic duet, "My Friend is Thine," sung by Miss Curatilo and Clay Roni with accompanists Winifred Baker on harpsichord, and Mark Jordan on violin, was well-executed, and Bach's eternal optimism shone through in the choruses.

Although the use of female voices to fill out the tenor section lent an unequal balance which took some getting used to, Miss Baker managed to overcome such handicaps with a lively conducting style.

Haydn's Missa Brevis made for an overlong first half, but with Joyce Conklin on harpsichord the organ was kept in steady rhythm. Shifts from slow to fast meters were smooth and dynamic levels were varied effectively. The tendency for tones to sag in quiet moments was happily absent in the lovely soprano choral passages in the "Dona Nobis Paces."

Attendance — with a fair number of mothers present — was well over 100. The new acoustics and the promise of some upholstered seats should aid in Angelico's popularity.

Priest Shot After Church Is Robbed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Roman Catholic priest was found shot to death in the rectory of his church today, the apparent victim of a robbery of the Sunday collection money, police reported.

The victim, Father John Conlon, 47, of St. Bonaventure's rectory in Queens, was found lying on the floor of the basement office shortly after midnight by two fellow priests, police said. He had been shot in the chest and arms and was pronounced dead at the scene.

Noted Writer Dies At 86

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frances Marion, America's first woman war correspondent who later became an Oscar-winning screenwriter, writing most of the silent films of Rudolph Valentino, Mary Pickford and Greta Garbo, has died at the age of 86.

Miss Marion, whose illustrious writing career included two Oscars, died Saturday at Good Samaritan Hospital following a brief illness.

Considered the dean of Hollywood screenwriters during the late 1920s and 30s, Miss Marion wrote 136 films, including Garbo's first talkie, "Anna Christie." Her other best known films included "Dinner At Eight," and "Stella Dallas."

Yablonski Given Humanist Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph A. Yablonski, slain several years ago after opposing incumbent W. A. "Tony" Boyle for the presidency of the United Mine Workers of America, today was awarded posthumously the 1973 Ethical Humanist Award by the New York Society for Ethical Culture.

The award was accepted by his son, Joseph "Chip" Yablonski.

Group May Oust John Ehrlichman

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — No one has ever been removed from Santa Monica High School's illustrious Hall of Fame, whose members include actor Glen Ford, actress Nan Martin, former Olympic shot putter Parry O'Brien and professional football player R. C. Owens.

But a move is underway today to unseat another of the school's hall of famer's—former presidential aide John Ehrlichman, a 1942 graduate, who resigned his White House post last month.

Last week, the school's student body council passed a proposal that the Hall of Fame Committee look into the possibility of removing Ehrlichman's name from the roll.

No Beatle Return

LONDON (UPI) — The Beatles will not reunite, former group member Paul McCartney said yesterday. "There is not going to be a reunion," he said at the opening of his first British tour with his new group Wings. "We might do things for each other, or with each other, but there will be no comeback."

Watergate Probe Pick Due Soon?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elliot L. Richardson testified today that the White House passed him "two or three names" of possible choices for special Watergate prosecutor but that he had not included them in his list of four finalists.

He indicated he might select the prosecutor by tomorrow.

On the third day of Senate hearings on his nomination to be attorney general, Richardson was asked by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., whether he had consulted with President Nixon or the White House in his search for a special prosecutor.

"No," Richardson said. Then he added: "They passed me two or three names which they asked me to consider."

Richardson was not asked nor did he say who passed him the names or how it was done.

attorney general two weeks ago by Nixon and given "full authority" over the investigation of the Watergate scandal. In response to congressional demand, Richardson said he would name a special prosecutor and give him "complete authority" over all Watergate matters.

Thomasson said Tyler, a former assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's civil rights division under President Eisenhower, was in Washington Sunday, apparently discussing the matter with Richardson.

The Washington Star-News said former Sen. William B. Spong, a Virginia Democrat, is a "leading candidate."

The naming of the prosecutor and the guidelines under which he would operate were the key issues in what would otherwise have been quick and routine approval of Richardson, who would be serving in his third cabinet post.

A number of senators have said they want to know who the prosecutor will be before they confirm Richardson.

Balloon Race Takes Zany Twists In Chesapeake Bay Competition

ROCK HALL, Md. (UPI) — Eight pilots with a love for the unexpected Saturday completed man's first crossing of the Chesapeake Bay by hot-air balloon.

Two others proved the aeronautical principle that balloons fly wherever the wind takes them—one landing inside a 16-foot motor boat in the middle of the bay, the other touching down at an Army arsenal 25 miles north of the starting point.

The huge, propane-heated spheroids lifted off at Sandy Point State Park on the western side of the 18-mile-wide waterway and headed northeast for Maryland's rural eastern shore in the first annual Great Preakness Festival Balloon Race.

Robert L. Waligunda, 27, of Princeton, N.J., guided "America" across the bay in 25 minutes, the fastest time, touching down in a freshly plowed corn field.

All eight successful balloons landed within four miles of Rock Hall (pop. 483) with curious residents running from houses and hopping off tractors with waves, smiles and scores of puzzled looks.

"We chased you through two corn fields," Joey Van Sant said when the 13 year-old boy and a companion reached pilot Harry Repak of New York City and "Odessy" when it touched down in a patch of clover.

Race officials said P.E. "Ed" Yost of Sioux Falls, S.D., made the first boat landing in aeronautical history when he ran out of air in the middle of the bay.

"I'm running out of fuel. Throw me a rope," Yost yelled to chase boat skipper Louis Davenport. The balloon softly touched down inside the boat at matched speeds of 35 miles per hour.

Winds shifting toward the northwest carried balloonists Jerry Melsha of Brandon, S.C. back toward the western shore, forcing him to land on the beach at the U.S. Army's Edgewood Arsenal, 25 miles north of the destination.

"We don't care who wins," yelled Repak to a companion high above the bay, "We just want to have some fun, give the sponsors their money's worth and show people what balloons are like."

The race kicked off a week of activity's leading up to the 98th running of the Preakness at Baltimore's Pimlico race course May 19.

Rep. Ashley Is Given Release

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, was released from the city workhouse yesterday after serving 39 hours of a three-day sentence for having physical control of his car while intoxicated and resisting arrest.

Ashley, 50, a congressman for 19 years, was arrested when a policeman found him slumped over the wheel of his car. He began swinging at the officer when the patrolman opened the car's door.

"I'm a citizen who made a mistake and I'm a citizen who is going to be treated like any other citizen who made a mistake," Ashley said before going to jail. "We have one system of justice in this country—treat everyone equally."

Sonoma Board Faces Deadlock

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors will attempt to resolve a deadlock on the Sonoma State College area master plan at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the county administration center in Santa Rosa.

A month ago the board deadlocked on a 2-2 vote on setting future density for nearly 8,000 acres around the campus. Supervisor Robert Theiller, who owns property in the area, asked for a ruling from the county counsel's office on whether he can vote on the issue tomorrow if his land is exempted.

Planners Schedule Special Meeting

The Novato Planning Commission will have a special session to review the Novato general plan at 8 p.m. today at the Novato community house.

Commissioners will discuss changes in the general plan and land use designations on the general plan map made by the Novato City Council.

It's Bad Timing On Giants' Part

It seems the Giants wait until they draw their largest crowes before playing their worst baseball. They drew 31,626 yesterday at Candlestick Park and promptly lost, 15-3, to the hated Dodgers.

When the Giants lost a Sunday doubleheader to the visiting Cincinnati Reds April 15, by scores of 11-0 (ow!) and 7-3, there were 27,651 poor souls to witness it. At least the paying customers who watched yesterday's game came out of it with something to cover their heads since it was cap day.

THE GIANTS save their best games for the days three and four thousand wander into the ballpark. Owner Horace Stoneham would much rather have it the other way. The faithful followers who comprise the lonely gathering on the nights when 3,500 show up are going to be there, win or lose. It's the marginal group which makes up much of the crowd when it reaches figures of 30,000 and more. After seeing a game like yesterday's, it might be a few days before they return to the scene of the disaster.

Some circles have placed the blame of low attendance at Giant games on the hooliganism which was going on the past few years at Candlestick. Since some adverse publicity in the Bay Area press detailed some of the daylight muggings, the club has taken steps to put an end to the troubles.

According to Donald Foreman, the man in charge of stadium operations for the Giants, things are now running smoothly. It is amazing what the mere presence of regular policemen can do.

IN THE PAST all the crowd control at Candlestick was carried out by the Burns Agency, with members of the San Francisco Police outside the walls. Since the trouble caused by roaming bands of kids came to the fore, methods have been changed. Now there are uniformed members of San Francisco's finest roaming around inside the stadium during games, to help the Burns people. You and I know, a real honest-to-goodness cop has much more effect on a lawbreaker, or a potential lawbreaker, than a security guard. During the homestand just completed, there was no trouble reported.

"We haven't had any problems since the San Francisco Police started patroling," said Foreman. He added that a report was to be made by the police covering the 12-day homestand in which the beefed up detail was on duty. Foreman didn't want to jump to any conclusions just yet, but it was obvious he felt the improved situation at the old ball park was going to last.

OWNER STONEHAM is the last person who wants a stadium which is not safe for the customers to bring their families. Oldtimers in the organization point out that was one of the major reasons, along with lagging attendance, he left New York for the greener pastures of the west coast. The neighborhood surrounding the Polo

Bradley To Pitch Tonight

Combined AP & UPI

SAN DIEGO — The San Francisco Giants, hoping for some pitching help following their worst week of the season, will be keeping a close watch on right-hander Tom Bradley here tonight. At 7:30 the game will be televised on Channel 2.

Bradley, who has not pitched since being struck on the right ankle by a batted ball April 17, brings a 2-1 record into action for the start of a three-game series with the San Diego Padres.

The Giants could use some additional pitching following a 3-3 standoff with the Dodgers and Cardinals at Candlestick Park last week, including a 20-hit, 15-3 drubbing by Los Angeles Sunday.

During the three-game series, won by the surging Dodgers 2-1, ace reliever Randy Moffitt injured his left knee and second baseman Tito Fuentes jammed his thumb-both during the Giants' 4-3 victory Saturday.

"Having Bradley back could give us a big bost," said Giants' manager Charlie Fox. "I hope that Tito and Randy can be back soon also, and I'm hoping to get six or seven innings out of Bradley tonight."

The Dodgers Sunday erupted for nine runs in the fourth inning, a National League season high, making it a breeze for right-hander Andy Messersmith, 3-3, over Jim Barr, 4-3.

Joe Ferguson and Dave Lopes each had three runs batted in during the nine-hit inning, Ferguson with a three-run homer and Lopes with a two-run homer and a single. Ferguson's homer was his seventh, while Lopes' was his first in the majors.

Ferguson added a run scoring single in the seventh, giving him a share of the League RBI lead with 27.

"I'm just a guy trying to keep the ball in play and when I hit a homer, it comes as a bonus," Ferguson said.

Willie Davis added four hits and four runs scored, with Ron Cey contributing four hits and five RBIs.

"It's the first time I've had four RBI's in a game," said Ferguson. "But I don't care how many I get — it's when I get them that counts. I'm just happy I'm helping this team win."

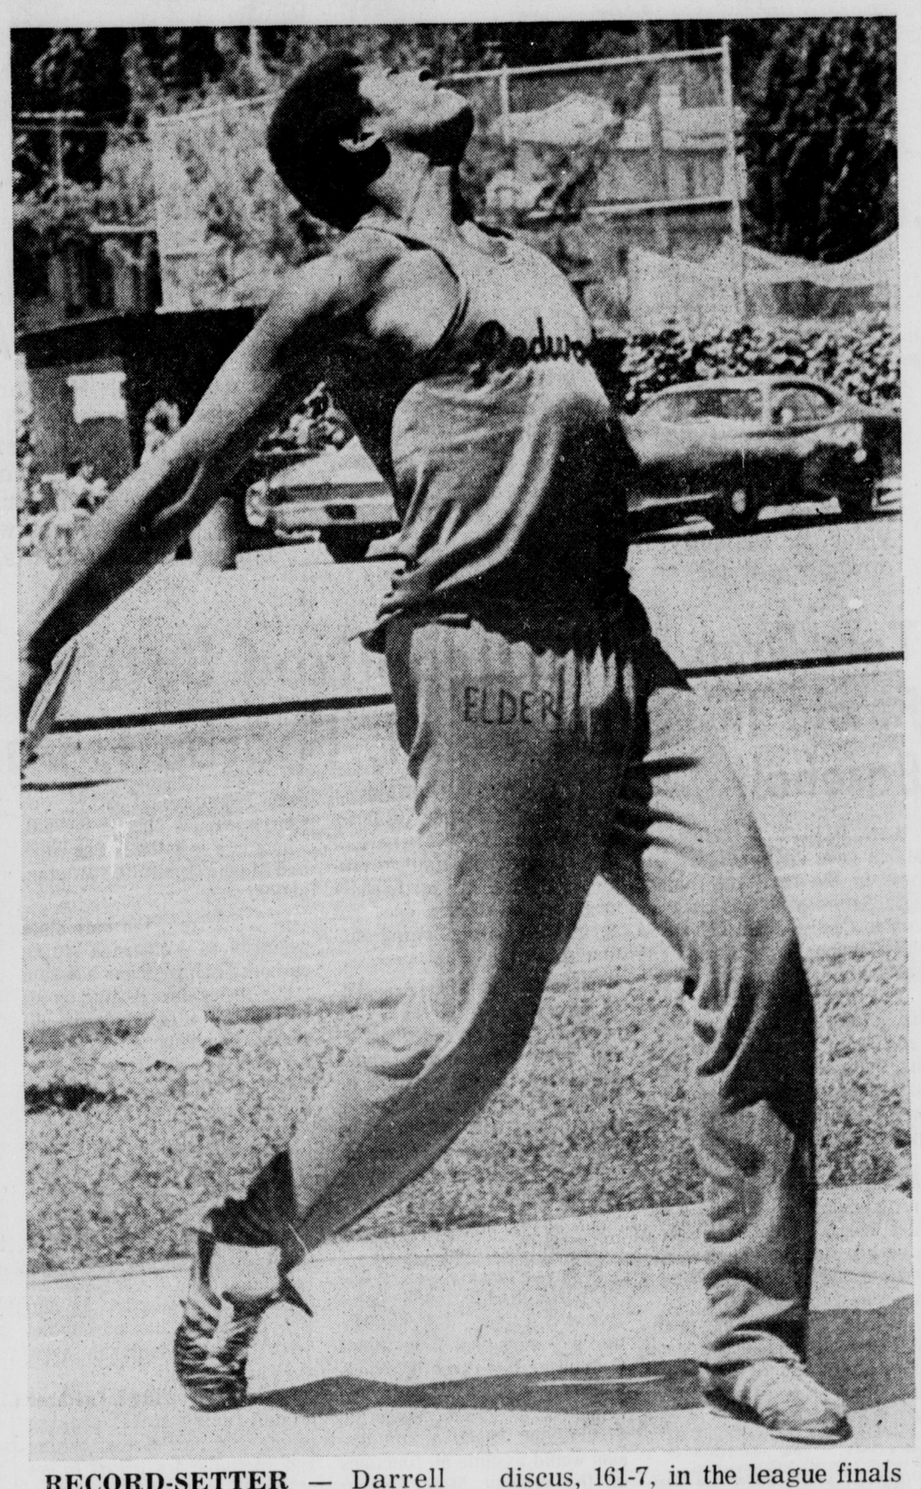
Elder Breaks Prep Discus Mark



RECORD-SETTER — Darrell Elder of Redwood High School Saturday set the Marin County Athletic League record for the discus, 161-7, in the league finals at Tamalpais High School. It broke his own mark of 159-9 set in the league trials Tuesday.

Redwood Star Wins 2 Events In Track

Darrell Elder broke his own Marin County Athletic League discus record Saturday with a toss of 161-7 to highlight an otherwise lackluster day in the MCAL track and field finals at Tamalpais High School. He smashed his own mark of 159-9 set last Tuesday in trials at Tam.

Redwood's Elder (shot and discus) and Larry Butti of San Marin (440 and triple jump) were the day's only varsity double winners. Curtis Finley, a Redwood junior, became his school's first sprinter to win the 100-yard dash in 10 years, while Gary Lathrop avenged his only loss of the year in the mile, to Brian Tracy of Redwood with a first place, at 4:27.1.

San Marin, MCAL dual meet champion, dominated the non-scoring meet with 21 placers, including five firsts and victories in both relays. The top four finishers in each varsity and Class B event advance to the North Coast Section II meet Friday at Santa Rosa Junior College.

San Marin's Jeff Metteer broke a two-year-old 440 record with a time of 51.8 in Class B action. Terra Linda's mile relay team broke its own school's MCAL record set in 1970, at 3:31.9.

The girls track teams displayed tremendous improvement by breaking all but two league records in the running events. Joanne Dunlap of Nova-

Morrill, Strange Win In Swim Meet

SANTA ROSA — Art Morrill beat two records and Keith Strange beat a record-breaker to capture first places Saturday in the North Coast Section swimming championships at the Santa Rosa Swim Center.

Morrill, from San Marin High School, won the Class B 100-yard individual medley in 55.10 and the 400 free in 3:51.39 for two records. Strange, from Terra Linda, won the varsity 200 breaststroke in 1:01.74 and beat record-setter Jim Helm of Las Lomas of Walnut Creek in the process.

Morrill's 55.10 shattered the record set in 1969 by Jim Barrett of Santa Rosa, while his 3:51.39 nipped the mark of 3:51.7 set in 1971 by Terra Linda's Olympian-to-be, Rick DeMont.

Strange's performance was below the mark of 1:02.6 set last year by Helm, but Helm cut it even lower, 1:01.56, in Friday's trials before finishing second to Strange Saturday.

Terra Linda finished fifth in the varsity team standings with 75 points, as Ygnacio Valley of Concord won with 197. Ygnacio Valley also won Class B with 179, while Terra Linda was

Riggs Proves He Is 'Fast Eddie'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Riggs, 55, short and with an extra bulge here and there, forced 30-year old Margaret Court into a game suited just for him and beat the winner of $82,550 this year on the women's circuit, 6-2, 6-1, in the so-called "Tennis Battle of the Sexes" at Ramona, Calif.

The nationally-televised match, which brought $20,000 to Riggs and $10,000 to Mrs. Court, never was much of a contest as Riggs, who is a tennis court legend for hustling games while playing with chairs on his side of the net or holding an umbrella in his hand or wearing galoshes, set the tempo of the match early and held the momentum throughout.

Mrs. Court, for no apparent reason, refused to take advantage of her superior net play and, when she remained near the baseline, played right into the hands of Riggs, who is considered among the finest volleying players.

Riggs exhibited considerable court-sense and relied on sure, steady placements to defeat Mrs. Court, who later admitted, "I missed a lot of easy shots I don't usually miss."

"I'd like to tour the world and play all the women," said Riggs, who's come a long way,

Fast Field In '500' Car Race

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — They missed the much-sought 200 miles per hour lap at the ancient Indianapolis Motor Speedway by an eyelash but a super fast field for the $1 million Memorial Day "500" was virtually complete today.

Johnny Rutherford, a Texan from Fort Worth who has never finished among the top 10, became the fastest pole winner ever by hurling his orange-colored, British-made McLaren around the famed 2 ½-mile oval Saturday at an average speed of 198.413 m.p.h.

Twenty-four cars qualified on the initial day of the trials and six more made it Sunday, leaving just three spots to be filled next weekend for the 33- car race day lineup two weeks from today.

The field averages 192.572 m.p.h., 8.5 miles faster than last yearm

Saturday's trials also claimed the life of racing grandfather Art Pollard in a fiery practice crash, the 34th driver to be killed at the Speedway.

Bobby Unser, last year's pole winner, defending "500" king Mark Donohue and Dave "Swede" Savage also smashed Unser's 1972 four-lap qualifying record, with Rutherford recording the best lap of 199.071 for still another record.

Unser's 1972 marks were 196.678 and 195.940 for one and four laps respectively.

Unser averaged 198.183, missing Rutherford's record by 21-one-hundreths of a second while Donohue was clocked at 197.412. Those three make up the front row of the flying start of the 200-lap chase May 28. Savage was clocked at 196.582, only the second time he has qualified here.

Saturday's other qualifiers in order of their speeds were Gary Bettenhausen 195.599, Mario Andretti 195.059, Steve Krisiloff 194.932, Al Unser 194.879, Jimmy Caruthers 194.217, Peter Revson 192.606, Gordon Johncock 192.555 and Bobby Allison 192.308. Also Graham McRae 192.031, Roger McCluskey 191.928, Lloyd Ruby 191.622, Bill Vukovich 191.103, Dave "Salt" Walther 190.739, Jerry Grant 190.235, Mel Kenyon 190.225, Wally Dallenbachn 190.194, Mike Mosley 189.753, David Hobbs 189.454, A.J. Foyt 188.927 and Sam Posey 187.921.

Pollard, of Medford, Ore., crashed to his death one week after observing his 46th birthday. In full view of thousands of fans who jammed the stands and the infield, his new Dan Gurney-Eagle swerved into the wall at great speed, burst into flames, became airborne and disintegrated. He was pronounced dead about one hour later in Methodist Hospital of head and other injuries and flame inhalation.

"The car simply exploded in a ball of flame and flying parts," said one witness.

"When I came out of the pits and saw the marks on the wall I thought of Art but I had to go on and qualify," Rutherford said. He eulogized Pollard as a "great gentleman and a great race driver."

Memorial services for Pollard will be held here tonight.

Allison, McRae and Karl qualified for their first race here and McRae from New Zealand, and Hobbs, from England, are the only foreigners in the lineup.

The two Unsers, three-time champion Foyt, Andretti and Donohue are the former race winners who qualified.

All but four of the 30 qualified cars are powered by four-cylinder, turbocharged Drake-Offenhauser engines. Cars driven by Foyt, Kenyon and Simon have eight-cylinder Foyts. Karl is driving a turbocharged Chevrolet.

STRUCK BY A 'COLUMN OF FIRE'

Catcher Fred Grover attempted to lend assistance to pitcher John Wade after the latter was struck by a bolt of lightning described as "a column of fire two feet wide," in a semi-pro baseball game in Lake Havasu City, Ariz., yesterday. The bolt killed Wade, 19, instantly, then forked out, knocking down every player in the field. At right, shortstop Bob Hormann tried to struggle to his feet. Hormann, 33, and second baseman Herbert Noye, 21, were reported in critical condition at a local hospital. The bolt struck Wade, of the newly-formed Lake Havasu City team, just as he was winding up to pitch to a batter from the Blythe, Calif., team.

Tars Drop Finale In Baseball

SAN PABLO — College of Marin gave up three unearned runs in the final two innings here Saturday to sustain a 6-5 loss to Contra Costa College in the Camino Norte Conference baseball finale for both clubs.

The Tars dropped their final six games in the conference to finish with a 9-12 record, placing them seventh in the eight-team league, but only one game out of a tie for third. Their overall record was 13-16.

John Billings and Greg Purcell hit doubles in the four-run fourth inning for Marin as the Tars took a 4-2 lead which they later hiked to 5-2. Purcell was two for two and Marty Larsen three for three for Marin.

"I feel sorry for (losing pitcher) Tim Bryan," said Tar coach Vic Petreshene. Bryan struck out nine and allowed two earned runs.

No Legalized Betting Seen For Baseball, Football, Basketball

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The day of betting on baseball, football and basketball with your friendly state government rather than your friendly neighborhood bookie does not appear to be in the offing anytime soon.

But according to an Associated Press survey, cracks are beginning to show in legislative and other barriers that have prevented legal betting on sports other than horse racing, dog racing and jai-alai. The lone exception is Nevada, where anything in the way of gambling goes.

However, opposition elsewhere still is strong.

In Massachusetts, a state that has parimutuel betting on horse and dog racing, the Legislature's Government Regulations Committee has given a favorable report to a bill which would establish a Public Wagering Commission. Such a commission would assume all functions of the present State Lottery Commission and would also allow "sports card" betting similar to the popular but illegal football pool sheets.

The committee has estimated that a "fully developed" sports betting program would net the state $60 million a year on an annual volume of almost $200 million.

However, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and representatives of the National Football League and other pro sports leagues oppose the bill, which now is in the House Ways and Means Committee awaiting action.

In New York, the only state where there is off-track betting on horse racing, there also is a move to legalize betting on all sports. One of the strongest all-sports gambling advocates is Howard Samuels, the head of New York City's Off-Track Betting Corp.

The Rhode Island Legislature recently failed to pass proposals that would allow a lottery, off-track betting, dog racing and sports-card betting. However, it did pass a bill allowing a referendum on the legalization of jai-alai in Newport. Jai-alai is a game that has parimutuel betting and is popular in several Florida cities.

Besides revealing a number of non-racing states seeking racing and pari-mutuel betting and racing states trying to get off-track betting, the survey also revealed:

Montana. The voters for the first time have given the Legislature the power to enact gambling legislation. In a recent session the Legislature put on the shelf until 1974 10 gaming bills that run the gamut from wide-open gambling to none at all. A series of public hearings is scheduled to try to gauge public sentiment on gambling.

Wisconsin. Democratic State Sen., Ronald Parys of Milwaukee has authored a proposed constitutional amendment which would eliminate the present ban against the Legislature authorizing betting on sporting events.

Connecticut. An effort to permit betting on all professional sports was defeated. The state already has a law authorizing off-track betting although it has no horse racing.

Iowa. The Senate has passed a bill that legalizes bingo, lotteries and fair and carnival games and has a section that allows casual gambling between friends, such as with World Series pools. The House must act on the measure. Legislative leaders also have committed themselves to a study committee on parimutuel betting.

Siebert Whips A's, Leaves Doghouse

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Sonny Siebert feels he was in the doghouse in Boston but he's the king of the hill with the Texas Rangers. At least he was Sunday night.

The Rangers recently obtained Siebert from the Red Sox for a minor league player and some of owner Bob Short's cash. At the time Siebert had thrown only 2 1-3 innings in relief for Boston this season.

But Texas, in woeful need of some pitching assistance, liked his looks in his first effort against the Oakland A's, which resulted in a 7-2 Ranger victory.

Siebert only went five innings because of Manager Whitey Herzog's concern that a long stint might be damaging to his arm. In those five innings Siebert gave up three hits, walked two and struck out three. Most important, he did not give up a run to the A's, who three nights before had exploded for 17 runs against Texas.

And because Texas came up with a plentiful number of runs against Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Siebert was able to record a win in his first start for the Rangers.

"At first they thought they would use me in relief," said Siebert. "But they decided to start me and I'm glad. I haven't started since about last Sept. 1."

Siebert loaded the bases in the first by giving up two singles and a walk but worked his way out of that jam and for the next four innings gave up only one base hit and one walk.

"My arm might be sore tomorrow. But I might have been able to go all the way tonight."

Vic Harris drove in three runs with a single in the fourth and a triple in the eighth and went 3-for-5. Jeff Burroughs hit a two-run homer in the fifth, his sixth of the year.

Oakland's two runs came in the sixth on a single by Joe Rudi, a double by Reggie Jackson and an infield out.

Mets' Mays On Disabled List

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — Willie Mays was placed on the 15-day disabled list Sunday for the first time in his distinquished major league career but the veteran outfielder, who ranks third on the all-time list for career homers, isn't through yet.

The New York Mets announced the move while restoring John Milner to the active list. Milner leads the Mets in home runs this season with five.

Mays, who celebrated his 42nd birthday last week, injured his right shoulder while making a throw to the infield. Doctors have informed the club that all his shoulder needs is a little rest. Mays, right behind Babe Ruth and Hank Aaron in the all-time home run derby, wants to come back and play, and fully intends to. Most likely he will, but the question is in how long a period of time.

Exactly one year ago today Mays made his debut in a Met uniform and slammed a game-winning home run against his former teammates as New York downed the San Francisco Giants, 5-4.

If Mays were to decide to step down as an active player and assume coaching responsibilities with the club, he would continue to receive his full salary under the terms of the new player-management union contract. The contract states that a player released 30 days into the season is entitled to his entire salary.

Auto Racing

PALERMO, Sicily — A Porsche Carrera driven by Herbet Muller of Switzerland and Gijs Van Lennep of Holland outlasted its favored Ferrari and Alfa Romeo competitors Sunday to win the accident-plagued 57th edition of Italy's Targa Flourio Auto Race.

The two drivers covered the 11 laps of the torturous and rain-wet 20 mile mountain circuit in six hours, 54 minutes and 19.9 seconds. Their average speed over the 550 miles race was 100 miles per hour.

Second was a Lancia Stratos driver by Sandro Munari of Italy and J.C. Andruet of France in 7:00:30.5.

Track-Field

Hockey

Golf

TOWSON, Md. — Judy Rankin fired an even par 73 to win the $30,000 Lady Carling Golf Open Sunday by four strokes over runnerup Sandra Haynie.

Mrs. Rankin, who won the Raleigh Classic last week, posted rounds of 75, 67, and 73 for a winning 215 total.

Tennis

TOKYO — Billie Jean King, Long Beach, Calif., Sunday defeated Nancy Gunter, San Angelo, Tex., 7-6, 5-7, 6-3 to capture the top prize of $8,400 in the Toray-Sillook Women's Professional Tennis Tournament.

That lovely vision is not a mirage. It is a very real Porsche 914.

There are two trunks to hold everything you and somebody else might need.

The Desert Porsche

The 914 has a 5-speed gearbox to make you go like the wind.

It handles like a thoroughbred, praise be to rack-and-pinion steering and a nearly 50-50 weight distribution. (The engine is in the middle.)

And while it's chic to drive a Porsche, you don't have to be a sheik to afford one.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Winkles Happy With Pitchers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

California manager Bobby Winkles says the Angels "have four pitchers, each capable of winning 20 games." So far he's got three pitchers pointed in that direction and if Clyde Wright can straighten himself out, the Angels just might be pennant contenders.

Rudy May became the third California starter to win four games this year Sunday (Bill Singer is 5-1 while Nolan Ryan is 4-3) but May seems determined to really earn his victories.

May's fourth triumph in six decisions was also his fourth shutout, tops in the majors, and Sunday's victim was against no less fearsome a team than the AL West Division-leading Chicago White Sox, who entered the game batting an incredible .291.

May, who owns a sparkling 1.60 ERA, limited Chicago to just six hits, three by heavyhitting Dick Allen.

"I'm hoping to win 20 and I should," May said. "I've been on a losing club all my life and it was no fun. It's a completely different attitude on the club now. Before the players' attitude was bad and the fans didn't come out. Now we've got some players with a lot of hustle and fight. I want to do my part."

California batters are hitting a respectable .245 but when the competition is batting 20-45 points higher, as Oakland, Kansas City and Chicago are doing, the Angels have had to rely on their pitchers more.

Vada Pinson and Jim Spencer provided the batting punch for the Angels Sunday in their second straight win over the White Sox after Chicago won 12 of its previous 13 games.

Pinson collected three singles, drove in a run and scored another. Spencer rapped his first home run, a solo shot, since April 24, 1972.

In other American League action Sunday, the East Division remained a wide open affair as Milwaukee beat Detroit 6-5 in 10 innings, Baltimore and New York split, with the Orioles winning the nightcap 9-6 after losing 4-0, and Boston bombed Cleveland 8-3. Milwaukee leads the East by a game over the Orioles, Yanks and Red Sox while the Tigers and Indians are a game and a half and two games back, respectively.

Minnesota beat Kansas City 5-0 and Texas whipped Oakland 7-2, in the league's only other action.

In the National League, New York beat Pittsburgh 6-4, Chicago took two from Philadelphia 4-2 and 9-3, St. Louis nipped Montreal 3-2, San Diego beat Atlanta 6-4 but the Braves came back to win the second game 6-2, Cincinnati shut out Houston 2-0 and Los Angeles drubbed San Francisco 15-3.

Dave May hit his second home run of the game and ninth this season on John Hiller's first pitch of the 10th inning to give the Brewers the victory over Detroit in a game protested by Tiger manager Billy Martin.

Larry Brown's two-run homer capped a four run fifth inning to boost the Baltimore Orioles to a split of their doubleheader after the Yankees slugged four homers to win the opener.

TENNIS

baby, since he won Forest Hills twice and Wimbledon a few years before Margaret, now the mother of one, was born.

On the more serious side of tennis, Smith was devastatingly accurate and powerful in his $50,000 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 victory over Arthur Ashe in the World Championship Tennis finals in Dallas.

Smith breezed through the first two sets by continually blasting cross-court shots past Ashe, who was plagued by inaccurate shots near the net. At one point Ashe was so digusted at his repeated low shots that he uncharacteristically threw his racquet to the ground.

Ashe regained his poise, however, and defeated Smith with strong backhand strokes and fine net play. The two players battled each other to 4-4 in the fourth set and after Smith moved into game-set on his own serve, Ashe had him down 40-15.

Two critical and highly controversial judgements then clinched the game for Smith, who has won $154,100 on the WCT tour this year. First Smith appealed Ashe's serve, claiming it was wide and to the right. After the judge said he didn't see the shot, the line judge on Ashe's side of the net ruled that Ashe had faulted. Ashe then missed the second serve for the double fault.

With the game now at matchpoint, Ashe hit a soft crosscourt shot to Smith's forehand and the 6-foot 4 blond lunged to hit it just before it bounced the second time. Ashe, surprised that no call was made, retreated hastily for the return but drove the ball into the net.

Weiskopf Glad, Sad With Win

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf must have felt like somebody who had been remembered generously in his rich uncle's will. He was glad to have the money, but he wasn't too delighted with the way he got it.

"It was kind of a sickening thing to watch," said Weiskopf. "But I don't want to be a hypocrite. I'm glad I won."

"I'm not a choker," said Bruce Crampton. "you can say whatever you want, but I'm not a choker. I've won 13 tournaments."

Crampton, who had led for the past six rounds on the PGA tour and who had won three tournaments this year to move into the No. 1 money winning spot, lost the Colonial National Invitation Sunday by the simple means of making a double bogey on the final hole.

Weiskopf, who watched the whole gruesome episode from beside the 18th green, was made a gift of $30,000 and his first tour title since winning the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic last year.

Crampton came to the final hole with a one-stroke lead over Weiskopf after a pressure-filled back nine.

The 18th is the same hole where he dumped two shots in the water 11 years ago to cost him the tournament, resulting in Colonial Country Club officials naming the pond alongside the 18th green in his honor.

Crampton duck hooked his tee shot into the left rough behind a stand of trees and in a pile of rocks. He tried to chip into the fairway with his sand wedge, but succeeded only in breaking his club and sending his shot through the fairway into the opposite rough.

From there, 200 yards from the green, Crampton put his third shot in the long trap alongside the left of the green. With no sand wedge to use Crampton pulled out his pitching wedge and left his shot 25 feet from the hole. He missed his putt.

That left him with a 73 for the day—breaking a streak of 10 straight rounds of par golf or better—and a 72-hole total of 277 to tie him with Jerry Heard for second place. Each won $13,875.

Lee Elder finished in fourth place at 278 for $7,050 and Julius Boros came in fifth with an even par 280 to take home $6,150. Napa's Ron Cerrudo took home $394 for his 292.

RODNICK, KINSER IN NET DEFEAT

SARATOGA — The College of Marin team of Mark Rodnick and Bill Kinser reached the finals of the Northern California championships Saturday, but was defeated by Randy Marks and John Hursh of Canada College of Redwood City, 7-5, 6-1.

To reach the finals, the Marin duo defeated Kurt Neilson and Bruce Winn of College of the Sequoias from Visalia, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5, earlier Saturday at West Valley College's new facilities here.

Marin scored eight points in the tournament to tie for fourth place in the team standings. Canada won with 26.

Rodnick and Kinser, who improved on their showing in the previous week's Camino Norte Conference tourney, when they were ousted in the semis, will get another chance beginning Friday in the state championships at Canada.

U.S. Davis Cup Team Is Optimistic

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The U.S. Davis Cup tennis team will return home from its 4-1 victory over Mexico in the North American Zone final optimistic about its chances to beat Chile — and happy about the prospect of playing on its own courts for the first time in 2½ years.

Erik Van Dillen, 22, of San Mateo, Calif., who with Tom Gorman won the doubles match of the series Saturday against Raul Ramirez and Vicente Zarazua, said he thought the team's possibilities of defeating the South American Zone finalist were "very good."

"We beat them 5-0 last year in their country," Van Dillen said of the 972 series against Chile.

Mexico's only victory in the series here came when Ramirez downed top-ranked Tom Gorman, 27, of Seattle, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

In the first singles match Friday, Harold Solomon, 20, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., upset No. 1 Mexican Joaquin Loyo-Mayo 7-5, 6-4, 7-5.

The United States went on to win the doubles match 7-5, 12-14, 6-3, 6-4, and the two singles matches Sunday. Solomon beat Ramirez 8-6, 7-5, 7-5, and Dick Stockton, 22, of Port Washington, N.Y., downed Luis Baraldi 2-6, 6-1, 6-3, 9-6.

Terra Linda In Baseball Win

Relief pitcher Mark Collischonn, entering with the bases loaded and nobody out in the sixth inning, retired the next five batters to preserve Terra Linda High School's 4-1 Marin County Athletic League baseball victory over Marin Catholic Saturday night at Albert Field.

The triumph was Terra Linda's third straight and moved the Trojans into a third place tie with San Rafael at 7-5. The Wildcats are 5-6.

Terra Linda scored three times in the second inning on a wild pitch, a bases-loaded walk to Dan Walsh and an infield single by Lee Peterson, and added another in the fourth on Buck McCusker's sacrifice fly.

The Trojans were handcuffed afterwards by 'Cat reliever Mike Haas, who struck out seven and allowed four hits and no runs in 4⅔ innings.

Marin To Host Big Track Meet

College of Marin will host the most prestigious track and field event ever held in the county, the Northern California junior college championships, Saturday at 11 a.m. on its all-weather track in Kentfield.

Confident but wary Terra Linda High School (now 9-1) will face what is regarded as the last remaining major hurdle towards a Marin County Athletic League golf championship Thursday when the Trojans visit Peacock Gap Country Club to play San Rafael (8-2), which is tied for second with Novato.

San Rafael was the only team to beat Terra Linda in league or non-league matches this year, achieving a 201-208 victory April 24.

MCAL track stars who qualified Saturday will participate in the North Coast Section Division III meet in Santa Rosa Friday. Other post-season competition finds certain College of Marin golfers in the Northern California championships today and a Tar tennis doubles team in the state championships Friday and Saturday.

Rancho '9' Seeks Undisputed Title

Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park, which clinched a tie for its third consecutive Sonoma County League baseball crown Friday with a 7-3 victory over Healdsburg, can gain the title outright tomorrow with a win over visiting Analy of Sebastopol.

Twin Bill Is Divided By Sonoma

Sonoma State College concluded its finest baseball season Saturday with a doubleheader split with visiting Far Western Conference foe San Francisco State. The Cossacks won the opener, 5-4, with a three-run seventh inning rally, but dropped the nightcap, 8-0.

The split gave the Cossacks a 9-9 final FWC mark, good for a third place finish, three and one-half games behind University of California, Davis (12-5), which has one game remaining. Overall Sonoma finished at 20-21.

John Papadakis started the Cossacks' rally in the opener with a pinch-hit single to right. Bob Sutherland forced him at second, but Paul Zinn was walked, putting runners at first and second. Wayne Bauers then hit a double to score Sutherland and Craig Estes was walked intentionally to load the bases. Gordon MacLachlin proved the Gators' strategy wrong by singling to left field to score Bauers and Zinn with the winning runs.

Falcons Peddle Berry

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Falcons today gave up starting quarterback Bob Berry and next winter's No. 1 draft choice to acquire quarterback-punter Bob Lee and linebacker Lonnie Warwick from the Minnesota Vikings in a National Football League trade.

The 31-year-old Berry had been the Falcons No. 1 quarterback the past five seasons and ranked second in the NFC and fourth in the overall NFL in passing last season.

However, Falcon coach Norm Van Brocklin had indicated that he planned to use Pat Sullivan, a second year man who played very little as a rookie last season, as starting quarterback in 1973. Sullivan, then at Auburn, won the Heisman Trophy in 1971.

Lee, a fifth-year man who saw very little action last season as a backup man to Fran Tarkenton, and Warwick, a 240-pounder going into his eighth season, had both played out their options and were actually signed by the Falcons as free agents.

Thompson Pitches Softball No-Hitter

Rich Thompson pitched a no-hitter and struck out nine batters Saturday to give Red Hill Shell a 3-0 victory over not-so Jolly Roger in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball game at Albert Field.

In other games, Jerry Roberts hit a home run and Rich's Ready Mix rallied for six runs with two out in the first inning to give Image its first loss of the year, 12-10; the Spinners beat McPhail's, 11-9; Mike's Bar and Grill topped Round Table, 6-3; Charcoal Pit topped Marin Landscape, 8-5; Mona II whipped La Fargue, 15-2; and the Boozers-Hummers game was postponed due to Mother's Day.

IN ABA PLAY

Happy Pacers Celebrate Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The champagne flowed freely in the Indiana Pacers' dressing room Saturday after they won their second straight American Basketball Association championship and third in four-years by defeating the Kentucky Colonels 88-81.

Among those getting the traditional toss in the showers were Indiana Coach Bob Leonard, his wife and second year pro George McGinnis, the star of the seven-game series.

"This one was so sweet because it is hard to motivate a club to repeat as titlist," a dripping-wet Leonard said. "We just kept coming back at them and used good defense and rebounding."

McGinnis, who has now collected two championship rings in two years since jumping to the pros after his sophomore season at Indiana University, also picked up an automobile Saturday after being named the Most Valuable Player in the series.

"I'm proud of everybody—this was a team victory," McGinnis said. "We had the experience and I thought we would win all along."

The 6-foot-8 McGinnis had a game high 27 points Saturday, including 13 in the third quarter when Indiana broke open a close game with a 17-4 spree.

Kentucky, which lost for the third time in the seven-game series on its home floor, scored an ABA playoff low of 11 points during the quarter as the Pacers expanded a one-point halftime lead to 14 at the start of the fourth quarter.

"I think the same thing happened to them that happened to us the other night," Leonard said, referring to when Kentucky tied the series 3-3 with a 109-93 win at Indianapolis. "They appeared tense when they came out, just like we were in Indianapolis."

MORE CHATOIAN

Grounds was becoming rough and tough during the '50's and finally Stoneham packed up his Giants and moved to San Francisco.

If the Giants return from this road trip still in first place the crowds will most likely pick up, many of the non-believers perhaps taking the club more seriously. Perhaps many of the missing are waiting until June comes and goes. After June, when the time for swooning is past, the skeptics will really think the Giants are for real.

Sunday Racing At Albany A 'Success'

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Dick Murphy, general manager of Golden Gate Fields, called the track's first Sunday racing program "a definite success," but added he expects things to be much better next weekend.

The first Sunday race card drew a crowd of 11,099 paying fans and an estimated 3,500 children who got in free.

Murphy said the labor dispute, which forced cancellation of Sunday racing a week earlier and wasn't settled until midweek, and the fact that it was Mother's Day probably kept the crowd under the 18,000 capacity.

"The real test will come next Sunday," he said.

The total mutuel handle Sunday was $1,155,206.

Sleek and Fleet, ridden by A. L. Diaz, won the feature $20,000 Linda Chica Stakes in a time of 1:45 for a mile and sixteenth on the turf.

Racing resumes today, Tuesdays and Wednesdays will be the off-days the rest of the meeting under the new schedule.

Boxer Lyle Shows He's Learning

DENVER (UPI) — Ron Lyle learned a couple of months ago it was the last 30 seconds of each round that counted. Saturday night Lyle made the most of that half-minute enroute to a narrow but unanimous decision over Argentine boxer Gregorio Peralta.

"When I fought (Jerry) Quarry in February they said he outpunched me five to one, but he didn't," said Lyle. "Quarry impressed the judges by going pretty good for the final thirty seconds. That's what I did against Peralta."

Quarry was a turning point in Lyle's career. After 19 straight wins as a pro, Quarry was the first boxer to beat Lyle. Since that 12-round decision in New York, Lyle, who owns 17 knockouts, has decisions over veterans Bob Stallings and Peralta, a 38-year-old boxer with a record of 91-9-8.

Lyle appeared to have Peralta on his way down several times, but on all but one occasion—in the fifth— Peralta was able to retaliate with powerful combinations and fight his way back into the bout.

Hamilton Boxers Lose In Boston

In other fights at Hynes Auditorium, James Chapman of the Pacific Region decisioned Verbie Garland of Ohio in the heavyweight class; D.C. Barker of the Rocky Mountain AAU knocked out Leon Spinks of the Ozark Area at 2:20 of the first round; and Bill Tuttle of Ohio outpointed Odell Davis of North Carolina in the 147-pound division.

Salinas Golf Pair Wins 4-Ball Title

Brannan, 17, and Lathum, 29, had a three day total of 209, or seven under par, to win the tournament at Spyglass Hill.

Such deposit shall be refunded if the Plans and Specifications are returned unmarked and clean within 72 hours of the bid opening.

3. Each bid shall be made on a form to be obtained at the office of Wertheim and van der Ploeg, 2145 19th Avenue, San Francisco, California, 94116, and must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or a bid bond for 10% of the amount bid, made payable to the Marin Community College District, and shall be sealed and filed with the clerk of the Governing Board, on or before the 24th Day of May 1973, at 9:30 a.m. and will be opened in public at or about 9:30 a.m. of that day in the Office Center Room 160, College of Marin, Kentfield, California 94904.

The above mentioned check or bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into a contract if awarded the work and will be declared forfeited if the successful bidder refuses to enter into said Contract after being required to do so by the Governing Board of the Marin Community College District.

4. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a Labor and Material Bond in an amount equal to 50% of the Contract price and a Faithful Performance Bond in an amount equal to 100% of the Contract price, and said bond to be secured from a surety company satisfactory to the Governing Board of the Marin Community College District.

5. Bidders are hereby notified that, pursuant to Section 1770 of the Labor Code of the State of California, Marin Community College District has ascertained the general prevailing rates of hourly wages and rates for legal holidays and overtime work in the locality where this work is to be performed for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the Contract which will be awarded to the successful bidder. The prevailing rates so determined by the District Board are on file with the District.

All labor shall receive time and one half for overtime, double time on holidays unless otherwise specified.

7. Equal Opportunity: During the performance of this contract the Contractor shall not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, sex, color, or national origin. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Indians Could Have Had Better Description For Ingrown Toenail

The ingrown toenail was misnamed. I recall Dr. Felix Jansey saying that the term suggests a faulty nail that decided to grow or dig into the flesh, leading to pain and infection. Actually, the nail is normal and healthy.

The disorder should have been given an old-fashioned Indian name, such as Nail-Corner-Cut-Short and Flesh-Pushed-Up. These terms are more descriptive of what happens and are useful when considering prevention and treatment.

THE MOST common cause is cutting the toenails to make them look like fingernails. A space remains at the edge when the corner of the nail is rounded out to make the curve. The space fills in with soft tissue that is pushed up whenever weight is borne on the involved toe. The flesh may also be crowded by pressure from ill-fitting shoes or the adjacent toe.

Meanwhile, the toenail continues to grow and, in time, the cut edge digs into the raised soft tissue. Nail tissue is hard and irritates the flesh, leading to inflammation, swelling, and infection.

It is here that the second mistake occurs. The area is sore and the individual trims the nail to relieve pain. This is of temporary value, because permanent relief cannot be obtained until the nail grows over the exposed soft tissue. In some instances, this is accomplished by inserting cotton under the nail until it has grown out completely. Soaking and ointments also ease discomfort. More often than not, however, surgery is required.

THE EASIEST, but not necessarily the best, is to anesthetize the toe and remove the entire nail. Other procedures include excising the raised flesh or removing the edge of the nail including the root. The latter results in a narrower nail. Prevention is much better and is done by cutting the nails straight across. Don't forget — buy shoes that fit.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

LUMP IN THROAT

N. D. writes: What is the cause of globus hystericus? Is there a cure?

REPLY

This is a nervous disorder in which the muscles of the neck tighten and produce the sensation of having a "lump in the throat." If a thorough examination has ruled out disease, cure occurs when the individual understands the psychogenic nature of the sensation and learns to ignore it.

EAR SURGERY

N. K. writes: My doctor wants me to have an ear operation. I'm 29 and quite hard of hearing. Do you think I should have the operation or wear a hearing aid?

REPLY

Follow the advice of your physician. If you have otosclerosis, you alwyas can resort to the use of a hearing aid, if surgery is not successful. But the results of this operation are excellent so the chance of your needing a hearing aid is practically nil.

LEUKEMIA

REPLY

A person either has or does not have leukemia. The disease usually is referred to as acute or chronic plus the name of the predominant cell type. It is true that some types are less virulent than others and those that progress slowly could be called low grade. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on leukemia.

ALMANAC

By U.P. International

Today is Monday, May 14, the 134th day of 1973 with 231 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

Gabriel Fahrenheit, a Prussian who developed the thermometer, was born May 14, 1686.

On this day in history:

In 1904, the Olympic games were held in the United States for the first time — in St. Louis.

In 1942, Congress established the WAAC, the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, for World War II duty.

In 1969, President Nixon proposed withdrawal of all American, allied and North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. The Communists rejected the proposal.

In 1970, two black students were killed and nine injured when police opened fire on the campus of Jackson State College in Mississippi.

A thought for the day: British novelist George Meredith said, "A witty woman is a treasure — a witty beauty is a power."

Hearing Scheduled On Impact Report

Marin County supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will consider the adequacy of the environmental impact report for the proposed permanent site of the Renaissance Pleasure Faire and village.

The impact report was accepted by the county's environmental protection committee but was appealed by the county of Sonoma.

Sonoma officials claim, among other things, they were not propertly notified of the impact report for the permanent site, located on the Veronda Ranch property at the Marin-Sonoma county line north of Novato.

The board also will hear a request from the Marin City council that Arthur Miller Jr., a member of the county housing authority board, be replaced.

The council, which represents public housing tenants; maintains Miller was selected for the board because he lived in Marin City but recently moved to Tiburon and should be removed and a Marin City resident selected.

Query Made Of Budget Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., wants to know whether, and on what terms Roy L. Ash sold about 250,000 shares of Litton Industries stock after he resigned as president of that firm to become federal budget director.

Aspin said yesterday that the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has notified Ash he must file appropriate documents on such a sale.

Lebanese Politicos Shun Meeting On Emergency

BEIRUT (UPI) — Members of Parliament today shunned a special session called to extend a state of emergency that was proclaimed at the height of clashes between government troops and Palestinian guerrillas. Beirut Radio said their absence meant an extension anyway, despite a halt in fighting.

There have been no reports of clashes in Lebanon since Saturday night and the armed forces have reported the country quiet since then. It was the first sustained peace since the fighting broke out May 2.

More than 300 persons, including soldiers, guerrillas and civilians were reported killed in the 11 days of fighting.

The 99-member assembly was called into special session for a meeting today, but it was canceled when only 29 members showed up.

The meeting was called to decide whether to continue the state of emergency imposed by Premier Amin Hafez last Monday. Hafez submitted his resignation the next day.

Press reports said political leaders had reached a behindthe-scenes agreement to remain away from the meeting, allowing the state of emergency to continue until President Suleiman Franjieh names a new premier.

High-ranking representatives of the army and the guerrillas opened new talks over the weekend aimed at what official sources described as a "coexistence treaty" defining the terms under which guerrillas will be permitted to operate in Lebanon.

To Perform Tonight

Julie Jackson, a Palo Alto organist, will be guest performer at the Petaluma Organ Club meeting today at 8 p.m. at Sonoma Joe's Restaurant.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
42,000 miles / 40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

SKYLAB SENDOFF — Six seconds after ignition, according to the countdown clock in foreground, the largest spaceship ever launched begins climbing from the launch pad at Cape Kennedy. The 6.2-million-pound space machine went into near-perfect orbit minutes after its 10:30 a.m. PDT launch, and its automatic mechanisms began preparing it for use by its astronaut crew which is expected to rocket into orbit tomorrow. (UPI Telephoto)

Skylab Into Orbit Right On Schedule

Astronauts Set To Join Big Spaceship Tomorrow

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — While the Skylab 1 astronauts watched from the ground, their space station rocketed into space today to push back the frontier of manned orbital endurance and cash in on the promise of spaceflight.

Moonwalk veteran Charles "Pete" Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, America's first space physician, and aeronautical engineer Paul J. Weitz will take off 23 ½ hours later and spend a record 28 days in orbit aboard the Skylab. The Russians hold the current space record of 24 days in orbit.

Skylab 1, an eight-room assembly as spacious as a three-bedroom house, began its eight-month voyage around earth on a 33-story Saturn 5 rocket left over from the moon program.

It was the start of the nation's fourth manned spaceflight project in 12 years.

Among the thousands of spectators were the astronauts' families, several dozen former prisoners of war and thousands of other space agency guests. Civil Defense officials planned for a crowd of a half million around the spaceport.

All Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz could do today was watch, wait and hope.

"I'm most worried about it just getting into orbit," Weitz said in a pre-launch interview. A failure would mean a delay of a year or more until a substitute lab could be readied.

Skylab must operate untended in orbit for more than a day. But its most critical oribtal operations are during the first hour when it swings its solar observatory into place and unfolds the six huge winglike panels that will convert sunlight into electricity for eight months of service.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz plan to dock their modified moonship to Skylab seven hours, 40 minutes after their launch tomorrow. They are to enter the 118-foot station Wednesday morning and spend the next two days turning it into America's first base in space.

"By this Saturday, all things going the way we hope, we should have a fully operational space station in orbit to bring back the data in science and technology to help all of us on earth," Project Director William C. Schneider said at a briefing yesterday.

The three Skylab 1 astronauts are to return to Earth June 12 in the Apollo, leaving Skylab in orbit. A second crew goes up Aug. 8 to spend 56 days aboard the space platform, and a third crew is to close out the $2.6 billion project with another 56 day mission Nov. 9 to Jan. 4.

Skylab's orbit was designed to take it farther north and south than Americans have ever flown aaround Earth. It will range from southern Canada to the southern tip of South America, and Skylab will pass over much of Russia and all of China.

The sun glistening off the space station at sunrise and sunset will make it look like a bright star streaking southeast or northeast. It will fly over 89 per cent of the world's population during the eight months and NASA plans to compute viewing times for many areas.

Surrender Ends Death Threat

A Mill Valley man, threatening to kill himself, held policemen at bay for two hours early today before being talked into coming down from the roof of his hillside house.

The man, Thomas Roger Lescohier, 20, who earlier had shot out the window of his mother's car, finally was persuaded by Police Chief William A. Walsh to surrender and was held for psychiatric observation.

Mill Valley police gave this account of the bizarre chain of events:

Shortly before 11 p.m. yesterday Ruth Lescohier, of 407 Magee Avenue, got a telephone call from her son, Thomas, who told her he needed a ride home because his car had broken down on Miller Avenue.

When Mrs. Lescohier arrived her son told her he was so upset he was going to shoot out some windows with a pistol, police said. He then took a shot at a coin laundry at 336 Miller Avenue but apparently missed.

Lescohier then asked his mother to take him home, but as they drove along she told him she was going to take him to the police station instead, so officers said he aimed the gun across the car and shot out the front left window.

Mrs. Lescohier then jumped out of the car at Sunnyside and Miller avenues and asked a passerby to take her to the police station. Lescohier, meanwhile, drove his mother's car home.

Police said officers went to the house about 11 p.m. and asked Lescohier to come out of the house but he told them he wouldn't be taken alive and would shoot any officer who tried to come for him.

Several volleys of tear gas were fired into the house, police said, but somehow Lescohier managed to slip onto the roof and held police at bay for two hours by threatening to kill himself.

During this time, police said, Lescohier was armed but no shot was fired. About 1:14 a.m., Police Chief Walsh sent all other officers away and Lescohier agreed to come down. He was taken to the community mental health center for observation.

The Lescohier home is almost directly across the street from the house of Melvin J. Schallock, who was murdered along with his wife and son on March 16 but there appears to be no connection between the two incidents, police said.

War Funds Hit Block In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted, 13 to 3, today in favor of prohibiting U.S. military operations in Indochina.

As antiwar legislation continued to sweep through Congress, the committee adopted a proposal by Sens. Frank Church, D-Ida., and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., while a Senate subcommittee voted to allow the Pentagon to shift $170 million from one account to another to meet higher costs of operation abroad. The subcommittee included a stipulation that none of the money could be used for U.S. military activities in Laos or Cambodia.

The subcommittee went on record to partially reverse a House vote last week to kill $430 million in so-called transfer authority sought by the Pentagon as a result of unexpected costs associated with the war in Indochina and other factors.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the subcommittee, said the group adopted an amendment to bar use of any of the money to pay for operations in, over or from the

Earthquake Drill: Fiasco, Smooth

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Reaction today to last Friday's live action emergency-disaster drill ranged from a "smoothly run operation" in Novato to "an utter fiasco" in San Rafael.

All those participating in today's analysis of Marin's response to a simulated earthquake called the two-hour exercise a valuable demonstration of shortcomings to be corrected.

The critique drew about 30 persons from participating cities, schools, police and fire departments, private organizations and the county.

The disaster drill, staged Friday at 2 p.m. in three locations, was designed to test the medical profession's response in time of disaster and its coordination with police, fire and rescue operations.

The exercise and the simulated injuries were so realistic, participants reported today, that in West Marin some motorists passing the scene of a mock bus crash stopped in white-faced horror to offer assistance to 25 "victims."

County mental health officials in West Marin had to calm one woman overcome by another's

Novato School Surplus Fund Off, Deficit Due

By FRANK FARRARA

Novato Unified School District, which last month was contemplating a $920,000 surplus next year, now faces a $755,000 deficit as it scrambles to avoid a $1,675,000 loss in state and federal funding.

The financial outlook was shattered by the cutback at Hamilton Air Force Base, expected to bring a sharp decline in enrollment, the barometer of funding.

An urgent drive is under way to regain funding, slated to drop as enrollment drops, and bail the district out of financial chaos during the 1973-74 school year.

Rep. William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, is preparing a measure that would enable the district to recoup some of the expected loss, and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-San Francisco has started queries in Washington on restoring federal funding.

The financial crunch is expected because the district faces carrying a surplus of 45 to 50 teachers, staff members it cannot lay off under state law, because they weren't notified by March 15 that their contracts might not be renewed.

At that time, the cutback at Hamilton was not foreseen by the district administration and, indeed, could not have been in the light of repeated denials by the Air Force and Defense Department that any such plan was in the works.

Carrying the surplus teachers on the payroll is estimated by the district administration to cost from $540,000 to $600,000 next school year, or about $12,000 a teacher. In addition, the district is faced with a demand by teachers, including those who are surplus, that their pay be raised sufficiently to raise Novato Schools from 65th place out of 77 Bay Area district payrolls to the median level.

Iris Cloudt, president of the Novato Federation of Teachers, a union group, has repeatedly declared that teachers can no longer "subsidize the educational program in Novato schools directly out of their own salaries."

The outlook is clouded by the fact that no one knows exactly what the enrollment will be in the coming school year and teachers contend the enrollment drop won't be as severe as the administration has estimated.

With persistent reports that other military families will move into the housing vacated by Air Force families, teachers believe the dip will be modified.

Supt. James G. Bunker has estimated the district will lose 1,370 in average daily attendance and will be hit harder by military base cutbacks than any other district in California.

He estimated the district will lose $1,135,000 in Senate Bill 90 funds, based on attendance, and $540,000 in Public Law 874 funds (federal) paid to districts serving pupils connected with federal bases.

Bunker said he is seeking legislation that would permit the district to receive the state apportionment it would have received on attendance forecast before the Hamilton Cutback. The district even is willing to share half the costs, he said.

Bunker said it hasn't yet been decided what the "surplus" teachers will be doing in the coming year, since the enrollment isn't known.

Among the suggestions have been to use the teachers in special programs, as full-time

Record Gold Cost Cause Is Debated

LONDON (UPI) — Gold leaped to the highest price in history on European free markets today, easily passing the $100-an-ounce "barrier." A major British dealer linked the gold stampede to a lack of confidence brought on by the Watergate affair but others disagreed.

The gold rush which saw a price of $106.70 on the French commercial market sent the dollar skidding on European money markets as speculators and multi-national companies unloaded U.S. currency for the precious yellow metal. U.S. tourists joined the stampede to buy gold.

"People with surplus dollars are getting out of the currency into gold," said Dennis Selby, chief bullion dealer for the London gold brokerage firm of Johnson Matthey, Ltd. "Water-

Judge Hands Dean's File To Watergate Probers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge John J. Sirica ruled today that both government prosecutors and the Senate's special Watergate committee were entitled to see secret papers that ousted White House aide John W. Dean locked in a bank safety deposit box.

Sirica, chief judge of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, instructed the court clerk to take possession of the papers and to provide certified copies to the federal prosecutors and to the Senate committee which also is investigating the scandal.

"Everybody wins," Sirica said in announcing his decision following a 25-minute hearing on the so-called Dean Papers, possibly bearing on the Watergate case.

Dean, himself was at the hearing, appearing under heavy strain and looking haggard. He told Sirica the papers were classified "top secret."

Asked by the judge where they came from, Dean said, "A combination of several agencies including the FBI and other national security agencies."

The judge subsequently directed Dean to go to his bank to get the documents and bring them back to the court.

Not far away, in the federal courthouse, another of the aides that President Nixon dropped two weeks ago, chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, appeared for another meeting with a grand jury investigating Watergate.

Haldeman told reporters: "I am cooperating fully with the grand jury and I will with the Senate committee (that begins public hearings Thursday). I have no intention of taking the

One Dead, Six Hurt In Freak Highway Crash

A Sonoma woman was killed and six other persons injured yesterday in a freak collision on Highway 37 in Novato.

Killed was Joyce Lynn Hammond, 40, the driver of a car which careened into the center divider at 84 miles per hour, flipped into the air and came down on top of another auto.

Injured were Mrs. Hammond's daughter, Jennifer, and five members of a family in the other car.

The California Highway Patrol said Mrs. Hammond was eastbound on Highway 37 west of Atherton Avenue about 7:20 p.m. yesterday. Her car passed one auto, then swerved into the center divider of the freeway, striking it twice.

The car then flipped several times and flew through the air, coming down in the opposite lane on top of a car driven by Alfredo Lovi Jr., 38, of 50 Convent Court, San Rafael.

Mrs. Hammond was killed and her daughter, Jennifer, 13, was taken to Marin General Hospital where she was reported in good condition today with scrapes and an injured right arm.

Lovi and his wife, Mary, 35, were treated at Novato General Hospital for minor injuries. Their daughter, Linda, 12, was reported in satisfactory condition today with a broken right arm. Lovi's parents, Alfredo, 74, and Civiliana, 62, both of South San Francisco, also were admitted with assorted bruises and scrapes and reported in satisfactory condition today.

The Marin County Coroner's Office said Mrs. Hammond, a native of California, is survived by her mother, Louise Connor, of San Bruno. Funeral arrangements were pending today at Redwood Chapel, Novato.

Her death was the ninth in Marin traffic this year, compared to 11 at this time last year.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Clouds Of Venus

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Astronomers at Cal Tech said yesterday that Venus has a weather cycle lasting four days in which cloud layers rise and fall nearly a mile in an "accordion-like movement."

Dr. Louise Young said the team found that carbon-dioxide levels on the mysterious plant fluctuate by as much as 20 per cent, creating a rhythmic cloud movement.

"We seem to be observing a fundamental feature of Venus' weather dynamics that are not explained by current theories of atmospheric circulation," the scientists said.

CHICAGO (UPI) — More than 200 leftist and labor union groups agreed yesterday to set aside their differences and unite in a new organization to combat racism and political repression.

The 210 groups forming the coalition agreed that the issue of repression dwarfed all differences between the individual groups.

Arms Cut Talks

VIENNA (UPI) — Talks on the reduction of armed forces and weapons in Central Europe resumed today between East and West after a 14-week break. Because of quarrels, the conference was still without even a name.

Negotiators from 19 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and Warsaw Pact nations met formally for the first time since Jan. 31 when the talks adjourned after only 35 minutes because of disagreement over who should take part.

The meeting today took place in a windowless, wood panelled board room of the U.N. Atomic Energy Agency headquarters.

Death In Ireland

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen exchanged fire with an army checkpoint near Coagh, 25 miles west of Belfast early today. Shortly afterward, a man's body was found in an overturned van.

An army spokesman said the man had been shot through the head.

The checkpoint was manned by militiamen of the Ulster Defense Regiments, the army said.

Rogers In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — If Secretary of State William P. Rogers obtained approval yesterday for a plan to ease one of the main points of ill feeling between Mexico and the United States, he did not indicate it.

The issue is the amount of salt in the Colorado river waters.

Rogers said that he outlined a series of proposals that could permanently and "justly" resolve the problem when he conferred with President Luis Echeverria. But he did not indicate Echeverria responded during a farewell round of talks that lasted one and three-quarter hours.

Bruce In China

HONG KONG (UPI) — David K. E. Bruce, the first American diplomat in Peking in 24 years, walked into China today across the covered Low Wu bridge forming the border with Hong Kong.

The 75-year-old envoy, his wife and three other members of the American party were traveling to Canton by train and then on by Chinese airliner to Peking to open a U.S. Liaison mission there.

"I have no idea when we will have a full embassy in Peking," he said.

Gain Over Reds

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian authorities announced today a "major victory" by government forces battling Communists for nearly eight weeks in and near Takeo, a besieged provincial capital 55 miles south of Phnom Penh.

Heavy fighting and intensive U.S. bombing were reported in other parts of the country with no formal cease-fire agreement.

Spokesmen for the Cambodian high military command said Cambodian troops killed 62 Communist troops Sunday.

Blind Students Climb Mountain

TIMBERLINE LODGE, Ore. (UPI) — Six blind teen-agers, including two girls, climbed to the peak of 11,245-foot high Mt. Hood yesterday a feat "a lot of adults can't do."

"They surprised all of us. They just putted along—just like veterans," said Elmer Willmore of Portland, one of the leaders of the climb.

Willmore said the six, aged 13 to 18 including two 13-year-old girls, were very proud of their accomplishment. All are students at the Washington School for the Blind at Vancouver.

Libya Threatens Oilfield Seizure

TRIPOLI, Libya (UPI) — Col. Moammar Khadafy assailed the United States as a "criminal state" yesterday and said his government is considering ways of taking over the billion dollar oil industry controlled by Western nations.

The Libyan leader also told newsmen that he was arming his people in response to attempts by the United States to intimidate his country with warplanes and aircraft carriers.

"If this world is a jungle, we are capable of becoming one of its beasts," he said. "We do not have atomic bombs or aircraft carriers but we can die for our rights."

During a 5-½ hour news conference, the 30-year-old chairman of the Revolution Command Council told 300 foreign reporters that negotiations were under way for the takeover of foreign-owned oil installations.

Libya is the world's sixth largest oil producer, exporting 2.7 million barrels of high grade crude a day.

It was, Khadafy said, one of the sovereign rights of the state that owns oil wells to decide whether to buy or nationalize them.

"Buying or nationalization," he said, "are subject to numerous circumstances. Such things may happen and may not depending on circumstances...(Oil producing) countries are sometimes forced to do something of this sort, but they have to choose the suitable circumstance."

Khadafy accused Western oil companies of an "aggressive conspiracy" against his country and said about seven Israelis were arrested in the employ of the American Oasis Co. in Libya.

Khadafy summoned newsmen to discuss the ideas behind the "Popular and Cultural Revolution" he announced for Libya in a speech April 13.

Dressed in a green and brown tweed suit, Khadafy sat on the stage of a theater in front of a bank of microphones. Behind him was the flag of the Federation of Arab Republics, which includes Libya, Egypt and Syria.

Martha Denies Hospital Stay To Calm Her Nerves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time magazine said yesterday that Martha Mitchell, wife of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell has undergone treatment for a nervous breakdown. But Mrs. Mitchell returned to her midtown apartment yesterday and denied it.

At the Mitchells' midtown Manhattan apartment, doorman Edward Garner said Mrs. Mitchell and a female friend entered the building about 4:30 p.m. and "seemed okay—she was in good spirits." Garner, who said he personally had not seen Mrs. Mitchell in a week, said she and the friend who drove the car in which they arrived made two trips between the car and the apartment carrying "flowers, a plant, and some bags." He said he thought they "came from the country."

Time magazine said Mrs. Mitchell voluntarily entered a medical institution after her deposition appearance May 3 in the Watergate bugging situation because she was "unable to sleep, distraught, and unhappy."

The New York Times last night reported a telephone conversation with Mrs. Mitchell, in which she denied the report, saying "Anybody who says that, why, they're just as crazy as can be." But the Times said it had learned from a source at the hospital where she was supposed to have stayed that she "did arrive at the institution shortly after midnight last Monday," apppearing "docile" and "possibly drugged." It quoted Mrs. Mitchell as calling that report "nonsense."

Ellsberg To Shut Nixon From Mind

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Daniel Ellsberg hopes "never to think" about President Nixon again. His codefendant in the Pentagon Papers trial, Anthony J. Russo, intends to organize a movement to impeach the President.

Russo said he is flying to Chicago this week to set up the movement and establish "impeachment information centers" throughout the nation.

Ellsberg said he has no plans to take part in the impeachment drive and will retire to a private life, for the time being, with his wife.

"I've been thinking about Richard Nixon for several years," Ellsberg said. "I've thought enough about him. I hope never to think about him again."

Charges of espionage, conspiracy and theft were dropped against the two Friday by U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne, who cited government misconduct in his decision.

At a weekend news conference, Leonard Boudin, an attorney for Ellsberg, said a damage suit would be filed in Washington against Nixon administration officials to recover part of the estimated $900,000 spent by the defense in the case.

In other developments:

Hank Greenspun, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun, said an unsuccessful attempt was made last year to jimmy open his safe, which held material pertaining to Sen. Edmund Muskie. "Whether it was related to the Watergate thing, we have no way of knowing," Greenspun said.

Journalists Leave

Treasury Official Is Tied To Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Treasury Department official voluntarily went on "administrative leave" yesterday following a published report he offered a Watergate conspirator executive clemency in return for silence.

A Treasury spokesman said John J. Caulfield, 44, asked for the leave on his own initiative and it was granted "through normal channels."

He is at least the 14th government official to step aside after being publicly linked to the Watergate scandal.

The Los Angeles Times reported earlier yesterday that Caulfield, a former White House aide, held two secret meetings last January with James W. McCord Jr., who was then on trial for conspiracy, burglary and bugging in the Watergate case.

The Times, citing "a source involved in the matter," said Caulfield "repeatedly told McCord at these meetings ... that McCord could expect executive clemency in 10 or 11 months if he remained silent at the trial and accepted imprisonment."

The newspaper said the meetings took place by prearrangement in the woods along the George Washington Memorial Parkway across the Potomac River from Washington.

McCord later was convicted in connection with the June 17, 1972, bugging of Democratic national headquarters

Caulfield is a 15-year veteran of the New York City Police Department. He spent three years on the White House staff, as an aide to presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman and later to White House counsel John W. Dean III, working on law enforcement policy.

Caulfield moved to the Treasury Department a year ago—after the alleged meetings with McCord. Since July 1, he has held the title of assistant director for criminal enforcement in the department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau.

McCord has testified that he repeatedly turned down similar offers of clemency relayed to him by co-conspirator E. Howard Hunt. In his sworn testimony that has been made public, McCord never mentioned such an offer from Caulfield.

McCord did say that Caulfield recruited him to become security chief for President Nixon's re-election campaign.

The Los Angeles Times' report was the second recent reference to executive clemency in the Watergate case. Newsweek magazine earlier quoted Dean as quoting John Ehrlichman as saying President Nixon would consider clemency for Hunt.

Bishop Claims Prisoners Held

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Roman Catholic bishop says political prisoners are still being held in South Vietnam despite denials by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Detroit, said in the current issue of the National Catholic Reporter, "I can state unequivocally that there are political prisoners in Saigon's jails and in the jails throughout the provinces."

U.S. Bomber Violation Probe Eyed

SAIGON (UPI) — The International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) agreed today to investigate Viet Cong charges that the United States has been bombing in South Vietnam but only if the Communists widen ICCS air corridors to a safe degree.

Informed sources said the United States welcomed the ICCS probe of the Viet Cong charge that American war planes have bombed, strafed and and made rocket attacks on targets inside South Vietnam in violation of the Jan. 27 Paris cease-fire agreement. It was the first Communist charge of direct U.S. military involvement since the Jan. 28 cease-fire.

Indonesian Ambassador H.R. Dharsono told UPI correspondent Tracy Wood, "Our teams are going to investigate it, provided they get a security guarantee."

Dharsono said the ICCS will insist on air safety corridors five miles wide to reach the site of the alleged bombing about 80 miles north of Saigon along Highway 13. He said the 3 ½-mile safety corridor proposed by the Viet Cong "is just too narrow. If they can't fulfill the requirements, we can't fulfill the investigation."

Nixon-Hoover Letter A Bugging Prelude?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in 1971, a year before the Watergate break-in, that he was forming a special squad to try to plug national security leaks, the Washington Star-News said today.

The newspaper said reliable sources confirmed the existence of the letter, in which Nixon was said to have told Hoover he was placing Egil (Bud) Krogh in charge of the operation and asked for Hoover's cooperation.

Krogh quit the administration last week, acknowledging in a letter to Nixon that he had charge of an operation that resulted in a burglary at the offices of a psychiatrist for former Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

"The Nixon letter to Hoover, which was addressed 'Dear Edgar,' appears to document that Nixon displayed an active personal interest in probing the Pentagon Papers leak," the Star-News said. It said the letter was dated June, 1971.

"The letter also leaves the impression that Nixon himself assigned high priority to the task force, which eventually became involved in both the Watergate affair as well as the burglary of the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist," the dispatch added.

Two of the members of the group known as the "plumbers" were E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy, both facing prison sentences as conspirators in the June 17, 1972, burglary of the Democrats' headquarters at the Watergate office building here.

Former Inmates May Be Guides

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former inmates of the old federal prison on Alcatraz may be among the guides when the "rock" in San Francisco Bay is opened to the public for tours.

William Whelan, superintendent of the new Golden Gate National Recreation Area which includes Alcatraz, said Saturday that several former prisoners have already applied for jobs as guides and their applications will be "seriously considered."

A final decision on what to do with the former prison island is at least five years in the future, Whelan said, but in the meantime the public will be admitted for tours beginning in the late fall or early winter.

FBI's Missing Wiretap Records Are Uncovered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some missing FBI records have been found on wiretaps placed on telephones of some White House aides and some Washington reporters in 1969-70, Attorney General-designate Elliot L. Richardson said today.

Richardson did not specify whose telephones were monitored, but said the records of the taps had been turned up following a search that he ordered, Richardson made the statement at his senate confirmation hearings. Acting FBI Director William D. Ruckelshaus scheduled a news conference at 11 a.m. PDT to discuss the matter.

The Washington Star-News said 17 or 18 government officials and newspapermen's telephones were tapped. One of those was said to be a member of the National Security Council staff, Morton Halperin.

This tap came to light in the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg when it was disclosed last week that an Ellsberg conversation while talking on a telephone at Halperin's home was intercepted by FBI monitors.

The Ellsberg court was told that records of the Halperin tap were missing.

The New York Times and the Washington Post reported last week that the administration ordered the taps on reporters for both newspapers and for the Sunday Times of London, as well as persons in government suspected of "leaking" news.

Shortly after Ruckelshaus was appointed temporary acting FBI director by President Nixon, he ordered an investigation of such wiretapping.

The Post and Times quoted sources as saying the wiretaps were conducted over a two-year period beginning shortly after President Nixon took office for his first term.

The Washington Star-News said the FBI's investigation of the missing files concentrated on Assistant Attorney General Robert Mardian and William C. Sullivan, former assistant FBI director.

The newspaper quoted Justice Department sources as saying Sullivan turned the documents over to Mardian on orders of then Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Kindergarten Crowding On Agenda

The Kentfield School District Board will be recommended a solution to kindergarten enrollment problems at Kent Elementary School at its meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at Bacich School.

Last week mothers camped out overnight to ensure their children could register for placement at Kent in the fall. The overflow of some 15 children was expected to be bused to Bacich School.

Tonight the district's new superintendent, Eugene C. Peters, will recommend that all kindergarten age children in the Kent attendance area be included in the Early Childhood Education program. This new state-funded program, which adopts an ungraded approach to teaching five to eight year olds, is scheduled to go into operation at Kent School in the fall if the funds are granted.

In other business, the board will be recommended to give notice to one teacher of reduction in force for the 1973-74 school year.

dramatization of hysteria, the group was told.

Called exercise MOHAMED — meaning Marin Operation Area Health and Medical Emergency Services Division — the drill was sponsored by the county office of emergency services under the direction of Frank Kirby.

Besides the bus crash, the exercise simulated collapse of building at San Rafael High School where 75 students were "hurt" and at Hill Junior High School in Novato where 50 students played injured.

Medical teams, ambulances, hospitals, police and fire departments responded to the emergency.

It involved hundreds of Marin residents and officials from the county health department, several cities and private organizations.

The drill ran smoothest in Novato, primarily due to the efforts of Fire Chief James Kidder who took charge of seeing police, fire and medical personnel coordinated the rescue and treatment of victims.

"It ran very smoothly in Novato," Kidder said. "The make up of the victims was fantastic."

San Rafael was another story, however, where rescue and treatment operations became snarled by large crowds of onlookers.

San Rafael Fire Capt. George Walser, who termed the San Rafael exercise "an utter fiasco," said the problem was in part due to the lack of police officers at the scene.

Margaret M. Snieyana, San Rafael High School nurse, disagreed, however, saying the exercise —despite some snafus — had proven invaluable in testing reactions and pointing out shortcomings.

No explanation was offered why the San Rafael police department had not taken a more active part in the exercise. At one point, only one officer was there to control the large crowd.

Most of the discussion today centered on details of making the next exercise run smoother —from moving victims to hospitals outside the stricken area to better transportation and communication systems.

An Air Force doctor from Hamilton Air Force Base, which supplied some personnel and a large helicopter for the exercise, urged more training of doctors and other medical personnel in sorting out casualties so those beyond hope of living are not evacuated to hospitals before other critical cases.

Kirby, making notes on the comments, said an effort would be made with the county health department to set up "workshop sessions" with doctors and others to discuss the Air Force doctor's observations.

Crowding Blamed On Nonresidents

Overcrowding of San Rafael softball facilities results from participation by nonresidents and not "more city residents than allowed," as reported in Saturday's Independent-Journal, the city administration said today.

Park and Recreation commissioners last week asked for a study of participation and use of city softball facilities by non residents due to the overcrowding situation, according to Andrew J. Snyder, parks and recreation director.

Board president Ronald D. Schenck said the board decided against seeking legislation which would permit the district to cut the teaching staff for several reasons.

One was that he had been told "it was practically impossible to get such legislation" because of "union pressure." Furthermore he said, the district has had a substantial problem with teachers "who have very justified complaints," and a push for such legislation might push teachers "to the point of striking."

Trustees want to avoid a "disastrous confrontation with teachers," Schenck said.

The board also has reservations about seeking cutting the teaching staff "when we really don't know how many kids we will have."

Trustee Carolyn M. Crabtree said she has been seeking aid from federal legislators since "it's the federal government's fault and they must come to the rescue."

There is a provision in Public Law 874 that provides for payments to districts when enrollment drops because of phasing out federal bases, Mrs. Crabtree said.

An uncertain view of chances for federal help came from Arnie Thorson, program officer for the U.S. Office of Education in San Francisco, who said that even if Public Law 874 "stays alive" another year, no funds have yet been appropriated for 1973-74.

(The law expires June 30, but would automatically continue for one year if no action were taken.)

The district had been planning a drop of about 290 pupils in the next school year and dropping 10 to 12 teachers by attrition, Bunker reported.

Ironically Senate Bill 90, designed to bring relief to property tax payers, was to be a financial boon to the district, but is now a hinderance to raising revenue.

Under the law, the district is limited to levying a tax rate that would bring in revenue equivalent to spending per pupil this year plus $65 per pupil.

Bunker said the per-pupil costs for 1972-73 haven't yet been calculated but next year's costs are expected to rise because of a drop in enrollment without a corresponding drop in teachers.

According to the Marin County Superintendent of Schools Office, the district's per pupil costs in 1971-72 was $812.

The only way the district can obtain more property tax revenue is through consent of the voters and a tax rate increase election has been set for July 31.

The tax measure is to increase the general purpose tax rate to $5.09 per $100 assessed valuation, up 43 cents from the current rate.

Gunman Fails In Holdup At Novato Motel

A man described as a "clean-cut, older type," fled the Sportsman Lodge north of Novato on Highway 101 Friday night after attempting to hold up the desk clerk, sheriff's deputies said today.

The clerk, Victor T. Saxman, told officers a man came into the motel about 9:30 p.m. and first asked for the manager. He then pulled a small gun, Saxman said, and demanded money.

Saxman, who said he had the key to the cash register in his pocket, punched the keys to show the robber he couldn't open it. The angered man then swung at him with the gun, Saxman said.

The would-be robber ran outside and drove off in a car, heading north. Sawman described him as a Caucasian with brown hair and wearing blue denim pants and a buckskin jacket.

3 Youths Rob Sausalito Man

A Sausalito man who was walking under the underpass to Marin City Wednesday night to take a bus was robbed by three youths who grabbed him and took his wallet, sheriff's officers said today.

Robert M. Larsen of Gate 6 said he was accosted about 11 p.m. by the youths, who grabbed him by the neck. "Don't move," he said he was told.

The robbers took his wallet, removed $4 and threw it on the ground. They then ran off into Marin City, Larsen said.

A Sausalito man arrested Saturday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

John Larry Lestar, 24, also known as Aquarius, who lives in the Gate 3 area, was booked Saturday and held in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Police said a security guard for Donlon J. Arques, who is cleaning up his Gate 3 property, told Lestar Friday not to trespass on the land. Another man, Robert W. Kalloch, 45, of Waldo Point, was accompanying the security guard, police said, and Lestar pulled a dagger and threatened Kalloch.

Lestar was not arrested at the time, police said, but on Saturday Kalloch and an officer found him in the parking lot at the Big G market and arrested him then.

Fifth Amendment or seeking immunity."

Dean took the papers from White House files shortly before President Nixon fired him April 30. Expressing fear the documents might be destroyed or stolen, he asked the court in a letter to take possession of them.

The administration asked that they be returned to the White House since Dean described them as a classified documents.

After the hearing, Dean was followed by reporters into an elevator, but Dean refused to answer any questions. He would not comment on a Newsweek magazine article quoting him as saying he never prepared a report on investigation of the Watergate for President Nixon and had been pressured to take the entire blame for an alleged White House cover-up of the affair.

Neither Dean's lawyer, Charles N. Shaffer nor the head of the U.S. attorney's office team that has investigated Watergate, Earl J. Silbert, said he had any idea what was in the Dean papers.

The Washington Post said today the late J. Edgar Hoover's temporary successor at the FBI, L. Patrick Gray, was told several weeks after the Watergate burglary that there appeared to be an administration cover-up of the extent of the affair.

The Post quoted reliable sources as saying Gray declined to follow a suggestion by sudordinates that he advise Nixon of the alleged cover-up on grounds he felt it would be improper and appear that he was seeking presidential guidance in the FBI investigation of the plot.

shores of Cambodia — and added a provision making the same prohibition apply to Laos.

How the Senate handles the war funding issue could have an important background effect on talks Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser, will reopen with North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho in Paris Thursday, seeking an end to the remaining Indochina fighting.

In the past, the negotiations have taken place against the background of a Congress at home which contained growing dissent but which always ultimately allowed the President's policies to go forward.

The House, which had supported the President on the war even when the Senate did not, broke its pattern last Thursday and voted 219 to 188 to bar any funds contained in a supplemental appropriations bill from being used for military activity in or over Cambodia. Some observers felt the Watergate scandal was a factor in that vote.

In another vote the House Thursday denied Pentagon authority to transfer funds from one account to another to make up for Indochina costs.

While they expressed House sentiment, neither of those votes would actually prevent the bombing of Cambodia from continuing. One applied only to supplemental funds and another only to transfer funds.

Youth Arrested After Robbery With A Knife

The man, George Acree of Bel Marin Keys, told officers he was returning from his job in Mill Valley about 3 a.m. when he stopped and gave a youth a ride in San Rafael.

He said the boy pulled a knife and demanded money. Acree first said he didn't have any but after the youth threatened to kill him, he said he gave him 75 cents he found in his pocket.

He said the youth then forced him to drive around San Rafael, stop to buy cigarettes and then drive out North San Pedro Road. Acree said the youth then struck him in the face, whereupon he told the youth he would get him some more money at his house but he needed to call home first.

By the time the two arrived in Bel Marin Keys, officers were nearby and arrested the youth following a brief struggle with Acree.

The youth claimed Acree was the attacker officers said, but he acknowledged it was his knife found nearby.

The youth's name was withheld on a standing order by Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

gate has left the political situation shaky in the States and this has put pressure on the dollar."

"I think the reason for the rise in the price of gold is because of reports in the press that there is an impending financial crisis", Emanuel Brunoff, a French gold broker said.

Asked if he believed the rise in the price of gold could be related to the Watergate scandal in the United States, Brunoff said: "In my opinion, I don't think it could be connected."

The metal's price was fixed at $102.25 an ounce on the big London free market in the second of the twice-daily price fixings. This was $2.50 higher than the morning price, $5.60 higher than Friday's closing price and more than double the official U.S. gold price.

Another gold source said : "Many foreign buyers are afraid of a new monetary crisis. For this reason they are going in great numbers to buy as much gold as they can afford"

Selby said his firm was getting buyers for gold from "just about everywhere" in what "seems to be turning into a stampede" for the metal.

A STERILE WORLD FOR DAVID

A sterile, plastic cocoon in the Baylor University Medical Center in Houston, Tex., is the only world this 18-month-old boy has ever known. Doctors popped him into the special, germ-free environment five seconds after he was born, because David (hospital authorities won't reveal his parents' name) was born without any natural immunity to disease. His parents lost a previous child with the same problem. (UPI Telephoto)

Ceiling Plan Is Attacked By Liberals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional liberals have expressed concern that social programs may get shortchanged by a proposed new system for determining the maximum amount of money Congress could spend each year.

The plan, now before a Senate Government Operations subcommittee headed by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., calls for establishing new committees of both the House and Senate to decide on an overall spending ceiling before the start of each fiscal year. The panels would have the power to determine how much of the total budget package would go to each governmental activity.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., worte a letter to Metcalf yesterday expressing liberal apprehension that the proposal may have a hidden sleeper—a built-in conservative bias.

Case complained to Metcalf about the composition of the Senate budget committee. Under the plan, the panel would have 15 members—the most senior five from the Senate Finance Committee, the senior five from the appropriations committee and five chosen at large by the Senate's President Pro Tem, Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

His concern centered on the prospect that conservatives who dominate the top membership of the finance and appropriations panels would dominate the budget committee, and tilt budget priorities away from social causes liberals support. Eastland also might show a conservative tendency in selecting five at-large members.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., like Case a strong proponent of social spending, has expressed the same concern.

The letter was sent to Metcalf in his role as chairman of the Senate subcommittee which is drawing up legislation to put the proposal into effect.

AEC Given Permission For Blast

DENVER (UPI) — A Colorado district judge today gave the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) permission to set off an underground nuclear blast in western Colorado on Thursday to free natural gas deposits.

Environmentalists had argued that the detonations could poison the drinking water of 27 million Americans.

Judge Henry E. Santo based his decision on a claim by CER Geonuclear Corp. of Las Vegas, Nev., that preblast studies proved Project Rio Blanco would not cause dangerous levels of radioactivity to escape above ground.

Opponents in three days of hearings last week had argued that the radioactivity might seep into the Colorado river that provides drinking water for much of the Southwest.

Don Peters, an attorney for the environmentalists, said the decision "wasn't really a surprise. We hope to decide by Tuesday sometime whether we are going to appeal."

Santo refused to order a temporary halt to the blast set for Thursday pending possible appeal. He also said he could not overrule the Water Pollution Control Commission's findings.

Work Is Scheduled On Marin Highway

The state Division of Highways today announced a project that will affect traffic on Highway 101 in Southern Marin tomorrow.

Work crews will be doing final cleanup of all approaches to Richardson Bay Bridge between 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. The cleanup, the final stage of bridge widening, will proceed intermittently through the week.

Women In Service Get Equal Benefit Right

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that women in the armed forces are entitled to the same dependents' benefits as men. But it deadlocked on the issue of whether sex has the same broad protection against discrimination as race and alien status.

In an 8-1 decision, the Court handed a victory to Air Force Lt. Sharron Frontiero, who sued to obtain benefits for her husband, Joseph, a student at Huntington College in Montgomery, Ala.

But the Court ended up in a 4-4 tie vote on the question of whether sex is in the same "suspect" classification as race and alienage —a status that makes it harder for governmental units to justify laws denying benefits.

In the Frontiero case, only Justice William H. Rehnquist dissented from the view that she was entitled to full benefits for her husband.

The concurring justices relied on a 1971 decision in an Idaho case that when two individuals are otherwise entitled to appointment as administrator of an estate, the male applicant may not be preferred over the female.

A married man in the armed services gets housing and medical allowances automatically, whether or not he actually supports his wife. But the 6,000 women in service have had to prove they contributed more than half of their husbands' support.

In other major actions, the Court:

—Agreed to review a decision in a Chicago gambling case which limits the extent of wiretapping authority granted by a court for criminal investigations.

—Agreed to decide whether conscientious objectors who carry out civilian duties in time of war are entitled to veterans' educational benefits.

—Ruled 5 to 4 that cities cannot impose curfews on jet plane takeoffs from their airports.

The administration had argued that the difference in teratment between the sexes was justified by the need for efficiency in administration.

A special three-judge federal court in Montgomery upheld the statute.

West End School Faces Closure

The San Rafael Board of Education will take final action on a proposal to close West End School when it meets in special session at 8 p.m. tomorrow at West End School.

The district administration has viewed closure of the school as necessary because of sagging enrollment. Parents have opposed the move.

The board will also appoint an acting principal for San Rafael High School. Finalists for the post are three vice principals at San Rafael High — Jeff Thorner, Robert Royale and John Donovan — and a vice principal at Terra Linda High School, Florence Abraham.

Mom's Day Celebrated At Prison

Information Officer Lee De Bord said the mothers and sons shared a special breakfast in the prison dining hall, then went to Catholic and Protestant services in the church. Both events inside the walls were closed to other inmates, he said.

Following the events inside the walls, the prisoners were allowed to visit with their mothers outside the room to which visits are usually restricted.

Mother's Day has been observed at the prison for several years, De Bord said.

Three windows in the home economics room at San Marin High School were broken yesterday with the damage estimated at $175, Novato police reported today.

Park Land Exchange Given Little Chance

State and county agencies seeking compensation for lands contributed by them to the Golden Gate National Recreation Area received little encouragement this weekend from the federal government.

The federal government in the person of the area's superintendent, William J. Whelan, said that "the doors aren't closed" on some kind of settlement, but that surrender of other federal land in exchange is not likely.

The exchange of views took place Saturday in San Francisco during a conference called by the University of California Extension to discuss the proposed 34,000-acre recreation area.

In addition to pushing for compensatory land swapping, state and county spokesmen said they want a greater effort by the federal government to keep them informed of progress in creating the recreation area and more sharing of management of it.

Russell J. Porter, chief of grants and statewide studies for the state department of parks and recreation repeated his departments opposition to surrendering its parklands without repayment.

He also called for permanent joint supervision of the recreation area. "We have always felt that Marin and San Francisco and the state have sophisticated parks and recreation agencies capable of planning and promoting recreation in ways that equal if not better the National Park Service," he said.

He said that the state could probably raise funds more quickly for buying and developing lands in the recreation area than the federal government.

Pierre W. Joske, Marin County director of parks and recreation, also called for a "regional authority to run this park in partnership with the national park system but with a certain amount of autonomy from federal red tape."

He said that Marin could cooperate with the National Park Service but wants the service to try more "two-way communication" than has been the case with the Point Reyes National Seashore, also in Marin. "Communications with potential park users leave something to be desired," said Joske.

Joseph Caverly, the general manager of the San Francisco Department of Recreation and Parks, seemed more receptive to the National Park Service takeover of San Francisco owned land in the recreation area. "We thought several years ago," he said, "that we could form a partnership with the National Parks Service to do things together and do things well."

But even he said that his city hopes for some repayment from the federal government for turning over lands like Fort Miley, which San Francisco bought out of its own pocket.

Park Use Is Urged Of Minorities

How can ghetto residents be encouraged and prepared to make use of nearby national parklands like the Golden Gate National Recreation area?

That was the question faced by several speakers in one session of a conference on the newly created San Francisco and Marin park area held Saturday in San Francisco by the University of California Extension.

Edward Washington, who runs Slide Ranch Camp near Stinson Beach for inner city children, urged that there be more early childhood nature education to show ghetto people "where they should build fires, what to do with cigarette butts and how to enjoy the outdoors."

According to James Smith, a senior associate with the Conservation Foundation, the recreation area could become a park for "a discreet, elite population" of upperclass white Sierra club members and ecology nuts.

"People in Hunters Point have damn little familiarity with Marin and vast open space," he said. "It's terribly important to begin to encourage people who wouldn't ordinarily use this park."

He urged that the park advisory board include people from all income and ethnic levels in the Bay Area.

David Karraker, who is chief of programs that interpret nature to visitors at Yosemite National Park, said that inner city children must learn more about nature in schools before being sent out to the recreation area.

Delay Denied In Terrorist Trial

KHARTOUM (UPI) — The Sudanese Government today denied that it had postponed the trial of seven Palestinian Black September guerrillas on charges of killing three diplomats, including two Americans, in Khartoum last March.

Sudanese Culture and Information Minister Sayed Omar Haj Mousa said in an interview that "The government has not made any announcement that indicates the trial has been postponed indefinitely.

"The matter is still in the hands of the judiciary," he said, "and the Government is not in a position to comment on the case before the judiciary has said its word."

Americanism Honors Given

Two seventh graders at the Mill Valley Middle School have won honors in an essay contest on Americanism.

Martha Plessas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Plessas, won the first place medal and Susan Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Jones, won second place.

Both wrote on "Our Freedom is not Free" in the contest sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary of Mill Valley. Contest chairman Ethel Greenwood said the winning essay will be entered in district competition.

Baboon Colony Causes Concern

SEAGOVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Four baboons, apparently escapees from the now defunct World of Animals in nearby Mesquite, Tex., have taken up residence in a wooded area near a trailer park. Area residents are concerned it might become a permanent colony.

"The apes occasionally come out of the woods but run off when anyone approaches," Seagoville city manager Frank Kirk said. "We've set baited traps with fruit in them to no avail and tried to shoot the animals with tranquilizer guns, but we couldn't get close enough."

If you're the average "fatty," you've lost 600 lbs. . . . the same 10 lbs. 60 times. You've tried everything and either failed or lost a little, and gained it all back in one glorious weekend. Then guilt sets in . . . you feel you have failed because you are weak-willed . . . and you've given up on yourself. Well, you're wrong. You're not weak, just misinformed.

There is a way to lose ½ lb. to one lb. a day without hunger, depression, drugs, tiring exercise, nutritional deficiencies or exotic machines, and, if you wish, MAKE MONEY WHILE YOU ARE DOING IT WITHOUT INTERFERING WITH YOUR PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. You'll be so thrilled with the results that you'll want to share the experience with others anyway, so why not be fairly compensated?

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

This program is guaranteed. You have nothing to lose but your fat. If you don't get the promised results, with no hunger, and appetite easily under control, you will promptly receive a refund. Our promise: You will lose weight rapidly while feeling fine. Isolated Students Test Sense Of Time

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — University of California scientists have isolated six students in small rooms for three months to see if they will lose their sense of time.

The researchers are regulating the lighting and other elements in the two soundproofed rooms so the volunteer students will have little idea of what is happening in the outside world.

At first, the rooms were lighted with continuous low levels of light. Then they were on light-dark cycles which were eight hours different than the normal cycle. Now one room has continuous low-level light and the other has 16 hours of light with eight hours of darkness.

Scientists hope the experiment will help predict how astronauts will perform on space stations and explain the time lag disruption felt by jet travelers.

The volunteers are wired with gear to record their heartbeats and body temperature. They also take blood samples from themselves.

Although it is too early for many results, the scientists say one surprise has cropped up.

"We usually think of a leader influencing a group," said Joan Vernikos-Danellis, a scientist for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "But it's turning out a disrupter may have a more important influence."

She explained that one volunteer reacted with extreme sensitivity when his food was too cold or the last two minutes of a television tape cut off. "In isolation, very simple things assume great importance," she said. The "disrupter" now has been moved to another room.

'Guy Out Of Nowhere,' Partner Get Cash, Gems

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The guy just came up behind me, put a gun in my back, and said 'get into the car.'" With those four words Edward Nager, his wife and another couple began a slow drive through Central Park Sunday. It left them poorer by an estimated $267,000 in cash and jewelry.

"The chauffeur had just opened the door for me, and I had gotten out and turned to help my wife when this guy came from nowhere, put a gun in my back and told me to get into the car," Nager said. "Another man with a gun also forced the chauffeur into the car."

With one of the gunmen sitting in the rear seat of the car, the two men told the chauffeur to drive slowly through the park and then asked us to give them all of our cash and jewelry," Nager said.

The police said an estimated $200,000 in jewelry and $1,500 in cash were reported taken from the Rosens. Makon said there was no breakdown of exactly what kind of jewelry was taken from the four.

Nager said that some $65,000 in jewelry was taken from him alone.

Police said the two men apparently got into a waiting car.

"They never threatened to kill us," Nager, an electrical engineer, said. "We gave them what they wanted. We were only shaken."

Police said the entire caper lasted about 10 minutes and described it as looking "like a well planned job. We are checking into the backgrounds of people who have been involved in similiar types of crimes."

The two robbers were described only as male whites in their mid 30s.

Watergate Gives Reminder We Need

We needed Watergate.

We say this sadly, as scandal piles upon scandal in a story of political chicanery to subvert the law — the Vesco case, the government's handling of the Pentagon Papers affair, etc. "Watergate" stands as symbol for all of this.

It is a fitting symbol. For the bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate was, after all, a minor crime — "just politics," a lot of people said.

Yet this minor crime has proved to be the visible tip of an iceberg that could perhaps irreparably damage our democratic electoral system if it had been allowed to go indefinitely undetected.

BECAUSE Watergate was the visible tip that brought detection, we needed Watergate.

We needed it to remind us that little things we may dismiss as "just politics" may be the visible evidences of other, more dangerous things.

We may dismiss it as "just politics" when the speaker of the California Assembly consigns a Senate-passed bill to implement the voters' expressed will to a committee he feels sure will never report it out — as has been done with Sen. George Deukmejian's SB450. But it is more than "just politics"; it is subversion of the democratic process, for Californians voted 2-to-2 to restore the death penalty, which cannot be done without such a bill.

We may dismiss it as "just politics" when the state superintendent of public instruction ignores his duty to enforce the Education Code by making no move to cut off funds from districts that force school busing. But it is more than "just politics," for the people by overwhelming vote demanded this be done.

We may dismiss it as "just politics" when our Legislature appropriates more than a million dollars of our tax money to finance political campaigns of the legislators themselves. But it is more than "just politics"; it is the same kind of subversion represented by Watergate, placing the interests of party above those of the people.

EACH OF THESE and many other things that we may call "just politics" erodes a little from the structure of our democratic system — and thereby, takes away a little of our freedom.

Freedom is never lightly won, nor can it be lightly held. The only way mankind has found to win and keep it is through participatory democracy — what Abraham Lincoln so eloquently called "government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

We have grown careless with our precious freedom. We have grown callous about skullduggery in public office. The fashion is to call this carelessness and callousness "Sophistication." A better term would be stupidity.

We needed to be reminded of that. And since Watergate cannot fail to remind us, we needed Watergate.

Butterfly Or Moth?

This summer Marinites will probably see lots of butterflies and moths. How does one differentiate between the two?

As a matter of technical classification, butterflies have antenna that look like straight wires with a tiny knob on the end, while moths may have several other kinds. At rest, a moth spreads its wings out flat like the wings of an airplane; a butterfly holds its wings together in a vertical plane like an airplane tail. Butterflies like bright daylight and won't venture out if the day is overcast; most moths prefer night or the semi-darkness of tropical rain forests for traveling about.

Speakership Race Gives Assembly Reform Chance

By EARL G. WATERS

Two San Francisco assemblymen, Willie Brown and Leo McCarthy, are quietly engaged in a battle for the speakership. They are anticipating the vacancy which will occur by reason of Speaker Bob Moretti's plans to seek the office of governor.

The situation presents members of the Assembly a golden opportunity to bring about a major reform in their house. It involves a simple change in their rules of organization.

For, unlike the Senate wherein the constitution provies the lieutenant governor as the presiding office, the constitution makes no mention of a speaker. It merely states that each house shall choose its officers and adopt rules for its proceedings.

UNDER THE ASSEMBLY rules the membership elects a speaker by a majority, which is 41 votes. Once elected, the speaker becomes a virtual dictator. He names all committeemen and committee chairmen. He assigns all bills to committee.

The ability to control committees and steer legislative proposals to them gives the speaker awesome power. He can guide the measures he favors to committees that will approve them. By the same method he can assure the defeat of bills. And he can lean heavily on the members when legislation he wants comes before the full Assembly.

This great power thwarts the whole idea of representative government. For the speaker, whoever he may be at the moment, oment, represents just one of the 80 Assembly districts. Yet the power he possesses enables him to dictate legislative policy to the other 79 members or a sufficient number of them to assure his will is carried out.

Of late the speaker has assumed even greater powers. He has acted as the "bagman" for campaign funds. His strength enables him to guide legislation and creates the opportunity for him to gather political contributions. He can then parcel out these funds to aid in the election or defeat of other assemblymen. So the pressures he can apply to his fellow legislators not only affect their ability to properly represent their districts, it also threatens their continuance in office.

TO AVOID SUCH one-man rule the Senate, long ago, diffused its leadership. It stripped the lieutenant governor of authority to name committees and assign bills and placed these duties in the hands of a five-man rules committee elected by the membership.

Now the assembly has the chance to do the same. For, although Moretti's term of office does not end until December, 1974, Brown and McCarthy are out to lock up the succession votes now.

Both are young, able men. Both are attorneys. Being Democrats, their views are not too far apart. Perhaps neither one would attempt to use the muscle as speaker that Moretti, and Jesse Unruh before him, have used. But a little transitory power often makes strange changes in men.

As it stands the choice between them will be difficult for the members. But they can seize upon the opportunity to insist that whoever gets their vote agrees to divest the speaker of the power to appoint committees and assign bills. Such a change would be a true reform.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Memories Of Moscow

WASHINGTON — Ten years ago, I was living and working in Moscow. As a correspondent there, I lived with all the assumptions that foreigners take to the Soviet capital. I assumed my telephones were tapped. I know my mail was opened en route. I know that at times I and my colleagues were followed. While I encountered relatively little information that the government there did not already know, nevertheless I and my press and diplomatic friends often interrupted each other by putting a finger to the lips and then pointing to the ceiling, where a bug might have been listening.

It was standard paranoia, fortunately in my case temporary, relieved by occasional trips outside and eventually ending when I departed after nearly three years. But in the case of people who are born there and live there all their lives, the atmosphere is much the same — except that it never ends.

THE WAY IT USED to be in Moscow has been recurring to me insistently with each new disclosure in the Nixon campaign scandals. I know it is a cheap shot, a technique often used by people for whom I have contempt, to blacken anything you do not like in America by likening it to Russia or Communism. That is why, although this has been in my mind for almost 11 months now, I have not made this comparison in a column. It comes out now, provoked by an astonishingly narrow view of current events disclosed in letters to the editor of widely scattered newspapers.

In part, that view still does not perceive all this scandal as anything more than a long-ago wiretapping attempt at Democratic headquarters — even though on any given day the same paper that prints such letters is loaded with new revelations of sabotage, malfeasance, faking, perjuring, concealing, burgling and more.

Another aspect of it still insists that it is all something the press dreamed up. Witness this from a writer to the New Orleans Times-Picayune: "The entire media were so shocked by the overwhelming defeat of their boy, Sen. George McGovern, that they have gone ape over trying to smear President Nixon over this spitting-on-the-sidewalk incident. "Where on earth can that person have spent the last year?

NOT IN MOSCOW. Anyone who has spent time there cannot possibly ignore the sober potential of what has happened here.

In the Soviet Union, there is the KGB (Committee for State Security), which is vaguely comparable to our CIA in that it is supposed to collect intelligence and protect the state from external enemies. There also is the MVD (Ministry for Internal Security), roughly lining up with the FBI in that its job is to guard against domestic enemies. There is a Foreign Ministry, like a State Department, and a Justice Ministry, like a Justice Department, and so on. There also is the Communist Party, theoretically apart from these government functions but superior to them all.

What differentiated the Soviet system from ours all these years was that here the government and especially its police and intelligence divisions were separated from the party in power by both theory and practice.

Of course, Presidents traditionally have used their official airplanes and staff and appointees to advance their political cause. But out in the departments, in the FBI and the CIA, at State and Justice, people were presumed to be working first in the interest of the country, not a political party. This is the line that has been crossed in these past months, and that is what makes the whole pattern of behavior in Mr. Nixon's behalf so much more serious than the sum of its many parts.

AS THE KGB, the MVD and the other Soviet agencies are most aggressive against any imagined threat to the Communist Party's supremacy, so the men around Mr. Nixon busied themselves to compromise the executive branch — including its police and intelligence divisions — to protect the President against any threat to his re-election.

They tried and at minor points succeeded in using those agencies for illegal, solely political ends. True, they were so impatient that they organized their own super-party and super-police and intelligence agencies, unbound by the law. Had they not been caught, they would have been encouraged to go on in that direction at least till 1976, and what might that election year have brought?

We are not sure yet that it will all be cleaned up and turned around by then. If it is, it will be because of stubborn men in the judicial and legislative branches, and in the press. So far at least, those institutions here survive free of White House control, and — so far — we can get along here without speaking in whsipers and pointing in warning to the ceiling.

Newspaperboy Helpful To Stalled Motorist

A friendly and helpful I-J delivery boy named Brennan assisted me in changing a "flat" yesterday (May 8) at 5:15 p.m. on Corte Ortega in Greenbrae.

This note is for the purpose of thanking him, and also to explain to any of his customers who may have received their I-J a bit late yesterday.

Supervisors Guilty Of 'Selective Hearing'

Today I had first-hand experience of the arrogance of government. After some two hours of presentations by citizen group representatives and individuals to the Marin County Board of Supervisors re the county administrator's proposed supra-agency consolidation of the departments of health, social services and probation into a new "Department of Health and Human Services," the chairman of the board, Mr. Baptiste, summed up the opposition as a lot of "rhetoric" and the reorganization was approved by a 3-2 vote.

Central points voiced by the opposition were:(1) look before you leap (the ad hoc committee was a "60-day wonder" and itself advocated a longer study prior to action, while the county administrator came in "independently" with a full-blown plan for implementation about a week later); (2) what will be the increase in service benefits to the client? (not documented in even the most rudimentary fashion); (3) what will it cost? (per the administrator about $70,000 in increased cost to the local taxpayer since no state or federal matching funds exist.). . .

Opposition to the Administrator's proposal included the following groups: Probation Department, Juvenile Justice Commission, League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, Marin County Child and Youth Mental Health Committee, Judge Broderick, presiding judge of Superior Court, Comprehensive Health Planning Council, Community Mental Health Workers Union, Community Action Marin, Irate Taxpayers, Social Workers Union, Probation Workers, Marin Alternative, Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

Speakers in support included Mrs. Marion Kelly from the Volunteer Bureau, a gentleman from the Alcoholic Community and a lady from the grand jury, all of whom spoke as a "voice of one.". . .

I frequently accuse our children of "selective hearing" (only what you want to hear, dear) when it comes to nitty-gritty chores. Now it appears the members of the board of supervisors play the same game.

The Issue Is Settled; Let's Fluoridate Water

The recent action by the State Board of Health allowing the Marin Municipal Water District to fluoridate our water supply is the final step necessary to fulfill the will of the Marin voters. The issues pro and con for fluoridation have been well debated prior to the election, and this was recognized by the State Board of Health in issuing their permit.

Fluoridation now should proceed and it is my hope, as well as the hope of the many thousands who voted for it, that the minority will not engage in delaying action which will prevent the expression of the will of the majority.

Plight Of American Indian Is Real And Depressing One

What is the plight of the American Indian? Putting aside the violent and illegal occupation of Wounded Knee by the leaders of the American Indian Movement, whose tactics most Indians condemn, it is a grim plight. It has been for a long time. Here are the facts:

Average family income — $1,500 a year.

Average educational level — five years of school.

Unemployment on reservations — 40 per cent.

Life expectancy — 44 years.

Infant mortality — three times national average.

Tuberculosis — eight times national average.

Housing — 70 per cent substandard.

Indian leaders want tribal sovereignty. One expert puts it this way: "American Indians have survived all attempts . . . to destroy their unique culture, their tribal patterns of living and their special view of the world around them.

"If the Indian is the poorest of American minorities, he is also among the hardiest. Indians are moving slowly but steadily toward the assumption of full responsibility for their own affairs after more than a century of paternalistic domination by the federal government."

1 — The administration has very probably thrown away the Pentagon Papers case by its alleged involvement in the burglarizing of the offices of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and the alleged offering of the FBI post to Judge W. Matt Byrne Jr. while the trial was in progress.

2 — The Republican Party has lost the "law-and-order" issue despite a nationwide downturn in major crime. It can hardly charge the Democrats with a permissiveness equal to that practiced by White House aides.

3 — Six Republican senators have passed the word to the President that the way things now stand they won't run for re-election.

SLIVER OF SILVER LINING. Foreign diplomats in Washington do not think that Watergate will seriously impair U.S. foreign policy and its dealings with other countries.

Interviews with Asian and western ambassadors suggest that the U.S. image abroad has not been badly hurt. Reason: Scandals worse than Watergate occur in their countries. Said one European diplomat:

"Every country has had political affairs like that. I personally do not think it will have an impact on Europe or especially on the President's talks with European leaders."

In 1965 social welfare accounted for 33 per cent of the federal budget; last year it was 46 per cent.

Much of the increase comes from the fact that since 1966 the federal treasury has been the main source of funds for social welfare purposes. In 1972 the federal government supplied 55 per cent of all public funds spent for social welfare; state and local governments supplied 45 per cent.

Federal, state and local governments together spend more than half of their income for social welfare purposes.

WOMEN AND THE STOCK MARKET. They are investing their own money — and liking it better. They have a lot to invest.

Women receive $116 billion a year in salaries, own $172 billion in registered stock, have an estimated $10 billion in mutual funds, and last year received $5 billion in death benefits.

They are becoming inveterate investors.

National Press Council: Does It Really Represent Public Interest?

Reprinted from Wall Street Journal

We see the Twentieth Century Fund has launched its National Press Council, intended to police some of the largest media and restore the public's confidence in the press.

The council is rooted in an eminently sound idea. We agree that the press in this nation generally does not receive the kind of scrutiny and criticism that the press applies to other institutions. This leaves a gap in public knowledge and understanding, filled only by the self-interested complaints of politicians and interest groups. While the press is getting better at covering itself, peer group pressures do impose subtle restraints, and there is no doubt a place for supplementary and more independent criticism.

It is quite a leap from these insights, though, to the notion that it is either possible or desirable to have some quasi-judicial body handing down supposedly impartial versions of some final truth. In particular, we are put off by the Press Council's claim to represent "the public." We scan its members in vain looking for someone whom Archie Bunker would identify as his representative, and it is our clear impression that it is among his peers that confidence in the media most needs restoring. It would be interesting, in fact, to know how the panel's voting in the 1968 election compares with that of the public it presumes to represent.

So, while we sympathize with the purposes of the council, we have doubts about its means. We have always wondered why the Twentieth Century Fund couldn't do just as much good by taking its money and sponsoring a really good and reasonably independent magazine covering the press, letting contending views meet and trusting to find the truth not in trial-like decisions but in the free marketplace of ideas.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Astronauts Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz star on a new job this week, provided they can find their way to the Skylab office building, which is being moved to outer space.

It seems that these days everybody is subjected to longer and longer commutes to get to the office, but 270 miles is ridiculous — especially when it's all straight up.

Today's office building is like today's cost of living. It's getting so high it's out of sight.

The astronauts plan to work so late at the office they won't be home to dinner for 28 days.

Game Of Baseball Keeps Getting The 'Out' Call — But Lives On

Baseball has joined the Broadway theater and the American novel as a fashionable topic for the premature post-mortem crowd. "Is Broadway (or the novel, or baseball) dying?" asks the speaker with an audience to titillate or the journalist with a column to fill, carefully preparing his face in the mourner's position. Ah, the games pundits play!

"What was formerly a pastime has now become a business." Who delivered this obituary on baseball? The ubiquitous Howard Cosell? Wrong. John Montgomery Ward, a major leaguer himself, writing in 1886. Ward, it seems, was the first of the literary pitchers, 70 years ahead of former Cincinnati Red Jim Brosnan, 80 years ahead of former New York Yankee Jim Bouton, the latest master of the fast ball-point.

NOTHING IS NEW under that bleacher sun. The difference now is that worrying about the future of baseball has become almost as Big Business as baseball. And so there are books with titles like "No Joy in Mudville: The Dilemma of Major League Baseball," while the sages in the right-field stands nod in agreement that one more player strike will do it —the out sign will go up for the game itself.

After they have tsk-tsked, in the Ward tradition, over avarice, the anxious Annies of baseball specialize in two arguments. First, the sinister antenna rears its ugly head, "If the game is tampered with by TV to exclude the charismatic value," Ralph Andreano, baseball fan and economics professor, warns darkly, "if television perverts the social values implicit in the Folk Hero Factor, then major-league baseball will most surely decline to a spectator sport of minor national significance."

Next on the Cassandras' list of omens is something called tempo. By comparison with basketball, hockey, and even football, baseball admittedly is the andante cantabile of sports. The worry-warts — like red-faced policemen coping with a traffic jam —are forever thinking of ways to "speed up" the game, even though statisticians have concluded that turning a slow-working pitcher into a fast-working pitcher would save only about 4½ minutes over nine innings.

The simplest answer to the tempo argument may be that if something is a pleasure, one doesn't want to speed it up. But simple answers are not to the taste of baseball's apologists. "Down on the playing field, another version of time exists, Einsteinian in its complexity," one theoretician has elaborately suggested. Which brings up another point — that baseball may have a little trouble surviving its friends.

EVEN THE MOST hysterical nail-biters about baseball's future are sober realists compared with the game's defenders. Writing in praise of baseball tends to turn even the better prose stylists toward slushy mysticism. "Not until I got to college and was introduced to literature did I find anything with a comparable emotional atmosphere as strong an esthetic appeal," Philip Roth has rhapsodized in "The Great American Novel." "Baseball with its longeurs and thrills, its spaciousness. . .its peculiarly hypnotic tedium, its heroics, its nuances, its 'characters,' its language, and its mythic sense of itself. . ." etc., etc. Upward the incense rises.

Stubbornly, almost angrily, we hang on to baseball, like an historic landmark some motel-builder wants to tear down. We insist on getting personally involved in Hank Aaron's assault on Babe Ruth's home-run record. There are few neutrals on any subject in baseball. Is Johnny Bench the greatest catcher in the history of the game? Does Gaylord Perry throw a spitball? No sport has more debate topics set up in its file, and one must not only have an opinion, one must care.

Other games — rich in pace and contact —may be enjoyed more at the actual moment. But no game is held in such affection before and after the event. Breathing the powdered-sugar air of boyhood bubble-gum cards, Americans are in love with their love of the game. In effect, the baseball-lover is the 10th man on the team*, and as long as he's still playing —as long as baseball is also a state of mind — the other nine players should be sliding home safe.

BUS'S CARGO IS HASHISH

Federal Customs Agent Dave McIntosh shows how packages containing 750 pounds of hashish were concealed in the between-decks flooring of a double-decked London bus shipped to Boston aboard an Iranian vessel. The big vehicle had been converted to a camper. Customs agents arrested five San Francisco Bay Area residents on what they said was a $1.5 million hashish smuggling scheme using the bus. Inmate Hurt In Fork Attack

An inmate working in the San Quentin Prison hospital was attacked Friday by a patient wielding a fork, a prison spokesman said.

John Eddie Brown, 27, of Santa Clara, serving a six months-to-life term for assault with a deadly weapon, suffered only superficial scratches, the spokesman said.

The attack occurred at 10 p.m. when Brown and a prison hospital employee were attempting to administer a shot to a patient. The patient brushed aside the employee and reportedly slashed at Brown with the fork, apparently stolen from the prison cafeteria, the spokesman said.

The patient, another convict, was taken into custody.

Michigan Cities Eye Moving Belts As Mass Transit Link

YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — An ultramodern $80 million mass transit concept that would use conveyers to move people in air conditioned comfort is under consideration by Washtenaw County officials.

The system, called Pass-Portation (Mass-Po) and developed by United Technology, Inc., of Southfield, Mich., would connect this city with Ann Arbor 10 miles away. It would be the first of its kind in the world.

According to its inventor, Walton Cushman, the continuous loop would be composed of a main conveyer carrying paired seats at a steady fixed speed, and a smaller conveyer which would stop to pick up passengers and then speed up to allow boarding of the main conveyer.

He said the endless motion of the main conveyer would save energy which other systems burn up in starting and stopping. He estimated construction and operating costs at about $1,000 per seat, compared with $4,000 for most bus systems.

At a sustained speed of 30 miles per hour, the system could transport 90,000 persons per hour, he said.

The propsoal was unveiled during the weekend at a meeting of the Washtenaw County Overall Economic Development Program Committee, a citizen group formed so the communities could obtain federal transportation funds. Committee Chairman James Cregar said the group was impressed by the system, but is also exploring several other possibilities.

He estimated it would take five years to raise money and build such a system, which would use existing right of way.

"The eyes of the world will be upon us," said Gerald McComb of the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce. "We have the opportunity here to be first with a possible solution to a serious and growing problem of mass movement of people."

The proposed system would also include Willow Run Airport and the University of Michigan football stadium in Ann Arbor.

Mother's Day Sign For Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Psychiatrist Robert Spitzer displayed a Mother's Day message to President Nixon yesterday in five-feet high letters for all to see.

"Dick Don't Bomb Cambodian Mothers" read the sign towed by a helicopter over San Francisco.

"I did it as a Mother's Day-present for my wife Becky," said the Palto Alto, Calif., psychiatrist. "She got a real kick out of it."

Soviet Party Chief Grants Interview

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev granted an interview yesterday to West Germany's Stern magazine, his first to a non-Communist publication, German sources said today.

The content of the interview, which will appear May 17, one day before Brezhnev is scheduled to begin his first visit to West Germany, was not disclosed.

Senior Citizens Sent Tax Forms

Tax refund claim forms have been mailed this week to senior citizens in Marin and Sonoma counties, according to State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

Forms have been mailed to persons who claimed refunds last year and to those who have requested them. Senior citizens must be over the age of 62, own and occupy their home, have paid property taxes on the home and have an income of less than $10,000 per year.

In 1971, 388 Marin residents received refunds of $75,899 while the total for Sonoma County was 1,054 claims for $132,183 in refunds.

Contract Signed For Pier Fair

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — State parks director William Penn Mott Jr. has signed a "rental" contract clearing the way for the operator of Marin's Renaissance Faire to stage a 33-day "nautical fair" this summer at the State Maritime Historical Park at Hyde Street Pier in San Francisco.

The signing Friday ended months of negotiation and controversy over whether it was proper to "rent" state park property to a private concessionaire, Theme Events Ltd. of Marin County.

Theme Events, run by Ronald and Phyllis Patterson, will pay a basic rental of $12,067 plus 8 per cent of all receipts over $225,000, which is the estimated cost of staging the fair.

Abernathy Free After Protest

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Rev Ralph Abernathy, a leader in the protest against an Atlanta department store, was released on $1,000 bond yesterday after his arrest at the home of the store's board chairman.

Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), took over leadership of striking workers at Rich's Department Store after the Rev. Hosea Williams was jailed.

Blacks have been protesting against Rich's because of alleged racial discrimination and unfair business practices.

Children Killed

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (UPI) — Three children were killed and three others critically injured today in the accidental explosion of a hand grenade at a shooting range, police reported.

Out Of This World

Although it has the name "Skylab," the U.S. space station little resembles a cold, clinical laboratory on earth. It is also a far cry from the cramped modules that up to now have housed human activity in space. After a hard day's work, the three astronauts will be able to stretch out in separate bedrooms. A stereo tape player will provide relaxing music. Menus for the 28 day excursion include such down-to-earth favorites as roast beef, filet mignon, and lobster Newburg. Other luxuries will include a wash stand and a shower.

DO YOU KNOW — Has the Soviet Union launched any space stations?

Harry M. Williams Mortuary Changes Hands After 27 Years

Harry M. Williams, 72, who has been in the mortuary business for 57 years, the last 48 years in San Rafael, sold his mortuary last week to Michael Heffernan of Stockton.

The new owner, who comes from a pioneer family of morticians dating back four generations, said he will keep the name Harry M. Williams Mortuary for the time being. He said Williams will continue to advise and serve as consultant during the transition. Theron J. Lyman Jr., manager at Harry M. Williams since 1950, will continue as manager for the new owner.

Hefferman has 10 years of experience, working at De Young Funeral Home in Stockton for his uncle, C. K. De Young. He and his wife and their four children will move to Marin as soon as he can find a suitable home.

Williams started his career in 1916, working for mortuaries in Oakland and Berkeley, then joined Keaton's in San Rafael in 1925. In 1946, he built Harry M. Williams Mortuary at 1415 Third Street and operated it for the past 27 years. Williams was also a San Rafael fire commissioner for 28 years until he resigned from the commission this year.

William and his wife, Gertrude, who have been married for 52 years, will continue to live in San Rafael. Williams said he plans to relax and pursue his hobbies including handgun shooting and leathercraft.

DEVAN'S JEWELERS in downtown San Rafael will close it doors in about two weeks after two years of operation at 1115 Fourth Street.

HARRY M. WILLIAMS
Sells Mortuary

Devan's is conducting a clearance sale with big markdowns and expects to be out of the premises by June 1.

Manager Stan Cabot said the store is closing because the owner, Benno Lewy of Hayward, is seriously ill after several heart attacks and a stroke. Lewy and his wife also closed two other stores which they had operated in Fresno and in Hayward.

Devan's Jewelers opened in June of 1971 across from Rafael Theater where Gorb's Jewelers was formerly located. The shop is operated by Manager Cabot and his assistant, Sharon Clark of Novato.

PAUL CIAMPI Distributing Co., which has been at 72 Woodland Avenue in San Rafael for about 10 years, plans to move into a new distributing center in Novato this summer.

Norman Ciampi, manager, said he and his father Paul Ciampi plan to build a 15,000-suqare-foot tilt-up concrete building on Ford Way at Hill Road in Novato as a beer and wine distributing center and for company offices. Ciampi said the tentative timetable is to start construction in July and have the building ready in August.

The new warehouse will give Paul Ciampi Distributing about double the present space. The company also plans to expand its services in Sonoma and Napa Counties.

CREDIT MOTORS of 1000 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael (corner of Bellam Boulevard) announced the appointment of Wayne Omo of Novato as sales manager. Omo is a retired lieutenant colonel, who served in the Air Force for 22 years.

Herb Lucas of Corte Madera, owner of Credit Motors, said his company specializes in good economy cars, vans and trucks. "We take in cars, trade, sell and also consign," said Lucas. Credit Motors was established in 1967 on Grand Avenue and has been located at Francisco and Bellam Boulevards for the past two years.

ENVOY AIRCRAFT Inc., a new corporation which plans to build a small private plane for experimental purposes, has been formed in Mill Valley.

Principals are David and Kay Rose and Charles R. Skinner, all of Mill Valley. Rose said the corporation exists only on paper thus far, and plans are still indefinite.

"At this point, our plan is to build one experimental plane as a research project," said Rose. He said the aircraft may be built outside of Marin County.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL of Realtors, Marin Chapter, will meet at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax on May 23 for a noon luncheon. Speakers will be naturalist Elizabeth Terwilliger and Marin County Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske, who will discuss "Bike Paths and Hiking Trails."

STATE BOARD of Equalization Chairman William M. Bennett of Kentfield announced the publication of a new pamphlet, "Tax Tips for Drug Stores," designed to serve as a guide to owners, managers and operators of drug stores. The pamphlet supplies basic information in non-technical language on the application of the state sales and use tax laws.

Copies of the pamphlet may be obtained from the Tax Information Office, Room 128, 1020 N. Street, Sacramento.

Moderate Trading As Prices Fall

Some analysts said pressure on the dollar in foreign markets, soaring gold prices, and questions concerning White House involvement in the Watergate scandal have diminished investor confidence.

On the American Stock Exchange, the list also took broad losses in moderate activity. TWA warrants led the actives, off ½ at 14 ½ on 33,900 traded.

On the Big Board, virtually alone among the gainers were gold mining stocks that benefitted from more than a week of record gold prices on the foreign markets. Among those in the limelight were American South African up 3 ⅝, Campbell Red Lake 3 ¼, Dome Mines 3 ¾, and Homestake Mining 2 ½.

Louisiana Land & Exploration fell 1 ¼ during the session. A Wall Street columnist suggested the stock may be overpriced in relation to its earnings.

Glamors beat a downward path, led by Xerox off 2 ¼, Corning Glass 2 ¼, and Avon Products 2.

Electronics and computer issues fell sharply. Burroughs retreated 5 3-6, IBM 4 ⅝ and Motorola 2.

Getty, off 4 ½, led the losing oils. Also in the minus column were Superior Oil 4 ½, Exxon 1 ¼, and Kerr McGee 1 ¼.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Warrants: Better Trade Than Value

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I find myself in a position where I can afford to "take a flyer" with a few speculations. Warrants interest me for this purpose but I am not clear on the fine points of this kind of investment. Would you discuss how these work? Would you favor warrants for speculation?—R.C.

A. Warrants are options to purchase common shares, usually on a one-for-one basis, at a stated price, within a prescribed time period, although certain issues are perpetual. However, no ownership of the issuing company is represented by the warrant, nor are dividends paid to holders of these options. The warrant is generally priced well below the common share to which it is tied. Thus $1,000 will purchase possibly five times as many warrants as common shares. As a rule warrants move up and down faster than their common share counterparts.

There are 12 NYSE-listed warrants, 73 ASE and 97 NASDAQ warrants allowing investors a broad list from which to choose. In making your selection expiration dates should be noted carefully, since warrants are worthless after that time. Furthermore, terms, i.e. exercise prices, should be noted since these may change prior to expiration date. Warrants are primarily attractive as trading vehicles rather than for their exercise value.

Q. Three years ago I purchased 300 shares of Marine Midland (NYSE) at $38. Since then it has gone down considerably. Should I hold or sell?—S.M.

A. Unless your primary investment goal is income I would recommend switching to a faster growth issue. Although the recent increase to 7 per cent in the prime rate banks charge their most creditworthy customers will improve the spread between loan yields and money costs, earnings this year may be restricted by expansion expenses. Two major regional headquarters will be opened this year. Also exerting a dampening influence on profits are loan loss provisions and lower-margined foreign operations.

Local Lease Company In New Group

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Major equipment leasing companies in Europe, North America and the Far East reported yesterday the formation of a worldwide organization to facilitate international lease transactions.

Among participants are the San Francisco-based United States Leasing International Inc. and the Canadian-Dominion Leasing Corp. Ltd., Toronto.

Six other companies are involved initially, representing France, the United Kingdom, Spain, Sweden, West Germany and Japan. It's anticipated that the organization, called Multilease, will expand to include firms in Africa, South America and Southeast Asia later this year.

Ultimatum Given Over U.S. Bombing

PARIS (UPI) — Hanoi negotiator Le Duc Tho said today he will refuse to meet with Dr. Henry A. Kissinger if the United States continues bombing in Vietnam.

Tho delivered the ultimatum when he arrived in Paris for talks that are scheduled to begin Thursday with President Nixon's National Security Adviser.

The meeting was arranged to discuss claims by both sides of violations of the Vietnam cease-fire.

The Viet Cong charged this weekend that U.S. planes had bombed in South Vietnam on Saturday in violation of the cease-fire agreement. The United States denied the charges and said it would welcome an investigation.

The heaviest loss reported by the Communists was at Loc Tan, six miles from the Cambodian border in Loc Ninh Province and about 75 miles northwest of Saigon. They said two F4 Phantoms fired rockets which killed and injured 34 civilians.

The International Control Commission in Saigon said today it would investigate the Communist claim if the Communists would widen their permitted air corridors for ICCS helicopters in the interest of safety.

Tho told reporters at Orly Airport: "The United States wants to resort to force and to other maneuvers in flagrant violation of the peace agreement and to put pressure on us once again. This is a vain effort.

"I wish to state seriously and categorically that from now to the date of the meeting between Dr. Kissinger and myself, or during that meeting, if U.S. aircraft again bomb the zone of control of the Provisional Revolutionary Government (Viet Cong) and if such cases as happened in Loc Ninh province occur again, then the proposed meeting will definitely not take place.

"If the meeting is taking place, it will be interrupted at once."

Talks between the two, scheduled to start Thursday, are to range over claims by each side that the other has been violating the Jan. 27 peace accord which Kissinger and Tho negotiated.

Kissinger is expected in Paris later in the week. As well as accusations of cease-fire violations, the two trouble-shooters are expected to discuss the Cambodian situation.

President Challenged By Cranston

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said today Congress would call President Nixon's "bluff" in his Watergate scandal speech to provide full employment and control inflation.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the statewide AFL-CIO Legislative Conference, Cranston said, "The president has called for action to halt spiraling food and commodity prices. He has said he wants more jobs for everyone who wants to work.

"Well, we are going to give him that legislation. We are going to create jobs and if Phase III doesn't stop inflation we will give him tough, new legislation that will stop it."

Referring to Nixon's Watergate television speech two weeks ago, Cranston said he took "the President at his word, and I will do everything I can to make him live up to those pledges.

"Congress will call President Nixon's bluff in his Watergate speech to control inflation and provide full employment," he added.

Cranston also said the country "must get a grip on government spending. It is completely out of hand and it is a major contributor to the ruinous inflation we have been suffering from since 1965."

He said if Phase III voluntary controls fail, "We must crack down hard on profiteers and price gougers who are taking advantage of an inflationary psychology with unwarranted price increases.

Cranston also announced his co-sponsorship of legislation to create a Federal Full Employment Board and another bill he has introduced to create 1.15 million jobs.

"Essentially, my bill is a form of revenue sharing," he said. "State and local governments would administer the employment programs through local employment councils which would determine public needs, priorities and problems of economic development."

Corte Madera Given Tiburon Ridge Plans

Plans for a giant townhouse and apartment development on top of the Corte Madera-Tiburon ridge will be surveyed by the Corte Madera Planning Commission at its meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

A master plan proposal for La Cresta has been sent to the Corte Madera commission by the Marin County Planning Department because the development lies within the town's sphere of influence.

Theodore P. Hudec of San Francisco proposes to build 280 townhouses and 178 apartments on 103 acres located north of Tiburon Boulevard between the ends of Eagle Rock Drive and Via Los Altos in the Reed area.

The ridgelands are just south of Corte Madera's borders, and very close to the site of the embattled Madera del Presidio development, which at the moment is halted by a successful private citizens' suit.

The Marin County Planning Commission is scheduled to hold a public hearing on the master plan proposal for La Cresta on May 21, and Corte Madera's comments and recommendations have been sought.

Also before tonight's commission will be proposed ordinance amendments on planned unit development regulations, and on requiring dedication of land for school purposes in certain subdivisions.

Railroad Trestle Damaged In Fire

A nearby resident called police after he saw two juveniles by the wooden trestle and a bright flash. The youths ran away as the trestle started to burn, said police, and the Larkspur fire department extinguished the blaze.

Mill Valley Man Held In Robbery

A Mill Valley man was arrested early today on suspicion of taking two stereo receivers from a Mill Valley television shop.

Arrested while allegedly fleeing the Accurate Television Shop at 1 Throckmorton Avenue at 1:13 a.m. today was Richard Bernard Lucas, 26, of 190 Miller Avenue. He was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary and held without bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they were tipped off by a silent alarm and reached the store in time to see Lucas running away. A window had been smashed and two stereo receivers valued at $550 removed, they said.

Two Young Girls Molested By Man

Two 9-year-old San Rafael girls were molested near the snack bar in Albert Park on Saturday, police reported today.

Police said a man about 25 years old and wearing a green shirt and purple-stripped shorts approached the youngesters.

President Urged To Explain Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Freedom of Information Committee of Sigma Delta Chi urged President Nixon Monday to hold an hour-long, televised news conference to explain the Watergate scandal and answer questions about any administration part in it.

Courtney R. Scheldon, national chairman of the committee, said in a statement that a news conference would give Nixon a chance to clarify his position on Watergate.

"President Nixon has not held a press conference since March 15," Scheldon said. "Since that time, despite the overall denials issued by the White House, many questions have arisen in the public mind on exactly what President Nixon knew or did not know of the Watergate and related political espionage and corruption.

"It is our opinion that if regular press conferences were held during the past few years, President Nixon would have had to review the handling of the Watergate matters much earlier than subsequently happened.

"In the future, we recommend press conferences be held on the average of two or three a month in the same manner as President Nixon's predecessors."

Prosperity Seen For Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador to Saigon Ellsworth Bunker said yesterday South Vietnam eventually "will be one of the richest" nations in Southeast Asia.

"If the war continues, that day will be delayed," he said in an interview with U. S. News and World Report. "If peace comes, it will come quickly. I mean, in eight or 10 years, South Vietnam will be booming. It will be like South Korea, Malaysia and Thailand."

Bunker also said despite alleged North Vietnamese violations of the cease-fire, the United States has "reason to hope" Hanoi will live up to the agreements.

College Of Marin Is Seeking Sculptor

Hoping to donate a sculpture to the College of Marin library, the college's class of 1973 today called for local artists interested in the project to submit proposals.

Gregory Fearon, class president, said about $400 will be spent on the class gift. Interested artists should submit their names to Susan Koph in the student activities office in the next two weeks, he said.

Dental Group Is Reunified

SAN MATEO (AP) — The California Dental Association has been reunified after 76 years with Dr. Burton H. Press of Pittsburg as its president.

The 103-year-old professional organization had been split into two groups, one serving the southern part of the state and another the north.

Press, who was elected Saturday to represent the 12,000 association members, said:

"In a way dentistry is one profession that is trying to put itself out of business. I refer to its genuine efforts in the area of preventative dentistry-a total program of information and service which ultimately can eliminate the ills and defects of oral health which now we work to relieve and remedy."

He said the reunified dental association will support better care for Medi-Cal patients, fluoridation, improvement of training in all dental disciplines and the elevation of professional standards.

TRIBAL THING — An authentic Indian dance is performed by members of Talako Lodge 533 of the Order of the Arrow. This dance to tom-toms and the jingle of bells is seen through the entrance of the tepee built by the lodge as its Scout-O-Rama exhibit Saturday.

YE OLDEN TYME — Horsing around outside King Arthur's castle are Cubs of Pack 65 from San Anselmo. The youngsters' papier mache horses served as an escort into the castle which housed games of skill at the Scout-O-Rama Saturday in Forest Meadows, San Rafael.

Display And Puppets Top Scout-O-Rama

Two of the top winners at the Scout-O-Rama on Saturday were Troop 49 of Fairfax and Pack 39 of Santa Venetia.

Troop 49, sponsored by the Deer Park Villa Parent-Teacher Association featured six merit badge booths; geology, scuba diving, water skiing, snow skiing, snakes and photography. There were exhibits and demonstrations of each of these skills in the booths with Scouts explaining the necessary requirements for achievements. Scoutmaster is Robert Shaw of Fairfax.

In Pack 39's exhibit was a puppet show operated by the Cubs and Webelos with their own den-made puppets. The pack is sponsored by the Marin Civic Center Lion's Club.

The rest of the blue ribbons went to troops 38, 61, 71, 30 and 72 and packs 10 and 23, all of San Rafael; troops 6 and 15 and packs 65 and 80 of San Anselmo; troops 82, 81, 73 and 27 and packs 22, 73, 75 of Novato; packs 28 and 33 of Mill Valley, Pack 48 of Tiburon, Pack 49 of Fairfax, Pack 43 of Larkspur, Pack 24 of Corte Madera and Troop 11 of Kentfield.

Suit Challenges Design Of Cars

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — A $2 million suit challenging the frontal design of many American cars goes to Superior Court today.

The case involves Scott Baker, 63, a Brisbane, Calif., carpenter who was struck by a Dodge Coronet and disabled nearly six years ago. Baker says he was struck by protruding chrome called the "eyebrow," which is located on the leading edge of the hood just above the headlight.

Baker was stepping onto a curb when the automobile came around a winding road, braked and hit him at 5-10 miles per hour, the suit said. Baker is asking $1 million general and $1 million punitive damages.

FIRE CALLS

SATURDAY:

9:14 a.m., Tiburon — Electrical service wires between buildings H, G and K burst into flame when a resident accidentally shorted them with a piece of lumber; no damage.

2:37 p.m., Fairfax — Electrical fire at Thomas Hayes home at 240 Miranda Drive started when water from a dishwasher leaked onto a motor and shorted wiring; $450 damage to dishwasher.

2:39 p.m., Strawberry — Electrical wiring emitted sparks when plugged into an outlet at The Daisy Bug in the Strawberry Shopping Center; no damage.

2:47 p.m., Larkspur — Fire on the center divider on the 900 block of Magnolia Avenue was started by a cigarette tossed from a passing car; out on arrival, no damage.

6:54 p.m., Larkspur — Smoke check on Wilson Way turned out to be unfounded.

7:40 p.m., Fairfax — Grass and a deck burst into flames at the home of Donald Reiger, 105 Piper Court when resident tried to start barbecue with gasoline; no estimate of damage.

SUNDAY:

11:48 a.m., Novato — Grass fire off Albatross Drive, northeast of Laguna Vista, probably set by children; burned one-quarter acre.

2:12 p.m., Marinwood — Engine of car owned by Bruce Duncan, 58 Grove Hill Road, San Ansemo, burst into flames near 120 Blackstone Drive; caused by short circuit; no estimate of damage.

By PAUL LIBERATORE

The gold sign lashed to the bough of a pine tree said "50th Year," and scouts from every corner of the county celebrated the Marin Council's first half century Saturday during their annual Scout-O-Rama.

In eucalyptus-lined Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael, Cubs, Boy Scouts, Explorers and their leaders — about 2,000 of them — manned booths and exhibits built around the theme "Scouting on Display."

"This year we tried to emphasize boy-made and boy-operated exhibits, rather than a beautifully made piece of work obviously done by an adult," said Robert Links, Scout-O-Rama chairman.

As one passed through the front gate, and about 12,000 persons did, the new look in scouting was evident as members of Explorer Post 74 from Marinwood sold tickets and handed out maps of booths and displays.

Dressed in dark green Explorer shirts and neckerchiefs were several girls from the post, part of the wave of young women who joined the Explorer ranks since the program went co-ed five years ago, explained Mary Lou Jacobson, Marin Council publicist.

Action events dominated. Youngsters shinnied up rope climbs, traversed suspension bridges, played king of the mountain trying to knock each off a balance beam with pillows and crawled through elaborate obstacle courses.

On the grass in front of an authentic tepee members of Talako Lodge 533 of the Order of the Arrow performed Indian dances to the beat of the tom-tom and the jingle of bells.

Cubs from Pack 65 in San Anselmo led visitors through an elaborate plywood castle, King Arthur's Royal Court, filled with skill games and displays. Young knights on papier mache horses stood guard outside.

Cub Scout Pack 40 from Tamalpais Valley combined skill and ecology in a "bottle buster" game in which participants tried to smash bottles by rolling a wooden ball down a ramp. "Recycling the fun way," the sign said.

Fairfax Boy Scout Troop 49 put on a lively display of snakes and reptiles. King snakes, gopher snakes and even a thick-bodied boa constrictor were taken from glass cages for the adventurous to touch and examine close up.

A backwoods merry-go-round was built by Boy Scout Troop 61 out of rough logs lashed with rope. Scouts from Troop 50 in Sleepy Hollow demonstrated how to build a kayak with fiberglass and plastic resin.

Cubs from Pack 75 in Novato led planetary tours pushing visitors over the grass on homemade space ships and shuttles to plastic and cardboard planets, each planet built by a different den in the pack.

Council officials ran all food booths, doing a lively business in snow cones, hot dogs, popcorn and cotton candy.

POW's Party Set In Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — Planners of a three-day national homecoming celebration for all Vietnam veterans say more than 200 former prisoners of war have accepted invitations to the June affair.

"There could be more POWs here than at any one place at any one time except the White House dinner later this month," said W. W. Clements, president of Dr. Pepper Co., and chairman of the Dallas Salute Committee.

The celebration will be highlighted with a June 2 entertainment extravaganza in the Cotton Bowl sponsored by local businessmen. Bob Hope will be master of ceremonies for the two-hour, $350,000 show and committee officials hope that President Nixon might drop in.

Soviet Vessels Prowl Off China

TAIPEI (UPI) — A Soviet fleet of three to five warships sailed through the Formosa Strait last Saturday in an apparent effort to spy on the Chinese Communist coastal defenses, authoritative sources said today.

The sources told UPI the Russian flotilla sailed along a route between 25 to 45 miles from the China Mainland when it passed through the 95-mile-wide strait in daylight.

The sources, who have access to military information, said the Russian naval patrol was composed of at least one destroyer, one escort destroyer and one submarine which was sailing on the surface.

They said two other Russian warships of unidentified types were also sighted with the fleet before it entered the strait from its northern end between Foochow on the mainland and Keelung in Taiwan at midmorning last Saturday. However, the two ships disappeared during the fleet's daylight passage through the 270-mile long strait, they added.

The sources said the two ships which disappeared could have been submarines passing submerged through the Strait, probably hugging the mainland coast, or they could have been diverted.

This is the first time that any Russian warships have appeared in the strait since 1949 when the Communists drove the Nationalist government to Taiwan.

The sources said the Russian ships apparently were equipped with sophisticated electronic gear capable of detecting and evaluating Chinese Communist radars and other military defense facilities along the coast.

Nationalist Chinese warships and Air Force planes which for more than two decades have maintained unchallenged supremacy in the strait shadowed the Russian ships all the way through the strait before the fleet disappeared into the South China Sea Saturday evening.

Antique Planes Draw Low Bids

BUENA PARK, Calif. (UPI) — People may bid the limit for antique cars, but when it comes to rare old fighter airplanes, bids fail to get off the ground, according to operators of the California Coastal Auction.

The auction yesterday featured the Movie World Museum's collection of four unusual aircraft, ranging from a plane used by Japanese Kamikaze pilots in World War II to a vintage 1936 plane, the first to have a closed cockpit.

Jack Brucker, one of the owners of the auction, said bidders had offered up to $87,500 for antique cars the day before. He said it was hoped the planes would go for $50,000 apiece but only a few bids in the mid-$20,000 range were received.

Two Killed In Florida Prisons

NEW RIVER, Fla. (UPI) — Violence among inmates at two Florida prisons during the weekend left one convict dead.

Convicted murderer Jimmy Freeman, 23, of Miami, was stabbed to death and three other prisoners wounded in a knife fight at the Bradford County state prison branch here last night.

Inter-racial fighting had erupted less than 24 hours earlier among 150 prisoners of the Sumter Correctional Institution in Bushnell 100 miles to the south.

Bradford County Prison Superintendent Sidney Fortner said the knifing involved only white prisoners.

School Lunch Program Opposed For Fabricated Food Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some citizens groups and food professionals said today Agriculture Department plans to allow use of fabricated foods as substitutes in school breakfast and lunch programs could have an adverse effect on children's health.

Fifteen nutritionists, representing a coalition of objectors, said in a statement addressed to Herbert Rorex, director of the department's child nutrition division:

"We believe that the proposed foods could have serious adverse effects on the health of school children and would discourage children from developing proper eating habits."

New regulations proposed by the department in revising school breakfast programs are "a model for cost cutting at the expense of our children's health," the statement said. Fabricated foods are highly processed foods later enriched with vitamins and minerals lost through the process.

The statement said the nutritionists were "most concerned about the grain-fruit product that is proposed as a substitute for a real breakfast." This is a tart or cake, heavily fortified with vitamins and minerals and artifically flavored.

The nutritionists said the large amounts of sugar in the products can contribute to tooth decay. The only nutrients present, they said, are those added by the manufacturer while nutrients present in natural foods "are deficient in the grain-fruit product."

They said that while they "strongly endorse" federally-financed school food programs, "we demand that such programs promote good eating habits and not jeopardize the health of the children."

Among organizations endorsing the statement were the Food Research and Action Center, the Agribusiness Accountability Project, the Arkansas Community Organization for Reform Now, the Community Nutrition Institute, the Federation of Homemakers, the National Consumers League, and the National Sharecroppers Fund. A group of 29 food professionals also signed the statement as individuals.

WE'RE SURE PROUD OF OUR LITTLE CAR.

In Vega's first year, 1971, it was the Motor Trend Car of the Year. A singular honor, and the first of many.

Later that year, in the Car & Driver Readers' Choice poll, Vega was named "best economy sedan." It was the first time in the eight years of the poll that an American car had won in that category.

And in a nationwide survey of auto servicemen conducted by Motor Service and Service Station Management magazines Vega was considered to be the easiest subcompact to service.

Now, in 1973, two more big ones for our little one: Motor Trend named our Vega GT the Economy Car of the Year.

We appreciate all the honors, but we're really much more interested in your stamp of approval.

Please, stop by your local Chevy dealer's for a test drive.

See why we're so proud.

By JOAN LISETOR

Sometime next month the world famous Capt. Robert Dollar stained glass windows will be installed in the new building of the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael. Their true clarity and brilliance will be returned because of the efforts of a group of women who are members of the church.

The women are cleaning and refurbishing the windows, removing paint and putty and cleaning dirt that has collected since the windows were installed in the 1930s.

The windows are the work of the Harold W. Cummings. The women are working on the windows in Cummings' son's studio in San Rafael under the supervision of his wife, Judy, and Paul Dane.

According to Dane, who refers to the women as "Santa's Little Helpers," the volunteer effort is saving the church at least $1,000 and an astronomic number of hours. He and Mrs. Cummings have conducted on the job training sessions for the women.

"We were a little nervous at first," explained Mrs. C.W. Richardson, "but once Paul explained that the pieces bend in all directions and were delicate but strong, we relaxed."

The women have uncovered pieces, long buried under plaster, with beautiful pictures. They have completed one set or lancet of the windows. Three lancets comprise a window.

With at least one of the eight women working every day the windows should meet the contractor's deadline, Dane said.

RAINBOWS UNLIMITED

New Help For Retarded Children

PATRICK A. MALONE

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Michelle is a rosy-cheeked, pigtailed six-year-old who, six months ago, could not eat, dress herself or even play without help. Now she is learning to do all those things, thanks to a new program for the retarded.

Jeff, like Michelle, is considered "profoundly retarded," which means he has an IQ under 25 and theoretically is completely untrainable: incapable of learning the most basic skills to care for himself— feeding, dressing, toilet training. But Jeff, like Michelle, is learning.

Many if not most of the 250,000 Americans like Jeff and Michelle are institutionalized at an early age, abandoned by society as hopeless, to exist in often squalid, depressing surroundings.

A PROGRAM called "Rainbows Unlimited" is one answer to such neglect. It has brought together a group of nonprofessional volunteers who are attempting with a dozen children what many professionals refuse to try: Teaching the unteachable.

Rainbows founder Linda Weir was giving Jeff a speech lesson when a reporter looked in. Jeff is eight years old and cannot walk; he is an attractive, thin boy with shiny black hair. But his blue eyes looked clouded and confused, and his gangly frame was perched awkwardly on a straight-backed chair.

"Jeff, this is a ball. Say bbbaaalll."

"Bbuh."

"Yes, that's good," she said, handing him a bit of potato chip.

She explained to the visitor that even if Jeff makes only part of a sound, he is rewarded.

"Jeff, do this. Pot-tee."

"Grah."

"No," she said sharply, and turned her head away for a few seconds.

After a few more tries, Jeff began to lose interest in the lesson. Miss Weir let him crawl away.

"THE MAIN thing with these kids is controlling them, their attention span is so short," she noted. "Five months ago, you couldn't even get Jeff to look at you."

Michelle, like Jeff, cannot concentrate her gaze for more than a few seconds. Her vacant green eyes took in the visitor uncomprehendingly, then soon began wandering randomly about the small but cheerful room where she was about to take a lesson in dressing.

A woman volunteer—one is assigned to each child—held a bit of cookie in one hand, a metal embroidery hoop in the other. Michelle had to reach through the hoop to get the reward. It was the first step in the long, trying process of teaching Michelle to dress and undress herself.

The hoop was maneuvered so Michelle could only get to the cookie by going through the hoop. Then she had to take the hoop off, for which she was also rewarded.

WHILE JEFF and Michelle took their lessons, Rainbow's other students played in the school's main activities area, a spacious, well-lighted room adjoining the smaller lesson rooms.

It is not ordinary play. You do not hear the babble of normal children laughing and fighting. These sadly retarded children do not play together; they are wrapped up in their own cocoons of bewilderment. Their eyes roam as if endlessly searching for something they can recognize; their lips rarely move except to cry; their bodies wander aimlessly in a half stumbling gait or crawl.

When these children came to Rainbows at its founding late last year they could do nothing for themselves. Now, Miss Weir said, all are toilet-trained to varying degrees, they all can feed themselves, and each is learning at his own rate other skills so commonplace to ordinary humans.

THE METHOD is called operant conditioning, which, simply explained, is a way of changing behavior, or directing behavior in a certain direction, by positive and negative reinforcement of actions. It is based on the premise that you do not need to know why someone is abnormal before you can treat the abnormality.

"Let's face it," Miss Weir said. "Nobody's ever going to spend a lot of money on these kids. We can have programs with nonprofessionals if we have three things:

"One, the program has to be written so success is inherent with each child. In other words, you have to start with something he can do and then work up.

"Two, you have to put it into terms the child can understand and show him that it's worthwhile to learn it. He has to have an incentive.

"Three, you have to believe they can do it. Otherwise you could not work with these kids."

Critics have said that operant conditioning has been used to train apes to work puzzles. This, they have said, is no way to work with humans. Miss Weir replies with a simple pragmatism: Everyone else has given up, and, "It works, doesn't it?"

THE GOAL of Rainbows is to train retarded children to the point where others will become interested in them, to the point where they have enough skills to enter special education classes.

"There's this big Catch 22," Miss Weir said. "If a child does not have basic skills like toilet training and self-feeding, he can't get into training classes."

Miss Weir founded Rainbows Unlimited, Inc., a non-profit corporation, on the conviction that "institutions are not a 20th Century concept." Drawing on her own knowledge—she has a master's degree in education—and that of specialists in operant conditioning, she wrote the programs. With her own savings and the help of friends and her church the school was established in the basement of a church, five days a week, 3 ½ hours each day. Volunteers received 40 hours of training from professionals. About half were parents of retarded children, almost all were housewives.

The children were all referred to the program by others which had failed to teach them anything. Michelle, for example, was in a special program for three years and by the end of that time was judged to be at the level of a six-weeks-old baby. With the help of Rainbows, her horizons are brightening.

"For many years," Miss Weir said, "parents were told things like, 'Your child can walk but will never talk.' And parents will come to me and say, 'He can't even sit up.' Well, I tell them that's where we start teaching him.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

This Pisces Is Still A Skeptic Over Time For Cutting Of Hair

DEAR HELEN:

You should know more about a subject before you knock it!

"Hopeful" asked which days of the month are best to cut hair for maximum growth, according to the zodiac, and said she was a Libra. You answered, "And I'm a skeptic."

For your information: When the moon is in a water sign: Cancer, Scorpio or Pisces, hair should be cut to make it healthy; and for thicker hair, cut it when the moon is in opposition to the sun. — GEMINI

DEAR GEMINI:

Give me one good, scientific reason for your statement and this Pisces will stop signing herself — SKEPTIC

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a gay, a young woman who has many straight male friends, and it seems a few either don't know or won't accept where I stand. Sure, I enjoy going with them socially — I can be a much better friend to them than can most women. But how do I let them know I don't stand in the same shoes as the heterosexual female?

Men I meet are constantly asking for my number, for dates, etc. and I'm tired of always saying "I'm busy." I suppose I could start dressing in drag but I don't dig too much on role playing — it creates hassles in your head.

I work voluntarily on a gay switchboard hot line and have discovered this type of situation seldom if ever happens to any of my callers. Why me?

Don't suggest a psychiatrist. I've been out of the closet too long for that. — GAY AND PROUD

DEAR G AND P.:

Since you're out of the closet, seems to me the logical response to hopeful men would be, "I'm gay." No? Well then — A woman who doesn't enjoy male attention can turn off the sex appeal in a minute. A man doesn't usually ask a girl for a date unless he's had some encouragement. Thus, here's my slightly psychological guess: maybe you've come out of the wrong closet. Are you sure this life style you've chosen is for the rest of your life? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 26, divorced, and like my freedom. But I'd also like freedom of choice. Sleeping with every man I date isn't "freedom," but it's expected. If I go out with a fellow more than twice, he thinks I'm strange if I won't spend the night with him. What's more, all our friends assume we already have.

I don't feel that I know a man until I've been seeing him at least a month. But these days, you're pushed into sex before you're ready, then you stay together longer than you want because you dread being pushed into the next affair.

Does anyone have a solution for a woman who isn't anti-sex, but merely selection? — CARING COMES FIRST

DEAR CCF:

Have you ever tried telling men exactly that: you aren't anti-sex but merely selective . . . and "caring comes first?"

Too many young people (both men and women) think the New Morality says "You must!" when it really means, "You have freedom of choice."

I think most fellows worth waiting for won't mind waiting for your decision. Am I right, you modern singles? — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Independent-Journal.

Check Those Silent Leaks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Is a silent leak running up your water bill? A silent toilet leak can send thousands of gallons of water down the drain without anyone knowing it.

The people at the American Water Works Association say there is an easy way to find out if you have one.

They recommend putting a few drops of food coloring in the tank. If there is a leak, the color will appear in the toilet bowl. The trouble may be a worn out washer in the toilet's inlet valve, a discharge stopper that is defective or off-center, or an overflow pipe that has rotted at the base.

MONEY MATTERS

Stars Are Guide To Your Mailbox

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Do you just drop a letter in the nearest mailbox and hope for the best?

You can do better than that. You can help to speed your letter on its way by choosing the right mailbox.

All mailboxes may look alike, but today they are not. Some have a white star painted on them; some two white stars.

The difference? The latest collection from the one-star box is 5 p.m. The latest collection from the two-star box is 8 p.m.

If you're a late mailer, that's your box. But perhaps the one-star box is nearer. You don't know where to find the other one?

That's no excuse. The location of the nearest two-star box is in a printed notice on the one-star box.

IF YOU are mailing an airmail letter, you will, of course, look for the nearest white-topped "Airmail Only" box. The last collection from these boxes is listed as 4 p.m.

There is something new in this aspect of mail service. To supplement the regular airlines, which used to carry much of the mail, but which have cut out many of their night flights due to the decrease in passenger demand, the U.S. Postal Service has added its own air-taxi network.

These mail taxis are mostly propeller-driven craft, though there are some jets under contract to the post office. There are 167 of these planes in all. They fly among the major U.S. cities in hops of 600 miles or so.

With the addition of this service, it is possible for the Postal Service to promise delivery of airmail materials the next day within a 600-mile radius, provided the letter is properly zip-coded.

Although 4 p.m. is the stated time for the last pickup of airmail, there are some later collections occasionally to connect with flight schedules.

ANOTHER THING to remember in connection with airmail: Don't take it for granted that an airmail stamp is all you need on an airmail letter. With some 90 billion pieces of mail of various kinds flowing through the nation's post offices during the year, an airmail stamp may not be sufficiently conspicuous.

Use airmail stickers on both the front and the back of your letter. Or write the words in conspicuous lettering.

Also, in an emergency, you might want to take advantage of the "mailgram." This is a letter-telegram. All you have to do is call Western Union and give them the message.

It will be sent by teleprinter to the post office in the city of destination and delivered in a special envelope by the mailman the following day.

You have still another choice: You could try the new Express Mail service. Overnight delivery of letters or parcels is guaranteed. This service is used primarily by businesses, but anyone can take advantage of it.

That is, anyone who happens to be in any one of the 56 cities in which it is operating at the present time. Consult the post office for information.

If you want special handling of your mail, you have a choice of special delivery, certified mail, or registered mail.

SPECIAL DELIVERY does not mean fast delivery, as many assume. If your special delivery letter arrives in the post office at the time of a regular delivery, the postman will take it along with other mail.

If it arrives after the regular delivery, it will be taken to its destination by a special-delivery carrier.

Registered mail costs 95 cents, plus postage. This includes insurance up to $10,000. This mail moves slowly because it must be signed in and signed out at every point of handling. It is practically impossible to lose a registered item.

Certified mail costs 35 cents, plus postage. It does not afford the security of registered mail, but it gives you a return receipt from the receiver.

You can read all about this — and more — in the new booklet prepared by the consumer advocate for the U.S. Postal Service, Thomas Chadwick.

It is coming off the press soon and is free. It is called "Consumers' Guide to Postal Service." You may get a copy at your local post office or address your request to Consumer Advocate, U.S. Postal Service, Washington, D.C. 20260.

To speak Friday

Feminist Attorney To Speak On 'Women And The Media'

Florynce Kennedy, attorney and feminist, will speak on "Women and the Media," in a Women on the Move sponsored program at Redwood High School Friday.

The 8:30 p.m. talk will be held at the Redwood gymnasium.

The outspoken Flo Kennedy has been active in the black and feminist movements and was one of the founding members of the National Organization for Women. Last year she founded the National Feminist Party. Currently living in San Francisco, she is outspokenly critical of the media and medical care in terms of women and minority peoples. She is nationally noted for such comments as, "Being a mother is a noble status, right? So why does it change when you put 'unwed' or 'welfare' in front of it?"

Tickets for the talk are available from the Redwood High School box office and at the door.

A LOW HEART

West Opened the deuce of hearts, and East won with the king. East saw that he couldn't safely continue hearts and that he couldn't safely continue hearts and that he couldn't safely shift to either clubs or diamonds. The only safe play was his singleton trump, and East promptly led this.

South noticed the momentary hesitation and read it for what it was. He therefore planned his play on the assumption that East had all of the missing high cards.

Declarer won the second trick with a high trump and led a club toward dummy. West properly played low, and South finessed with dummy's ten.

EAST'S ONLY HOPE

East won with the jack of clubs and looked for a way out. It was obviously fatal to lead clubs or diamonds, so East led the ace of hearts as his only hope.

Declarer ruffed in dummy, returned to his hand with a trump and discarded dummy's low club on the queen of hearts. Now South led his last club and played dummy's last club, the king.

NO ESCAPE

East had to take the ace of clubs, and this time there was no escape. If East returned a diamond, dummy would get a free finesse. If East returned a club or a heart, dummy would ruff while South discarded his losing diamond. South was sure to make his game contract no matter what East did.

Ballet In Strong, Lively Conclusion

By MARIE RAMEAU

The eighth annual Pacific Regional Ballet Festival, hosted this year by Marin Civic Ballet, came to a strong and lively conclusion in a gala performance Saturday evening at the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, San Rafael.

After several days of workshop performances, master classes and concerts, the gala event gave the nine participating companies a chance to display the best of their repertoires.

Strongest among these were Marin Civic Ballet and Laguna Beach Civic Ballet in "Brahms Waltzes, Opus 39" and "Variations on a Theme by Haydn" respectively.

The "Brahms Waltzs," with choreography by Charles Weidman and dedicated to the famous modern dancer Doris Humphery, is a difficult and challenging work for the best of companies, not only musically but stylistically, and Marin Civic Ballet rendered it with strength, joy and confidence. Yet, sometimes I got the feeling I was "watching ballet dancers do modern," for it is expecting a lot of a ballet-trained dancer to make an immediate and total transition to a thoroughly modern work and a radically different way of moving.

"Variations on a Theme by Haydn" was an abstract ballet with choreography by Lila Zali to music of Brahms and enhanced by succulent lime-green chiffon tunics. It consisted of some very tricky ballet movements sometimes requiring an incredible speed on the part of the dancer. This ballet gave the Laguna Beach company a chance to demonstrate its technical strength, particularly in the pas de deux sections, and the effect was at times brilliant.

"Russian Masque," presented by the Sacramento Ballet to music of Khatchaturian, was not particularly Russian in either style or content. (In fact, it was not "Russian" at all.) From point of view of both music and lustrous red and gold costumes, it could have been one of the strongest works of the evening, but choreographically it was about the weakest. It abounded in choreographic cliches which reminded me of some rather boring classroom exercises, and the dancers lacked lightness and ease in its performance. But if a choreographer takes a heavy-handed approach to his ballet, can we expect his dancers to be airborne?

Other companies participating in the program were the Dorothy Fisher Concert Dancers in "Songs Along the River"; Ballet Tacoma in "Offering"; The Cornish Ballet in "A Remembrance"; San Joaquin Concert Ballet in "Blue is the Color of My True Love's Bag"; Peninsula Theatre Ballet in "Roundabout"; and Tacoma Performing Dance Company in "Paganinianna."

MUSIC REVIEW

By MARTIN FRICK

When two consummately musical artists who have performed together for 26 years put on a concert, one can expect completely satisfying results. When they are performing works that they have undoubtedly played together several times during their long association, always bringing new experiences and fresh insights, the result is thrilling, as it was last night when cellist Gabor Rejto and pianist Adolph Baller teamed up in Dominican College's Angelico Hall.

The first half of the program consisted of two Beethoven sonatas composed 20 years apart. The first, Sonata in F Major, Opus 5, already established Beethoven's preference for motives over themes, and last night's duo made the most of that motivic interplay.

In the adagio introduction it is the cellist's eloquent statements that are spotlighted, but they are woven into the texture of the piano. The allegro which follows gives the piano center stage, but the piano is ornamented with the cello's scattered statements, which were phrased perfectly by Rejto.

Beethoven's greater assurance in composing for the cello is apparent in the Sonata in D Major, Opus 102, thus giving more complexity and freedom to both instruments. The finale begins as a Bachian fugue which soon goes unmistakably Beethovian by its greater concern with developing the motivic material, and the duo sent it soaring through the smooth scale patterns to the climax.

The ethereal second movement which had preceded it (Adagio con molto sentimento d'affetto — the classical period now definitely in the past) was introduced by the cello singing the melody for the only time. Hereafter, both cello and piano blended again as a sensitive duet. There was not a cut-off or delicate attack that was not special last night.

Zoltan Kodaly's Sonata, Opus 4 was a pleasant change after intermission. The composer's roots in Hungarian folk music were instantly recognizable in the cello's melody built on a series of fourths together with the sympathetic rubato executed by the artists in the rather improvisational.

Following two Beethoven sonatas and a Kodaly with one by Brahms seemed an unwise choice. But the Sonata in F Major, Opus 99 was played with such lyricism and true style (the three allegro movements — vivace, passionato, moltoso thoroughly distinguished one from the other) that one got a second wind and became enraptured with the master composer of chamber music.

The too-small audience brought Rejto and Baller back to play yet another Beethoven, his Seven Variations on a Theme from Mozart's Magic Flute, which was just the right light touch to end the evening.

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

In a tribute to Mother's Day, the Dominican College Chorus, under the direction of Winifred Baker, presented an afternoon concert at Angelico Hall Sunday. Featured as soloist was soprano Gwen Curatilo; selections included the music of Palestrina, Purcell, Bach, Mozart, Haydn and Ludwig Altman.

The piece de resistance for the afternoon was an inspired interpretation of Purcell's only opera, "Dido and Aeneas." Miss Curatilo was eloquent as Dido; her pure tone and flawless intonation equalling her ability to project the emotional qualities inherent in the role. Extremely moving was her "Thy Hand Belinda," — one of the most beautiful farewell laments ever written.

Sharing in the perfection of the performance of this work were all the exceptionally fine student soloists. Toni Mehocich as Belinda, Kate Rowland as the Sorceress and Martin Frick as the Sailor, were particularly outstanding. Narrator John Savant supplied the continuity of the story line. Bouquets to chorus and all!

Uneven tempos and wrong notes from the organ marred the opening piece, selections from Bach's Cantata "Sleepers Wake!" The highly melodic duet, "My Friend is Thine," sung by Miss Curatilo and Clay Roni with accompanists Winifred Baker on harpsichord, and Mark Jordan on violin, was well-executed, and Bach's eternal optimism shone through in the choruses.

Although the use of female voices to fill out the tenor section lent an unequal balance which took some getting used to, Miss Baker managed to overcome such handicaps with a lively conducting style.

Haydn's Missa Brevis made for an overlong first half, but with Joyce Conklin on harpsichord the organ was kept in steady rhythm. Shifts from slow to fast meters were smooth and dynamic levels were varied effectively. The tendency for tones to sag in quiet moments was happily absent in the lovely soprano choral passages in the "Dona Nobis Paces."

Attendance — with a fair number of mothers present — was well over 100. The new acoustics and the promise of some upholstered seats should aid in Angelico's popularity.

Priest Shot After Church Is Robbed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Roman Catholic priest was found shot to death in the rectory of his church today, the apparent victim of a robbery of the Sunday collection money, police reported.

The victim, Father John Conlon, 47, of St. Bonaventure's rectory in Queens, was found lying on the floor of the basement office shortly after midnight by two fellow priests, police said. He had been shot in the chest and arms and was pronounced dead at the scene.

Noted Writer Dies At 86

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frances Marion, America's first woman war correspondent who later became an Oscar-winning screenwriter, writing most of the silent films of Rudolph Valentino, Mary Pickford and Greta Garbo, has died at the age of 86.

Miss Marion, whose illustrious writing career included two Oscars, died Saturday at Good Samaritan Hospital following a brief illness.

Considered the dean of Hollywood screenwriters during the late 1920s and 30s, Miss Marion wrote 136 films, including Garbo's first talkie, "Anna Christie." Her other best known films included "Dinner At Eight," and "Stella Dallas."

Yablonski Given Humanist Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joseph A. Yablonski, slain several years ago after opposing incumbent W. A. "Tony" Boyle for the presidency of the United Mine Workers of America, today was awarded posthumously the 1973 Ethical Humanist Award by the New York Society for Ethical Culture.

The award was accepted by his son, Joseph "Chip" Yablonski.

Group May Oust John Ehrlichman

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — No one has ever been removed from Santa Monica High School's illustrious Hall of Fame, whose members include actor Glen Ford, actress Nan Martin, former Olympic shot putter Parry O'Brien and professional football player R. C. Owens.

But a move is underway today to unseat another of the school's hall of famer's—former presidential aide John Ehrlichman, a 1942 graduate, who resigned his White House post last month.

Last week, the school's student body council passed a proposal that the Hall of Fame Committee look into the possibility of removing Ehrlichman's name from the roll.

No Beatle Return

LONDON (UPI) — The Beatles will not reunite, former group member Paul McCartney said yesterday. "There is not going to be a reunion," he said at the opening of his first British tour with his new group Wings. "We might do things for each other, or with each other, but there will be no comeback."

Watergate Probe Pick Due Soon?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elliot L. Richardson testified today that the White House passed him "two or three names" of possible choices for special Watergate prosecutor but that he had not included them in his list of four finalists.

He indicated he might select the prosecutor by tomorrow.

On the third day of Senate hearings on his nomination to be attorney general, Richardson was asked by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., whether he had consulted with President Nixon or the White House in his search for a special prosecutor.

"No," Richardson said. Then he added: "They passed me two or three names which they asked me to consider."

Richardson was not asked nor did he say who passed him the names or how it was done.

attorney general two weeks ago by Nixon and given "full authority" over the investigation of the Watergate scandal. In response to congressional demand, Richardson said he would name a special prosecutor and give him "complete authority" over all Watergate matters.

Thomasson said Tyler, a former assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's civil rights division under President Eisenhower, was in Washington Sunday, apparently discussing the matter with Richardson.

The naming of the prosecutor and the guidelines under which he would operate were the key issues in what would otherwise have been quick and routine approval of Richardson, who would be serving in his third cabinet post.

A number of senators have said they want to know who the prosecutor will be before they confirm Richardson.

Balloon Race Takes Zany Twists In Chesapeake Bay Competition

ROCK HALL, Md. (UPI) — Eight pilots with a love for the unexpected Saturday completed man's first crossing of the Chesapeake Bay by hot-air balloon.

Two others proved the aeronautical principle that balloons fly wherever the wind takes them—one landing inside a 16-foot motor boat in the middle of the bay, the other touching down at an Army arsenal 25 miles north of the starting point.

The huge, propane-heated spheroids lifted off at Sandy Point State Park on the western side of the 18-mile-wide waterway and headed northeast for Maryland's rural eastern shore in the first annual Great Preakness Festival Balloon Race.

Robert L. Waligunda, 27, of Princeton, N.J., guided "America" across the bay in 25 minutes, the fastest time, touching down in a freshly plowed corn field.

All eight successful balloons landed within four miles of Rock Hall (pop. 483) with curious residents running from houses and hopping off tractors with waves, smiles and scores of puzzled looks.

"We chased you through two corn fields," Joey Van Sant said when the 13 year-old boy and a companion reached pilot Harry Repak of New York City and "Odessy" when it touched down in a patch of clover.

Race officials said P.E. "Ed" Yost of Sioux Falls, S.D., made the first boat landing in aeronautical history when he ran out of air in the middle of the bay.

"I'm running out of fuel. Throw me a rope," Yost yelled to chase boat skipper Louis Davenport. The balloon softly touched down inside the boat at matched speeds of 35 miles per hour.

Winds shifting toward the northwest carried balloonists Jerry Melsha of Brandon, S.C. back toward the western shore, forcing him to land on the beach at the U.S. Army's Edgewood Arsenal, 25 miles north of the destination.

"We don't care who wins," yelled Repak to a companion high above the bay, "We just want to have some fun, give the sponsors their money's worth and show people what balloons are like."

The race kicked off a week of activity's leading up to the 98th running of the Preakness at Baltimore's Pimlico race course May 19.

Rep. Ashley Is Given Release

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, was released from the city workhouse yesterday after serving 39 hours of a three-day sentence for having physical control of his car while intoxicated and resisting arrest.

Ashley, 50, a congressman for 19 years, was arrested when a policeman found him slumped over the wheel of his car. He began swinging at the officer when the patrolman opened the car's door.

"I'm a citizen who made a mistake and I'm a citizen who is going to be treated like any other citizen who made a mistake," Ashley said before going to jail. "We have one system of justice in this country—treat everyone equally."

Sonoma Board Faces Deadlock

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors will attempt to resolve a deadlock on the Sonoma State College area master plan at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the county administration center in Santa Rosa.

A month ago the board deadlocked on a 2-2 vote on setting future density for nearly 8,000 acres around the campus. Supervisor Robert Theiller, who owns property in the area, asked for a ruling from the county counsel's office on whether he can vote on the issue tomorrow if his land is exempted.

Planners Schedule Special Meeting

The Novato Planning Commission will have a special session to review the Novato general plan at 8 p.m. today at the Novato community house.

Commissioners will discuss changes in the general plan and land use designations on the general plan map made by the Novato City Council.

Give your cigarette an eye test.

If you see things such as loose ends, wrinkles, slits and tears, you can expect uneven burning, hot spots, poor draw and other nuisances that can steal from the taste of your cigarette.

If this happens all too often with your cigarette, you ought to switch to Kent.

Kent is probably the most imperfection-free brand made.

Because it's probably the most quality-tested cigarette made. (Over 200 different quality checks in the manufacturing end, alone.)

It's Bad Timing On Giants' Part

It seems the Giants wait until they draw their largest crowes before playing their worst baseball. They drew 31,626 yesterday at Candlestick Park and promptly lost, 15-3, to the hated Dodgers.

When the Giants lost a Sunday doubleheader to the visiting Cincinnati Reds April 15, by scores of 11-0 (ow!) and 7-3, there were 27,651 poor souls to witness it. At least the paying customers who watched yesterday's game came out of it with something to cover their heads since it was cap day.

THE GIANTS save their best games for the days three and four thousand wander into the ballpark. Owner Horace Stoneham would much rather have it the other way. The faithful followers who comprise the lonely gathering on the nights when 3,500 show up are going to be there, win or lose. It's the marginal group which makes up much of the crowd when it reaches figures of 30,000 and more. After seeing a game like yesterday's, it might be a few days before they return to the scene of the disaster.

Some circles have placed the blame of low attendance at Giant games on the hooliganism which was going on the past few years at Candlestick. Since some adverse publicity in the Bay Area press detailed some of the daylight muggings, the club has taken steps to put an end to the troubles.

According to Donald Foreman, the man in charge of stadium operations for the Giants, things are now running smoothly. It is amazing what the mere presence of regular policemen can do.

IN THE PAST all the crowd control at Candlestick was carried out by the Burns Agency, with members of the San Francisco Police outside the walls. Since the trouble caused by roaming bands of kids came to the fore, methods have been changed. Now there are uniformed members of San Francisco's finest roaming around inside the stadium during games, to help the Burns people. You and I know, a real honest-to-goodness cop has much more effect on a lawbreaker, or a potential lawbreaker, than a security guard. During the homestand just completed, there was no trouble reported.

"We haven't had any problems since the San Francisco Police started patroling," said Foreman. He added that a report was to be made by the police covering the 12-day homestand in which the beefed up detail was on duty. Foreman didn't want to jump to any conclusions just yet, but it was obvious he felt the improved situation at the old ball park was going to last.

OWNER STONEHAM is the last person who wants a stadium which is not safe for the customers to bring their families. Oldtimers in the organization point out that was one of the major reasons, along with lagging attendance, he left New York for the greener pastures of the west coast. The neighborhood surrounding the Polo

Bradley To Pitch Tonight

Combined AP & UPI

SAN DIEGO — The San Francisco Giants, hoping for some pitching help following their worst week of the season, will be keeping a close watch on right-hander Tom Bradley here tonight. At 7:30 the game will be televised on Channel 2.

Bradley, who has not pitched since being struck on the right ankle by a batted ball April 17, brings a 2-1 record into action for the start of a three-game series with the San Diego Padres.

The Giants could use some additional pitching following a 3-3 standoff with the Dodgers and Cardinals at Candlestick Park last week, including a 20-hit, 15-3 drubbing by Los Angeles Sunday.

During the three-game series, won by the surging Dodgers 2-1, ace reliever Randy Moffitt injured his left knee and second baseman Tito Fuentes jammed his thumb-both during the Giants' 4-3 victory Saturday.

"Having Bradley back could give us a big bost," said Giants' manager Charlie Fox. "I hope that Tito and Randy can be back soon also, and I'm hoping to get six or seven innings out of Bradley tonight."

The Dodgers Sunday erupted for nine runs in the fourth inning, a National League season high, making it a breeze for right-hander Andy Messersmith, 3-3, over Jim Barr, 4-3.

Joe Ferguson and Dave Lopes each had three runs batted in during the nine-hit inning, Ferguson with a three-run homer and Lopes with a two-run homer and a single. Ferguson's homer was his seventh, while Lopes' was his first in the majors.

Ferguson added a run scoring single in the seventh, giving him a share of the League RBI lead with 27.

"I'm just a guy trying to keep the ball in play and when I hit a homer, it comes as a bonus," Ferguson said.

Willie Davis added four hits and four runs scored, with Ron Cey contributing four hits and five RBIs.

"It's the first time I've had four RBI's in a game," said Ferguson. "But I don't care how many I get — it's when I get them that counts. I'm just happy I'm helping this team win."

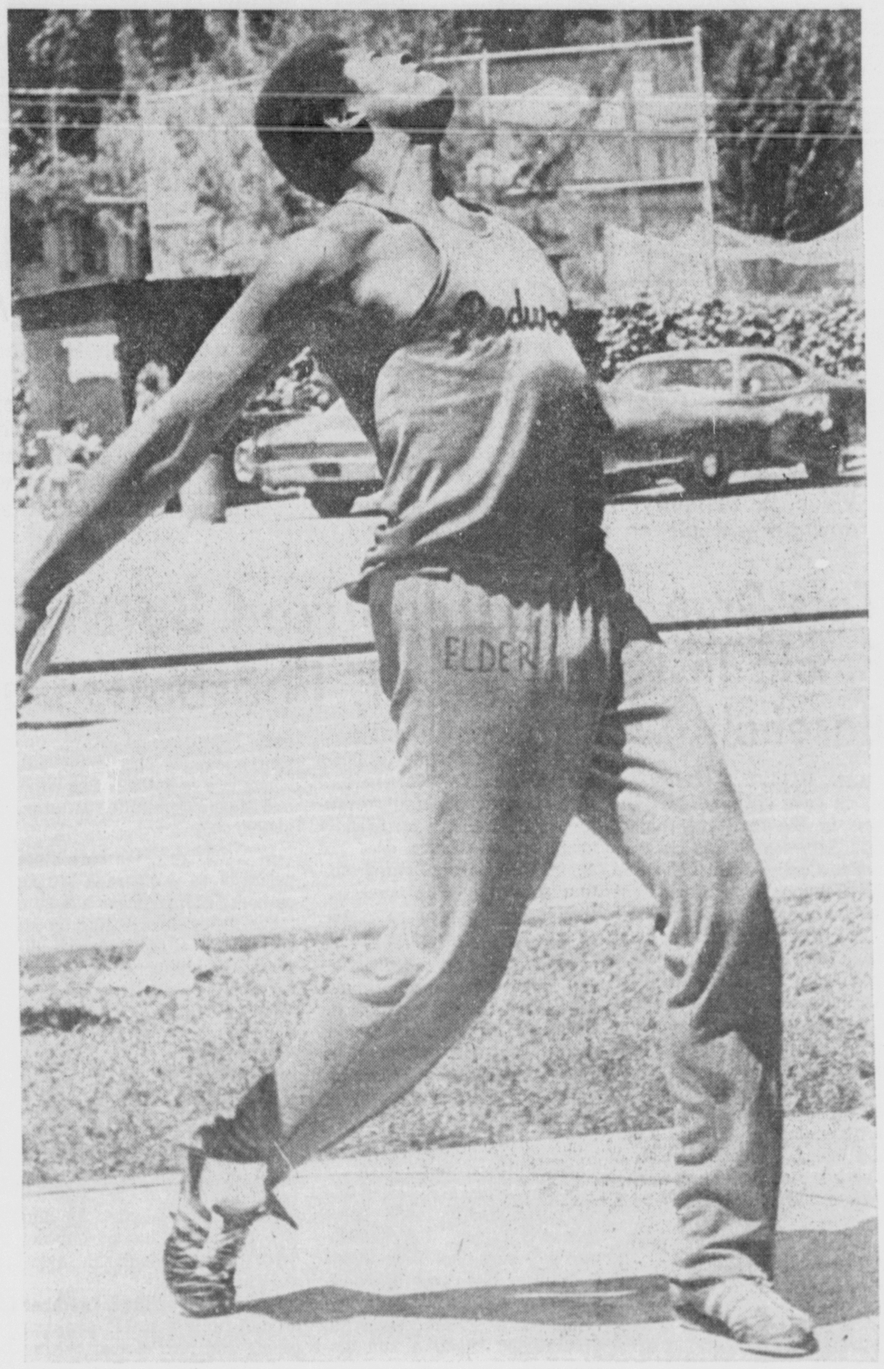
Elder Breaks Prep Discus Mark



RECORD-SETTER — Darrell Elder of Redwood High School Saturday set the Marin County Athletic League record for the discus, 161-7, in the league finals at Tamalpais High School. It broke his own mark of 159-9 set in the league trials Tuesday.

Redwood Star Wins 2 Events In Track

Darrell Elder broke his own Marin County Athletic League discus record Saturday with a toss of 161-7 to highlight an otherwise lackluster day in the MCAL track and field finals at Tamalpais High School. He smashed his own mark of 159-9 set last Tuesday in trials at Tam.

Redwood's Elder (shot and discus) and Larry Butti of San Marin (440 and triple jump) were the day's only varsity double winners. Curtis Finley, a Redwood junior, became his school's first sprinter to win the 100-yard dash in 10 years, while Gary Lathrop avenged his only loss of the year in the mile, to Brian Tracy of Redwood with a first place, at 4:27.1.

San Marin, MCAL dual meet champion, dominated the non-scoring meet with 21 placers, including five firsts and victories in both relays. The top four finishers in each varsity and Class B event advance to the North Coast Section II meet Friday at Santa Rosa Junior College.

San Marin's Jeff Metteer broke a two-year-old 440 record with a time of 51.8 in Class B action. Terra Linda's mile relay team broke its own school's MCAL record set in 1970, at 3:31.9.

The girls track teams displayed tremendous improvement by breaking all but two league records in the running events. Joanne Dunlap of Nova-

Morrill, Strange Win In Swim Meet

SANTA ROSA — Art Morrill beat two records and Keith Strange beat a record-breaker to capture first places Saturday in the North Coast Section swimming championships at the Santa Rosa Swim Center.

Morrill, from San Marin High School, won the Class B 100-yard individual medley in 55.10 and the 400 free in 3:51.39 for two records. Strange, from Terra Linda, won the varsity 200 breaststroke in 1:01.74 and beat record-setter Jim Helm of Las Lomas of Walnut Creek in the process.

Morrill's 55.10 shattered the record set in 1969 by Jim Barrett of Santa Rosa, while his 3:51.39 nipped the mark of 3:51.7 set in 1971 by Terra Linda's Olympian-to-be, Rick DeMont.

Strange's performance was below the mark of 1:02.6 set last year by Helm, but Helm cut it even lower, 1:01.56, in Friday's trials before finishing second to Strange Saturday.

Terra Linda finished fifth in the varsity team standings with 75 points, as Ygnacio Valley of Concord won with 197. Ygnacio Valley also won Class B with 179, while Terra Linda was

Riggs Proves He Is 'Fast Eddie'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Riggs, 55, short and with an extra bulge here and there, forced 30-year old Margaret Court into a game suited just for him and beat the winner of $82,550 this year on the women's circuit, 6-2, 6-1, in the so-called "Tennis Battle of the Sexes" at Ramona, Calif.

The nationally-televised match, which brought $20,000 to Riggs and $10,000 to Mrs. Court, never was much of a contest as Riggs, who is a tennis court legend for hustling games while playing with chairs on his side of the net or holding an umbrella in his hand or wearing galoshes, set the tempo of the match early and held the momentum throughout.

Mrs. Court, for no apparent reason, refused to take advantage of her superior net play and, when she remained near the baseline, played right into the hands of Riggs, who is considered among the finest volleying players.

Riggs exhibited considerable court-sense and relied on sure, steady placements to defeat Mrs. Court, who later admitted, "I missed a lot of easy shots I don't usually miss."

"I'd like to tour the world and play all the women," said Riggs, who's come a long way,

Fast Field In '500' Car Race

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — They missed the much-sought 200 miles per hour lap at the ancient Indianapolis Motor Speedway by an eyelash but a super fast field for the $1 million Memorial Day "500" was virtually complete today.

Johnny Rutherford, a Texan from Fort Worth who has never finished among the top 10, became the fastest pole winner ever by hurling his orange-colored, British-made McLaren around the famed 2 ½-mile oval Saturday at an average speed of 198.413 m.p.h.

Twenty-four cars qualified on the initial day of the trials and six more made it Sunday, leaving just three spots to be filled next weekend for the 33- car race day lineup two weeks from today.

The field averages 192.572 m.p.h., 8.5 miles faster than last yearm

Saturday's trials also claimed the life of racing grandfather Art Pollard in a fiery practice crash, the 34th driver to be killed at the Speedway.

Bobby Unser, last year's pole winner, defending "500" king Mark Donohue and Dave "Swede" Savage also smashed Unser's 1972 four-lap qualifying record, with Rutherford recording the best lap of 199.071 for still another record.

Unser's 1972 marks were 196.678 and 195.940 for one and four laps respectively.

Unser averaged 198.183, missing Rutherford's record by 21-one-hundreths of a second while Donohue was clocked at 197.412. Those three make up the front row of the flying start of the 200-lap chase May 28. Savage was clocked at 196.582, only the second time he has qualified here.

Saturday's other qualifiers in order of their speeds were Gary Bettenhausen 195.599, Mario Andretti 195.059, Steve Krisiloff 194.932, Al Unser 194.879, Jimmy Caruthers 194.217, Peter Revson 192.606, Gordon Johncock 192.555 and Bobby Allison 192.308. Also Graham McRae 192.031, Roger McCluskey 191.928, Lloyd Ruby 191.622, Bill Vukovich 191.103, Dave "Salt" Walther 190.739, Jerry Grant 190.235, Mel Kenyon 190.225, Wally Dallenbachn 190.194, Mike Mosley 189.753, David Hobbs 189.454, A.J. Foyt 188.927 and Sam Posey 187.921.

Pollard, of Medford, Ore., crashed to his death one week after observing his 46th birthday. In full view of thousands of fans who jammed the stands and the infield, his new Dan Gurney-Eagle swerved into the wall at great speed, burst into flames, became airborne and disintegrated. He was pronounced dead about one hour later in Methodist Hospital of head and other injuries and flame inhalation.

"The car simply exploded in a ball of flame and flying parts," said one witness.

"When I came out of the pits and saw the marks on the wall I thought of Art but I had to go on and qualify," Rutherford said. He eulogized Pollard as a "great gentleman and a great race driver."

Memorial services for Pollard will be held here tonight.

Allison, McRae and Karl qualified for their first race here and McRae from New Zealand, and Hobbs, from England, are the only foreigners in the lineup.

The two Unsers, three-time champion Foyt, Andretti and Donohue are the former race winners who qualified.

Leonard, USAC's national driving champion the past two years, qualified one of the Vel's-Parnelli Jones team cars on his third and final attempt. Foyt and Martin made it on their second tries.

All but four of the 30 qualified cars are powered by four-cylinder, turbocharged Drake-Offenhauser engines. Cars driven by Foyt, Kenyon and Simon have eight-cylinder Foyts. Karl is driving a turbocharged Chevrolet.

STRUCK BY A 'COLUMN OF FIRE'

Catcher Fred Grover attempted to lend assistance to pitcher John Wade after the latter was struck by a bolt of lightning described as "a column of fire two feet wide," in a semi-pro baseball game in Lake Havasu City, Ariz., yesterday. The bolt killed Wade, 19, instantly, then forked out, knocking down every player in the field. At right, shortstop Bob Hormann tried to struggle to his feet. Hormann, 33, and second baseman Herbert Noye, 21, were reported in critical condition at a local hospital. The bolt struck Wade, of the newly-formed Lake Havasu City team, just as he was winding up to pitch to a batter from the Blythe, Calif., team. (UPI Telephoto)

Tars Drop Finale In Baseball

SAN PABLO — College of Marin gave up three unearned runs in the final two innings here Saturday to sustain a 6-5 loss to Contra Costa College in the Camino Norte Conference baseball finale for both clubs.

The Tars dropped their final six games in the conference to finish with a 9-12 record, placing them seventh in the eight-team league, but only one game out of a tie for third. Their overall record was 13-16.

John Billings and Greg Purcell hit doubles in the four-run fourth inning for Marin as the Tars took a 4-2 lead which they later hiked to 5-2. Purcell was two for two and Marty Larsen three for three for Marin.

"I feel sorry for (losing pitcher) Tim Bryan," said Tar coach Vic Petreshene. Bryan struck out nine and allowed two earned runs.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The day of betting on baseball, football and basketball with your friendly state government rather than your friendly neighborhood bookie does not appear to be in the offing anytime soon.

But according to an Associated Press survey, cracks are beginning to show in legislative and other barriers that have prevented legal betting on sports other than horse racing, dog racing and jai-alai. The lone exception is Nevada, where anything in the way of gambling goes.

However, opposition elsewhere still is strong.

In Massachusetts, a state that has parimutuel betting on horse and dog racing, the Legislature's Government Regulations Committee has given a favorable report to a bill which would establish a Public Wagering Commission. Such a commission would assume all functions of the present State Lottery Commission and would also allow "sports card" betting similar to the popular but illegal football pool sheets.

The committee has estimated that a "fully developed" sports betting program would net the state $60 million a year on an annual volume of almost $200 million.

However, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and representatives of the National Football League and other pro sports leagues oppose the bill, which now is in the House Ways and Means Committee awaiting action.

In New York, the only state where there is off-track betting on horse racing, there also is a move to legalize betting on all sports. One of the strongest all-sports gambling advocates is Howard Samuels, the head of New York City's Off-Track Betting Corp.

The Rhode Island Legislature recently failed to pass proposals that would allow a lottery, off-track betting, dog racing and sports-card betting. However, it did pass a bill allowing a referendum on the legalization of jai-alai in Newport. Jai-alai is a game that has parimutuel betting and is popular in several Florida cities.

Besides revealing a number of non-racing states seeking racing and pari-mutuel betting and racing states trying to get off-track betting, the survey also revealed:

Montana. The voters for the first time have given the Legislature the power to enact gambling legislation. In a recent session the Legislature put on the shelf until 1974 10 gaming bills that run the gamut from wide-open gambling to none at all. A series of public hearings is scheduled to try to gauge public sentiment on gambling.

Wisconsin. Democratic State Sen., Ronald Parys of Milwaukee has authored a proposed constitutional amendment which would eliminate the present ban against the Legislature authorizing betting on sporting events.

Connecticut. An effort to permit betting on all professional sports was defeated. The state already has a law authorizing off-track betting although it has no horse racing.

Iowa. The Senate has passed a bill that legalizes bingo, lotteries and fair and carnival games and has a section that allows casual gambling between friends, such as with World Series pools. The House must act on the measure. Legislative leaders also have committed themselves to a study committee on parimutuel betting.

Siebert Whips A's, Leaves Doghouse

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Sonny Siebert feels he was in the doghouse in Boston but he's the king of the hill with the Texas Rangers. At least he was Sunday night.

The Rangers recently obtained Siebert from the Red Sox for a minor league player and some of owner Bob Short's cash. At the time Siebert had thrown only 2 1-3 innings in relief for Boston this season.

But Texas, in woeful need of some pitching assistance, liked his looks in his first effort against the Oakland A's, which resulted in a 7-2 Ranger victory.

Siebert only went five innings because of Manager Whitey Herzog's concern that a long stint might be damaging to his arm. In those five innings Siebert gave up three hits, walked two and struck out three. Most important, he did not give up a run to the A's, who three nights before had exploded for 17 runs against Texas.

And because Texas came up with a plentiful number of runs against Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Siebert was able to record a win in his first start for the Rangers.

"At first they thought they would use me in relief," said Siebert. "But they decided to start me and I'm glad. I haven't started since about last Sept. 1."

Siebert loaded the bases in the first by giving up two singles and a walk but worked his way out of that jam and for the next four innings gave up only one base hit and one walk.

"My arm might be sore tomorrow. But I might have been able to go all the way tonight."

To back Siebert the Rangers came up with an 11-hit attack against four A's pitchers.

Vic Harris drove in three runs with a single in the fourth and a triple in the eighth and went 3-for-5. Jeff Burroughs hit a two-run homer in the fifth, his sixth of the year.

Oakland's two runs came in the sixth on a single by Joe Rudi, a double by Reggie Jackson and an infield out.

Mets' Mays On Disabled List

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — Willie Mays was placed on the 15-day disabled list Sunday for the first time in his distinquished major league career but the veteran outfielder, who ranks third on the all-time list for career homers, isn't through yet.

The New York Mets announced the move while restoring John Milner to the active list. Milner leads the Mets in home runs this season with five.

Mays, who celebrated his 42nd birthday last week, injured his right shoulder while making a throw to the infield. Doctors have informed the club that all his shoulder needs is a little rest. Mays, right behind Babe Ruth and Hank Aaron in the all-time home run derby, wants to come back and play, and fully intends to. Most likely he will, but the question is in how long a period of time.

Exactly one year ago today Mays made his debut in a Met uniform and slammed a game-winning home run against his former teammates as New York downed the San Francisco Giants, 5-4.

If Mays were to decide to step down as an active player and assume coaching responsibilities with the club, he would continue to receive his full salary under the terms of the new player-management union contract. The contract states that a player released 30 days into the season is entitled to his entire salary.

Auto Racing

PALERMO, Sicily — A Porsche Carrera driven by Herbet Muller of Switzerland and Gijs Van Lennep of Holland outlasted its favored Ferrari and Alfa Romeo competitors Sunday to win the accident-plagued 57th edition of Italy's Targa Flourio Auto Race.

The two drivers covered the 11 laps of the torturous and rain-wet 20 mile mountain circuit in six hours, 54 minutes and 19.9 seconds. Their average speed over the 550 miles race was 100 miles per hour.

Second was a Lancia Stratos driver by Sandro Munari of Italy and J.C. Andruet of France in 7:00:30.5.

Track-Field

Hockey

CHICAGO — The Chicago Black Hawks traded goalie Gary Smith and left winger Jerry Korab to the Vancouver Canucks Sunday night for center Dale Tallon.

Golf

TOWSON, Md. — Judy Rankin fired an even par 73 to win the $30,000 Lady Carling Golf Open Sunday by four strokes over runnerup Sandra Haynie.

Mrs. Rankin, who won the Raleigh Classic last week, posted rounds of 75, 67, and 73 for a winning 215 total.

Tennis

TOKYO — Billie Jean King, Long Beach, Calif., Sunday defeated Nancy Gunter, San Angelo, Tex., 7-6, 5-7, 6-3 to capture the top prize of $8,400 in the Toray-Sillook Women's Professional Tennis Tournament.

That lovely vision is not a mirage. It is a very real Porsche 914.

There are two trunks to hold everything you and somebody else might need.

The Desert Porsche

The 914 has a 5-speed gearbox to make you go like the wind.

It handles like a thoroughbred, praise be to rack-and-pinion steering and a nearly 50-50 weight distribution. (The engine is in the middle.)

And while it's chic to drive a Porsche, you don't have to be a sheik to afford one.

Winkles Happy With Pitchers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

California manager Bobby Winkles says the Angels "have four pitchers, each capable of winning 20 games." So far he's got three pitchers pointed in that direction and if Clyde Wright can straighten himself out, the Angels just might be pennant contenders.

Rudy May became the third California starter to win four games this year Sunday (Bill Singer is 5-1 while Nolan Ryan is 4-3) but May seems determined to really earn his victories.

May's fourth triumph in six decisions was also his fourth shutout, tops in the majors, and Sunday's victim was against no less fearsome a team than the AL West Division-leading Chicago White Sox, who entered the game batting an incredible .291.

May, who owns a sparkling 1.60 ERA, limited Chicago to just six hits, three by heavyhitting Dick Allen.

"I'm hoping to win 20 and I should," May said. "I've been on a losing club all my life and it was no fun. It's a completely different attitude on the club now. Before the players' attitude was bad and the fans didn't come out. Now we've got some players with a lot of hustle and fight. I want to do my part."

California batters are hitting a respectable .245 but when the competition is batting 20-45 points higher, as Oakland, Kansas City and Chicago are doing, the Angels have had to rely on their pitchers more.

Vada Pinson and Jim Spencer provided the batting punch for the Angels Sunday in their second straight win over the White Sox after Chicago won 12 of its previous 13 games.

Pinson collected three singles, drove in a run and scored another. Spencer rapped his first home run, a solo shot, since April 24, 1972.

In other American League action Sunday, the East Division remained a wide open affair as Milwaukee beat Detroit 6-5 in 10 innings, Baltimore and New York split, with the Orioles winning the nightcap 9-6 after losing 4-0, and Boston bombed Cleveland 8-3. Milwaukee leads the East by a game over the Orioles, Yanks and Red Sox while the Tigers and Indians are a game and a half and two games back, respectively.

Minnesota beat Kansas City 5-0 and Texas whipped Oakland 7-2, in the league's only other action.

In the National League, New York beat Pittsburgh 6-4, Chicago took two from Philadelphia 4-2 and 9-3, St. Louis nipped Montreal 3-2, San Diego beat Atlanta 6-4 but the Braves came back to win the second game 6-2, Cincinnati shut out Houston 2-0 and Los Angeles drubbed San Francisco 15-3.

Dave May hit his second home run of the game and ninth this season on John Hiller's first pitch of the 10th inning to give the Brewers the victory over Detroit in a game protested by Tiger manager Billy Martin.

Larry Brown's two-run homer capped a four run fifth inning to boost the Baltimore Orioles to a split of their doubleheader after the Yankees slugged four homers to win the opener.

TENNIS

baby, since he won Forest Hills twice and Wimbledon a few years before Margaret, now the mother of one, was born.

On the more serious side of tennis, Smith was devastatingly accurate and powerful in his $50,000 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 victory over Arthur Ashe in the World Championship Tennis finals in Dallas.

Smith breezed through the first two sets by continually blasting cross-court shots past Ashe, who was plagued by inaccurate shots near the net. At one point Ashe was so digusted at his repeated low shots that he uncharacteristically threw his racquet to the ground.

Ashe regained his poise, however, and defeated Smith with strong backhand strokes and fine net play. The two players battled each other to 4-4 in the fourth set and after Smith moved into game-set on his own serve, Ashe had him down 40-15.

Two critical and highly controversial judgements then clinched the game for Smith, who has won $154,100 on the WCT tour this year. First Smith appealed Ashe's serve, claiming it was wide and to the right. After the judge said he didn't see the shot, the line judge on Ashe's side of the net ruled that Ashe had faulted. Ashe then missed the second serve for the double fault.

With the game now at match-point, Ashe hit a soft crosscourt shot to Smith's forehand and the 6-foot 4 blond lunged to hit it just before it bounced the second time. Ashe, surprised that no call was made, retreated hastily for the return but drove the ball into the net.

Weiskopf Glad, Sad With Win

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf must have felt like somebody who had been remembered generously in his rich uncle's will. He was glad to have the money, but he wasn't too delighted with the way he got it.

"It was kind of a sickening thing to watch," said Weiskopf. "But I don't want to be a hypocrite. I'm glad I won."

"I'm not a choker," said Bruce Crampton. "you can say whatever you want, but I'm not a choker. I've won 13 tournaments."

Crampton, who had led for the past six rounds on the PGA tour and who had won three tournaments this year to move into the No. 1 money winning spot, lost the Colonial National Invitation Sunday by the simple means of making a double bogey on the final hole.

Weiskopf, who watched the whole gruesome episode from beside the 18th green, was made a gift of $30,000 and his first tour title since winning the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic last year.

Crampton came to the final hole with a one-stroke lead over Weiskopf after a pressure-filled back nine.

The 18th is the same hole where he dumped two shots in the water 11 years ago to cost him the tournament, resulting in Colonial Country Club officials naming the pond alongside the 18th green in his honor.

Crampton duck hooked his tee shot into the left rough behind a stand of trees and in a pile of rocks. He tried to chip into the fairway with his sand wedge, but succeeded only in breaking his club and sending his shot through the fairway into the opposite rough.

From there, 200 yards from the green, Crampton put his third shot in the long trap alongside the left of the green. With no sand wedge to use Crampton pulled out his pitching wedge and left his shot 25 feet from the hole. He missed his putt.

That left him with a 73 for the day—breaking a streak of 10 straight rounds of par golf or better—and a 72-hole total of 277 to tie him with Jerry Heard for second place. Each won $13,875.

Lee Elder finished in fourth place at 278 for $7,050 and Julius Boros came in fifth with an even par 280 to take home $6,150. Napa's Ron Cerrudo took home $394 for his 292.

RODNICK, KINSER IN NET DEFEAT

SARATOGA — The College of Marin team of Mark Rodnick and Bill Kinser reached the finals of the Northern California championships Saturday, but was defeated by Randy Marks and John Hursh of Canada College of Redwood City, 7-5, 6-1.

To reach the finals, the Marin duo defeated Kurt Neilson and Bruce Winn of College of the Sequoias from Visalia, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5, earlier Saturday at West Valley College's new facilities here.

Marin scored eight points in the tournament to tie for fourth place in the team standings. Canada won with 26.

Rodnick and Kinser, who improved on their showing in the previous week's Camino Norte Conference tourney, when they were ousted in the semis, will get another chance beginning Friday in the state championships at Canada.

U.S. Davis Cup Team Is Optimistic

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The U.S. Davis Cup tennis team will return home from its 4-1 victory over Mexico in the North American Zone final optimistic about its chances to beat Chile — and happy about the prospect of playing on its own courts for the first time in 2½ years.

Erik Van Dillen, 22, of San Mateo, Calif., who with Tom Gorman won the doubles match of the series Saturday against Raul Ramirez and Vicente Zarazua, said he thought the team's possibilities of defeating the South American Zone finalist were "very good."

"We beat them 5-0 last year in their country," Van Dillen said of the 972 series against Chile.

Mexico's only victory in the series here came when Ramirez downed top-ranked Tom Gorman, 27, of Seattle, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

In the first singles match Friday, Harold Solomon, 20, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., upset No. 1 Mexican Joaquin Loyo-Mayo 7-5, 6-4, 7-5.

The United States went on to win the doubles match 7-5, 12-14, 6-3, 6-4, and the two singles matches Sunday. Solomon beat Ramirez 8-6, 7-5, 7-5, and Dick Stockton, 22, of Port Washington, N.Y., downed Luis Baraldi 2-6, 6-1, 6-3, 9-6.

Terra Linda In Baseball Win

Relief pitcher Mark Collischonn, entering with the bases loaded and nobody out in the sixth inning, retired the next five batters to preserve Terra Linda High School's 4-1 Marin County Athletic League baseball victory over Marin Catholic Saturday night at Albert Field.

The triumph was Terra Linda's third straight and moved the Trojans into a third place tie with San Rafael at 7-5. The Wildcats are 5-6.

Terra Linda scored three times in the second inning on a wild pitch, a bases-loaded walk to Dan Walsh and an infield single by Lee Peterson, and added another in the fourth on Buck McCusker's sacrifice fly.

The Trojans were handcuffed afterwards by 'Cat reliever Mike Haas, who struck out seven and allowed four hits and no runs in 4⅔ innings.

SCHEDULE

Marin To Host Big Track Meet

College of Marin will host the most prestigious track and field event ever held in the county, the Northern California junior college championships, Saturday at 11 a.m. on its all-weather track in Kentfield.

Confident but wary Terra Linda High School (now 9-1) will face what is regarded as the last remaining major hurdle towards a Marin County Athletic League golf championship Thursday when the Trojans visit Peacock Gap Country Club to play San Rafael (8-2), which is tied for second with Novato.

San Rafael was the only team to beat Terra Linda in league or non-league matches this year, achieving a 201-208 victory April 24.

MCAL track stars who qualified Saturday will participate in the North Coast Section Division III meet in Santa Rosa Friday. Other post-season competition finds certain College of Marin golfers in the Northern California championships today and a Tar tennis doubles team in the state championships Friday and Saturday.

The MCAL baseball season will conclude this week. Redwood already has clinched the championship.

Twin Bill Is Divided By Sonoma

Sonoma State College concluded its finest baseball season Saturday with a doubleheader split with visiting Far Western Conference foe San Francisco State. The Cossacks won the opener, 5-4, with a three-run seventh inning rally, but dropped the nightcap, 8-0.

The split gave the Cossacks a 9-9 final FWC mark, good for a third place finish, three and one-half games behind University of California, Davis (12-5), which has one game remaining. Overall Sonoma finished at 20-21.

John Papadakis started the Cossacks' rally in the opener with a pinch-hit single to right. Bob Sutherland forced him at second, but Paul Zinn was walked, putting runners at first and second. Wayne Bauers then hit a double to score Sutherland and Craig Estes was walked intentionally to load the bases. Gordon MacLachlin proved the Gators' strategy wrong by singling to left field to score Bauers and Zinn with the winning runs.

IN ABA PLAY

Happy Pacers Celebrate Title

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The champagne flowed freely in the Indiana Pacers' dressing room Saturday after they won their second straight American Basketball Association championship and third in four-years by defeating the Kentucky Colonels 88-81.

Among those getting the traditional toss in the showers were Indiana Coach Bob Leonard, his wife and second year pro George McGinnis, the star of the seven-game series.

"This one was so sweet because it is hard to motivate a club to repeat as titlist," a dripping-wet Leonard said. "We just kept coming back at them and used good defense and rebounding."

McGinnis, who has now collected two championship rings in two years since jumping to the pros after his sophomore season at Indiana University, also picked up an automobile Saturday after being named the Most Valuable Player in the series.

"I'm proud of everybody—this was a team victory," McGinnis said. "We had the experience and I thought we would win all along."

The 6-foot-8 McGinnis had a game high 27 points Saturday, including 13 in the third quarter when Indiana broke open a close game with a 17-4 spree.

Kentucky, which lost for the third time in the seven-game series on its home floor, scored an ABA playoff low of 11 points during the quarter as the Pacers expanded a one-point halftime lead to 14 at the start of the fourth quarter.

"I think the same thing happened to them that happened to us the other night," Leonard said, referring to when Kentucky tied the series 3-3 with a 109-93 win at Indianapolis. "They appeared tense when they came out, just like we were in Indianapolis."

Boxer Lyle Shows He's Learning

DENVER (UPI) — Ron Lyle learned a couple of months ago it was the last 30 seconds of each round that counted. Saturday night Lyle made the most of that half-minute enroute to a narrow but unanimous decision over Argentine boxer Gregorio Peralta.

"When I fought (Jerry) Quarry in February they said he outpunched me five to one, but he didn't," said Lyle. "Quarry impressed the judges by going pretty good for the final thirty seconds. That's what I did against Peralta."

Quarry was a turning point in Lyle's career. After 19 straight wins as a pro, Quarry was the first boxer to beat Lyle. Since that 12-round decision in New York, Lyle, who owns 17 knockouts, has decisions over veterans Bob Stallings and Peralta, a 38-year-old boxer with a record of 91-9-8.

Lyle appeared to have Peralta on his way down several times, but on all but one occasion—in the fifth— Peralta was able to retaliate with powerful combinations and fight his way back into the bout.

Hamilton Boxers Lose In Boston

In other fights at Hynes Auditorium, James Chapman of the Pacific Region decisioned Verbie Garland of Ohio in the heavyweight class; D.C. Barker of the Rocky Mountain AAU knocked out Leon Spinks of the Ozark Area at 2:20 of the first round; and Bill Tuttle of Ohio outpointed Odell Davis of North Carolina in the 147-pound division.

Salinas Golf Pair Wins 4-Ball Title

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Mike Brannan and Jim Lathum, both of Salinas, Calif., hit a 3-under-par 69 Sunday to take first place in the Northern California Golf Association Four-Ball Championship.

Brannan, 17, and Lathum, 29, had a three day total of 209, or seven under par, to win the tournament at Spyglass Hill.

Grounds was becoming rough and tough during the '50's and finally Stoneham packed up his Giants and moved to San Francisco.

If the Giants return from this road trip still in first place the crowds will most likely pick up, many of the non-believers perhaps taking the club more seriously. Perhaps many of the missing are waiting until June comes and goes. After June, when the time for swooning is past, the skeptics will really think the Giants are for real.

SONOMA SLATE

Rancho '9' Seeks Undisputed Title

Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park, which clinched a tie for its third consecutive Sonoma County League baseball crown Friday with a 7-3 victory over Healdsburg, can gain the title outright tomorrow with a win over visiting Analy of Sebastopol.

With an 8-2 mark, the Cougars have a two-game edge over Analy, El Molino of Forestville and Healdsburg, all with 6-4 records. Friday, they complete their league season at home against El Molino.

The local high school golf season will close with a grand finale Friday when Rancho Cotate stages its third annual golf invitational at the Rohnert Park Municipal Golf Course.

Twenty schools from San Francisco to Ukiah will be entered in the tournament, with Terra Linda, Marin Catholic, Novato and San Marin representing Marin County along with Petaluma from Southern Sonoma.

Local track and field performers have their last hurdle to the North Coast Sectionals Saturday when Petaluma High hosts the Division III finals at Santa Rosa Junior College.

Petaluma has seven athletes participating in the meet, with North Bay Leage 220-yard champ Jose Martinez heading the list. Also competing for the Trojans will be Jon Sisler in the mile and two-mile, Mike Stauber in the mile, Dan Aldridge in the 880-yard, Larry David in the hurdles, Mike Johnson in the shot put, and Rick Walker in the long jump.

Falcons Peddle Berry

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Falcons today gave up starting quarterback Bob Berry and next winter's No. 1 draft choice to acquire quarterback-punter Bob Lee and linebacker Lonnie Warwick from the Minnesota Vikings in a National Football League trade.

The 31-year-old Berry had been the Falcons No. 1 quarterback the past five seasons and ranked second in the NFC and fourth in the overall NFL in passing last season.

However, Falcon coach Norm Van Brocklin had indicated that he planned to use Pat Sullivan, a second year man who played very little as a rookie last season, as starting quarterback in 1973. Sullivan, then at Auburn, won the Heisman Trophy in 1971.

Lee, a fifth-year man who saw very little action last season as a backup man to Fran Tarkenton, and Warwick, a 240-pounder going into his eighth season, had both played out their options and were actually signed by the Falcons as free agents.

Thompson Pitches Softball No-Hitter

Rich Thompson pitched a no-hitter and struck out nine batters Saturday to give Red Hill Shell a 3-0 victory over not-so Jolly Roger in a San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball game at Albert Field.

In other games, Jerry Roberts hit a home run and Rich's Ready Mix rallied for six runs with two out in the first inning to give Image its first loss of the year, 12-10; the Spinners beat McPhail's, 11-9; Mike's Bar and Grill topped Round Table, 6-3; Charcoal Pit topped Marin Landscape, 8-5; Mona II whipped La Fargue, 15-2; and the Boozers-Hummers game was postponed due to Mother's Day.

Sunday Racing At Albany A 'Success'

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Dick Murphy, general manager of Golden Gate Fields, called the track's first Sunday racing program "a definite success," but added he expects things to be much better next weekend.

The first Sunday race card drew a crowd of 11,099 paying fans and an estimated 3,500 children who got in free.

Murphy said the labor dispute, which forced cancellation of Sunday racing a week earlier and wasn't settled until midweek, and the fact that it was Mother's Day probably kept the crowd under the 18,000 capacity.

"The real test will come next Sunday," he said.

The total mutuel handle Sunday was $1,155,206.

Sleek and Fleet, ridden by A. L. Diaz, won the feature $20,000 Linda Chica Stakes in a time of 1:45 for a mile and sixteenth on the turf.

Racing resumes today, Tuesdays and Wednesdays will be the off-days the rest of the meeting under the new schedule.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Indians Could Have Had Better Description For Ingrown Toenail

The ingrown toenail was misnamed. I recall Dr. Felix Jansey saying that the term suggests a faulty nail that decided to grow or dig into the flesh, leading to pain and infection. Actually, the nail is normal and healthy.

The disorder should have been given an old-fashioned Indian name, such as Nail-Corner-Cut-Short and Flesh-Pushed-Up. These terms are more descriptive of what happens and are useful when considering prevention and treatment.

THE MOST common cause is cutting the toenails to make them look like fingernails. A space remains at the edge when the corner of the nail is rounded out to make the curve. The space fills in with soft tissue that is pushed up whenever weight is borne on the involved toe. The flesh may also be crowded by pressure from ill-fitting shoes or the adjacent toe.

Meanwhile, the toenail continues to grow and, in time, the cut edge digs into the raised soft tissue. Nail tissue is hard and irritates the flesh, leading to inflammation, swelling, and infection.

It is here that the second mistake occurs. The area is sore and the individual trims the nail to relieve pain. This is of temporary value, because permanent relief cannot be obtained until the nail grows over the exposed soft tissue. In some instances, this is accomplished by inserting cotton under the nail until it has grown out completely. Soaking and ointments also ease discomfort. More often than not, however, surgery is required.

THE EASIEST, but not necessarily the best, is to anesthetize the toe and remove the entire nail. Other procedures include excising the raised flesh or removing the edge of the nail including the root. The latter results in a narrower nail. Prevention is much better and is done by cutting the nails straight across. Don't forget — buy shoes that fit.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

LUMP IN THROAT

N. D. writes: What is the cause of globus hystericus? Is there a cure?

REPLY

This is a nervous disorder in which the muscles of the neck tighten and produce the sensation of having a "lump in the throat." If a thorough examination has ruled out disease, cure occurs when the individual understands the psychogenic nature of the sensation and learns to ignore it.

EAR SURGERY

N. K. writes: My doctor wants me to have an ear operation. I'm 29 and quite hard of hearing. Do you think I should have the operation or wear a hearing aid?

REPLY

Follow the advice of your physician. If you have otosclerosis, you alwyas can resort to the use of a hearing aid, if surgery is not successful. But the results of this operation are excellent so the chance of your needing a hearing aid is practically nil.

LEUKEMIA

REPLY

A person either has or does not have leukemia. The disease usually is referred to as acute or chronic plus the name of the predominant cell type. It is true that some types are less virulent than others and those that progress slowly could be called low grade. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on leukemia.

In 1904, the Olympic games were held in the United States for the first time — in St. Louis.

In 1942, Congress established the WAAC, the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, for World War II duty.

In 1969, President Nixon proposed withdrawal of all American, allied and North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. The Communists rejected the proposal.

In 1970, two black students were killed and nine injured when police opened fire on the campus of Jackson State College in Mississippi.

A thought for the day: British novelist George Meredith said, "A witty woman is a treasure — a witty beauty is a power."

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Hearing Scheduled On Impact Report

Marin County supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will consider the adequacy of the environmental impact report for the proposed permanent site of the Renaissance Pleasure Faire and village.

The impact report was accepted by the county's environmental protection committee but was appealed by the county of Sonoma.

Sonoma officials claim, among other things, they were not propertly notified of the impact report for the permanent site, located on the Veronda Ranch property at the Marin-Sonoma county line north of Novato.

The board also will hear a request from the Marin City council that Arthur Miller Jr., a member of the county housing authority board, be replaced.

The council, which represents public housing tenants; maintains Miller was selected for the board because he lived in Marin City but recently moved to Tiburon and should be removed and a Marin City resident selected.

Query Made Of Budget Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., wants to know whether, and on what terms Roy L. Ash sold about 250,000 shares of Litton Industries stock after he resigned as president of that firm to become federal budget director.

Aspin said yesterday that the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has notified Ash he must file appropriate documents on such a sale.

Lebanese Politicos Shun Meeting On Emergency

BEIRUT (UPI) — Members of Parliament today shunned a special session called to extend a state of emergency that was proclaimed at the height of clashes between government troops and Palestinian guerrillas. Beirut Radio said their absence meant an extension anyway, despite a halt in fighting.

There have been no reports of clashes in Lebanon since Saturday night and the armed forces have reported the country quiet since then. It was the first sustained peace since the fighting broke out May 2.

More than 300 persons, including soldiers, guerrillas and civilians were reported killed in the 11 days of fighting.

The 99-member assembly was called into special session for a meeting today, but it was canceled when only 29 members showed up.

The meeting was called to decide whether to continue the state of emergency imposed by Premier Amin Hafez last Monday. Hafez submitted his resignation the next day.

Press reports said political leaders had reached a behindthe-scenes agreement to remain away from the meeting, allowing the state of emergency to continue until President Suleiman Franjieh names a new premier.

High-ranking representatives of the army and the guerrillas opened new talks over the weekend aimed at what official sources described as a "coexistence treaty" defining the terms under which guerrillas will be permitted to operate in Lebanon.

To Perform Tonight

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
42,000 miles / 40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00
